Battle Outcome Still Undecided

MGR. DELLA CHIESA POPE BENEDICT XV

Rome, Sept. 3.—Cardinal Giacomo Della Chiesa, archbishop of Bologna, Italy, was today elected supreme pontiff of the Catholic hierarchy in succession to the late Pope Pius X, who died August 20.

He will reign under the name of Benedict XV.

The conclave sacred college, whose duty it is to elect the pope, went into session the evening of Monday, August 31. The announcement of the outcome of its deliberations was made this morning shortly after 11 o'clock.

Two Did Not Arrive.

Cardinal Gibbons, of Baltimore, and Cardinal O'Connell, of Boston, are on board the steamer Canopic, which is not due at Naples until tomorrow. They were on their way to attend the conclave. Consequently neither of them participated in the election of the new pope. Cardinal Farley, of New York, reached here several days ago.

Prince Chigi-Albani, one of the assistants to the throne in the pope's household, was notified at a quarter past 11 that Cardinal Della Chiesa had been elected.

At twenty minutes past 11 Monsignor Misciatelli, sub-prefect of the sacred palaces and governor of the conclave, received a communication from the new pope asking that the gratings of the basilica of St. Peter be opened, because he proposed in a short time to issue his proclamation. At this same hour—eleven twenty—the master of ceremonies appeared on the central balcony of St. Peter's and spread out the red carpet. The crowd below, which had been

American Embassy Remains as Government Moves to Bordeaux.

Paris Feels Keenly German Approach and Prepares for Eventualities.

Paris, Sept. 3.—11:40 a. m.—President Poincare and his cabinet have gone to Bordeaux, the new French seat of government, where they arrive in the morning.

The diplomatic corps, excepting the embassy of the United States, accompanies the government to Bordeaux. The American ambassador, Myron T. Herrick, has decided to remain in Paris and this course has been warmly commended by the ministry of foreign affairs because the representative of the most powerful neutral government will be able should the occasion arise, to serve the French as well as his own people.

Reasons for Remaining.

Mr. Herrick's reasons for remaining, in substance are that he can better look after the several thousand Americans who stay in Paris. They are principally permanent residents in business or persons of moderate means unable to leave conveniently. He also feels that he can better protect American business interests among them several American banks and agencies with deposits of Americans. These would have trans-

GEN. GALLEINI PLANS A DESPERATE STAND

Paris, Sept. 3.—3:05 p. m.—It is officially announced that Gen. Gallieni, commander of the army defending the city, today issued the following proclamation to the inhabitants of Paris:

"The members of the government of the republic have left Paris in order to give a new impetus to the defense of the nation. I have been ordered to defend Paris against the invaders. This order I will fulfill to the end.

"GALLIENI,
"Military Governor of Paris, Commanding the Army of Paris."

A dispatch to the Havas agency from Amsterdam says the American minister to the Netherlands, Dr. Henry Van Dyke, has sent to Washington a long report upon the alleged German atrocities in Belgium.

Situation in Belgium.

A Havas agency dispatch from Antwerp contains the following official announcement by the Belgian government:

"The situation remains the same in the provinces of Antwerp and Limbourg. The Germans have set fire to several sets of farm buildings. M. Merchten, attache at the Russian embassy, confirms the report of the destruction of Lansberg, Cessel and Beschofsheim by Russian cavalry and also that they have broken the lines of the enemy between Heilsberg, (east Prussia, forty miles south of Koenigsberg,) and Koenigsberg."

One of the German aeroplanes of the Taube type, which recently dropped bombs on the city of Paris, has been brought down. The two German aviators on board were killed.

RUSSIANS CONTINUE TO WIN.

Czar's Forces Score Success After Success Over Austrians.

London, Sept. 3.—The Petrograd correspondent of the Post sends the following on the operations on the Russian front:

"Russia is scoring success after success against Austria and is momentarily expecting news of a signal victory.

"The commander-in-chief on the Austrian front apparently plans to drive in strongly with one army from the east, starting from the Russian provinces adjoining Rumania, and in the meantime merely aims to restrain the Austrian advances into the Polish provinces, thus keeping Austria on the alert along the line of two to three hundred miles.

"While pushing temporary advances in South Poland the Russians were forcing their way westward from Podolia and Bessarabia upon Lemberg. When the Austrians finally realized these plans they attempted to turn the Russian flank near Hallic near the junction of the Gnita Lipa river with the Dniester and a sanguinary fight took place there two days ago. The Austrians were signally defeated, losing 5,000 killed and many prisoners, including one general, 32 guns, a standard and quantities of supplies.

"Apparently the progress of the southern Russian army from Podolia in Galicia has been a series of fights on an increasing scale until a third river, known as the Foul Lipa, was reached. The fight for the possession of the valley of the foul Lipa was severe. The Austrians had realized the strength of the Russians and had strongly fortified a naturally formidable position. This was carried after an obstinate fight.

BRUDER WRITES FROM GERMANY

Says He Can't Leave But He is Well and Also Happy.

In a letter to employes of his jewelry store in this city August Bruder, writing from Waldkirch, Germany, where he is detained because of the war in Europe, says he has made several attempts to leave Germany, but that women and children are being given first bookings on the steamships leaving for America, and that he does not know now when he will be able to leave the war stricken country.

He wrote the letter in the German script, saying that he did not dare write in English, because of the censorship, and that if any in Fort Wayne intended to write him it must be in German, and the letter dare not be sealed.

Mr. Bruder's letter, however, was in an optimistic vein, and he closed by declaring that he was still in the land of the living, feeling well and extremely happy. He added that he wanted to have the Fort Wayne daily newspapers sent to him. He said he had several conferences with Consul Koehl.

He tried to leave Germany on the Holland-American line some time ago, but was unsuccessful, and at the time of his writing, August 17, he daily expected a letter from the steamship offices giving him some encouragement as to passage to the United States. Among other things he asks that his friends send him postcards or letters and says he will leave for home at the first opportunity.

50 KILLED IN A RIOT ON STEAMER

New York, Sept. 3.—A riot aboard the German steamer Bluecher, at anchor in the harbor of Perambuco, Brazil, in which three of the Bluecher's crew and 50 of her 800 steerage passengers were killed, was described today by passengers aboard the Brazilian steamer Sao Paulo upon her arrival here from Brazilian ports whence she sailed at the commencement of the European war.

Paris, Sept. 3.—Reports are in circulation here that one of the German aeroplanes, which hovered over Paris yesterday, had been brought down at Chamigny. Several bombs were dropped while the German machines were

WORRIED NOW ABOUT TURKEY

Washington, Sept. 3.—State department officials today admitted their apprehension over the situation in Turkey. For three days there has not been a single cablegram from Ambassador Morgenthau. As the situation grew acute a week ago, he communicated full details of the diplomatic crisis and kept in constant touch on matters of funds for Americans.

The belief prevailed that cable communication either had been interrupted or restricted on account of the gravity of the political situation. A declaration of war by Turkey on Great Britain is expected in many quarters here though the Turkish ambassador declares he has been without advices for several days and will not predict what course his country will take.

TENNESSEE HAS REACHED HAVRE

London, Sept. 3.—2:20 p. m.—The American embassy has been advised of the arrival of the American cruiser Tennessee at Havre, where she will supply funds to hundreds of Americans who are trying to leave France by that port, now that the northern ports have been closed because of the German advance. The embassy today sent a messenger with funds to relieve 200 Americans stranded at Ostend.

Ambassador Page received Mme. Emile Vandervelde, secretary of the new university of Brussels and wife of one of the Belgian commissioners who are proceeding to Washington to describe alleged violations of Germans of the international law conventions.

GERMAN FORCES CAPTURE AMIENS

London, Sept. 3.—2:55 p. m.—A dispatch from Amiens, France, to the Daily Mail, dated Tuesday, September 1, declares that the Germans have taken possession of Amiens after three days' fighting.

Amiens is the capital of the department of Somme. It is seventy miles directly north of Paris. It is a manufacturing city and has a population of 90,000. It is on the line of the railroad to Boulogne and about fifty miles to

WHEN AIRSHIPS RAIDED ANTWERP

London, Sept. 3.—7 p. m.—The Antwerp correspondent of the Central News describes the second aerial raid upon Antwerp by a German Zeppelin, which he said occurred just before dawn. The bombardment he explained demonstrated from a military point of view the futility of the Germans' efforts to do any damage of importance. His description of the aerial bombardment follows:

"I was awakened by a rattle of rifle fire from neighboring roofs and the crash of exploding bombs. Hurriedly descending I was just in time to see the airship disappearing southward at a tremendous height. There was incessant rattle of shots from rifles and machine guns from the darkened town and shrapnel could be seen exploding like meteorites in the trail of the flying marauder. All around from points of vantage on the high buildings spurts of flames indicated the efforts of the firers to bring down the hated Zeppelin.

"It is believed the Zeppelin drifted over the city with the aid of a brisk easterly wind so that with her engines almost silent she was able to get near enough to the city to begin work unopposed. There was no panic in the city, the people remaining in doors until dawn, when they gathered in small groups on the street corners to discuss the outrage.

KURRIE IS NEW HEAD OF MONON

Chicago, Sept. 3.—Harry R. Kurrie, of Chicago, was elected president of the Monon railroad at a meeting of the directors held in New York. Announcement was made at headquarters here today.

Mr. Kurrie, who succeeds to the office held until recently by Frederic A. Delano, who resigned to become a member of the federal reserve board, is one of the youngest railroad presidents in the United States, being but 39 years of age. The main lines of the Monon are in Indiana and for the first time in the history of the road a native of that state becomes its head. Mr. Kurrie entered the employment of the road in 1902 as assistant general solicitor. In 1911 he was made general attorney of the company and was promoted to

WILL DELIVER HIS OWN PLEA

Wilson Going in Person to Congress to Ask War Tax Measure.

TO ADDRESS JOINT SESSION TOMORROW

President May Not Receive the Belgium Protest Commission.

Washington, Sept. 3.—President Wilson will appear before a joint session of congress tomorrow afternoon at 12:30 o'clock to ask for a war tax measure to raise $100,000,000 annually.

This announcement was made today following a visit of Democratic Leader Underwood to the white house. In his message the president will not advise means of raising the money.

The president completed his address and showed it today to Mr. Underwood. Mr. Underwood believes the war tax is necessary to keep the treasury in a strong condition and make it unnecessary to call in funds advanced to banks. He will ask congress to provide for obtaining the $100,000,000 in a way which will be felt least by the people of the country.

Protests Not Yet Received.

It was said at the white house today that protests against dropping of bombs by German air craft have not been received yet by the president and it was indicated that the president will take no action upon them. The president may not receive the Belgium commission which is coming to protest. The

DROWNS IN RIVER AFTER ASCENSION

Mrs. Lillian Clark Wood is Carried Into Stream by Parachute.

Mrs. Lillian Clark Wood, aged twenty-two years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Clark, 448 West DeWald street, drowned in St. Joseph's river late Wednesday afternoon after having made a balloon ascension with a friend, Walter Wells, and a parachute drop from an altitude of 3,000 feet at Robison park.

WALTER WELLS,
Aeronaut Who Made Ascension With Young Woman Who Lost Life.

With Wells the young woman was strapped to the balloon and they made a beautiful ascension. At a signal fired by a revolver, Mrs. Wood cut loose and the wind carried her parachute directly above the stream. Unable to rid herself of the parachute the young lady drowned before help could reach her. It was her first experience as an aeronaut.

ALLIES FALLING BACK IN TITANIC STRUGGLE

London, Sept. 3.—The battle to decide whether history will repeat itself in a second siege of Paris is still in progress, according to the latest official announcement here.

Future military historians will write volumes about the details of this battle, but all the British public knows officially concerning the titanic struggle—the most momentous British soldiers have fought since Waterloo—is contained in one sentence of an official report issued last night by the press bureau.

"Continuous fighting has been in progress along almost the whole line of battle."

To this generally the French official communication adds the fact that the allied forces have fallen back toward the southwest to avoid an action which might have been engaged under unfavorable conditions.

Much is Unknown.

How far and to what point line the allies have gone is unknown. There can be no revelation of military secrets, nothing which a patriotic censorship could criticize, in stating these facts, because the German army, which is engaging the allies, knows precisely where their first line is drawn, and the purpose of the censorship is only to suppress facts which might enlighten the enemy.

The brief official bulletin of last night is the first word the British people have received from their government concerning the present battle. The last previous bulletin was Field Marshal Kitchener's statement issued Sunday,

Still Without a Decisive Result

The absence of official announcements from the capitals of the belligerents today is the first indication that the fighting in the east and west continues without recisive results.

Such news dispatches as escaped the censors tend to confirm earlier official claims and admissions. The Germans are pushing their right wing nearer Paris while their center and left appear to be held by the French.

Russia is pressing forward in the Austrian province of Galicia after having taken the strongly fortified capital Lemberg.

The Germans are admittedly victorious in East Prussia.

The Japanese are said to have occupied seven islands near Kiau Chow and to have landed additional troops within marching distance of that German stronghold in the face of protests by China.

King Nicholas of Montenegro is reported as determined to occupy Scutari.

The governor and other German officials of Samoa have been made prisoners by the British and sent to the Fiji islands.

DASHING CHARGE WAS LIKE NEW BALAKLAVA

London, Sept. 3.—The Daily Mail's correspondent behind the British lines describes the charge of the Ninth lancers, which occurred at an unnamed spot during the recent series of tactical retreats as a second Balaklara. He says:

"Terrible havoc had been caused in our ranks by shells from a battery of eleven German guns posted inside a fort near the Belgian frontier.

"It seemed impossible to silence their fire until the Ninth Lancers made their attempt, riding straight at the guns after debouching into the open and charging under a hail of melinite and lyddite.

"I have not been able to get reliable figures as to the distance they rode, but they reached their goal. Nothing could stop them. They reached the guns, killed the gunners and put the guns out of action. Then, like their prototypes of Balaklava, they rode back.

"On the return they fell in greater numbers still from the attack of other German batteries, posted at vantage points around the valley.

"Notable bayonet charges were made at ——— (name deleted) on Wednesday last.

"Several British infantry regiments occupied an exposed position around which the Germans gradually circled, drawing the noose closer.

"The Britishers decided to cut their way through the cordon. So the men went at it, yelling and shouting, and got through, although the German artillery mowed them down frightfully.

"The German machine guns have been tremendously effective in all engagements thus far. Men who saw the South African war say the hottest firing there was childish compared with what the British troops have undergone since their arrival in France. So far as I can learn thus far the Germans have lost twenty-six of these guns."

Saturday, and which reflected the greatest credit on the generalship and discipline of the British army.

Three Million Frenchmen.

Three million Frenchmen are under arms to defend Paris. They still have confidence in the ultimate result of the war.

The list of killed, wounded and missing British officers from the crack regiments which were engaged in the four days' battle of last week brings mourning to many noble and aristocratic homes. This, however, is the price of war which the country appears willing to pay.

The prince of Wales fund for the relief of suffering is now over $10,000,000.

Recruiting in Great Britain has reached vast proportions in the past fortnight.

In spite of the fact that the French capital has been removed to Bordeaux and that the German army of the west is within thirty miles of the outer fortifications of Paris, a strange air of confidence prevails today among the allies. The general feeling seems to be that the German attack is wearing itself out in hammering away at the allied lines, which give but do not break.

Paris Soon to Be Pivot.

President Poincare has issued a proclamation to his people telling them that military necessity alone has led him to remove his government to Bordeaux. Military experts agree that Paris will soon be the pivot of the hostile forces operating in the area of the west. Even the downfall of the French capital is not expected to end these operations.

The feeling of confidence was greatly increased by the news of the great victory of the Russians in Galicia. Reports from Petrograd tell of the entry of Russians into Lemberg, the capital of Galicia. These appear credible as news of the defeat of the Austrians in that district has been received from several sources.

One of the Greatest.

The battle of Lemberg was one of the greatest ever fought. Evidently it resulted in a decisive and perhaps overwhelming defeat of the Austrians. The battle line extended over 200 miles and it is estimated that 1,500,000 men were engaged.

According to an official dispatch received by Emperor Nicholas from Grand Duke Nicholas, commander-in-chief of the Russian forces, the victory was won after seven days of fighting. The climax came when the Austrians were routed in a final desperate assault on the Russian center, which was held by General Ruzsky.

The Austrian army in Galicia was acting in close co-operation with two German army corps facing Breslau and waiting to envelop the Russian forces in Poland. Their plans, however, met with a series of disasters ending in a complete rout when an attempt was made to pierce the Russian center.

The Line in the West.

Lafere, one of the weaker of the French fortresses, evidently is in the hands of the Germans. Farther east and north the allied armies apparently held their own in the neighborhood of Loan and Rethel (24 miles northeast of Rheims). The right of the allies rests on the fortified Franco-German frontier.

The names of the British who fell in the four days' battle last week will not be announced until they have been communicated to relatives. The heavy loss of officers in proportion to the men is the story of South Africa over again. It indicates that the officers refused to take cover as they insist that the men shall.

The west coast of Belgium and the west coast of northern France are free from Germans. Many Americans are crossing the channel to the continent determined to see something of the war at any risk.

from the city and a pulmotor was used for more than a half hour in an effort to resuscitate her, but all efforts to save her life were fruitless. Wells cut away from the balloon in his parachute almost simultaneously with Mrs. Wood and landed safely on the west shore of the river.

Father Was Absent.

The young woman made the ascension against the wishes of her mother. Her father, a conductor on the Nickel Plate railroad, was out of the city on one of his regular runs between Fort Wayne and Cleveland, and knew nothing of his daughter's sad end until he arrived home from his work.

Mrs. Wood had always been adventuresome, according to relatives, and she had made a number of trips in an aeroplane at Toledo, but she had frequently expressed a desire to ride a balloon and was apparently happy that through the courtesy of William Crowl, owner of the balloon, she was permitted to make the trip Wednesday.

She was also athletically inclined and was the possessor of a medal, awarded her for championship in a shooting tournament in Ohio some time ago, when, with expert marksmen as her opponents, she made a score of 97 out of a possible 100 shots. She was widely known about Fort Wayne and her hundreds of friends were sorrowfully shocked when informed of her death.

Thinks It Heart Disease.

Aeronaut Wells, who made the ascent with Mrs. Woods, believes that the young woman's death was due to heart disease and not drowning, and that death had intervened before she alighted in the water.

"She had commented on her enjoyment of the trip while we were in the air," said Mr. Wells, "and I had given her careful instructions as to cutting her parachute loose and especially warned her of the sudden drop that would follow its release. I believe it was this shock that resulted in her death. She was in the water less than three minutes and lay face downward."

Helped Take Census.

Mrs. Wood was employed by the government in 1910 as one of the official census takers in Fort Wayne. She and her mother were both engaged for the enumeration. Deputy United States Clerk Thomas J. Logan, in discussing the tragedy Thursday morning, says she was a bright and intellectual young woman and was the youngest census enumerator employed in Fort Wayne.

Mrs. Wood was a member of the Calvary United Brethren church, of Mad Anthony hive No. 27, L. O. T. M., and of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, No. 436.

TELLS OF GREAT THINKER BERGSON

Dr. T. H. Marshall in Address at Teachers' Institute.

In an address delivered at the Thursday morning's session of the Allen County Teachers' institute held at the high school auditorium, Dr. Troword H. Marshall, of Dayton, Ohio, told of the great French thinker, Bergson, who now dominates the thought of much of Europe.

The speaker pointed out how Bergson's influence has grown until it affects all French life. The people now talk of Bergsonian art, Bergsonian literature, Bergsonian theology and even of a Bergsonian labor movement. Dr. Marshall gaev the principal features of the Bergsonian philosophy and so simplified the abstract teaching of the great Frenchman that the entire audience was able to understand him. The speaker emphasized Bergson's insistance on the fact that the world is not finished yet but that we live in a growing world. Bergson also teaches us that life is unpredictable but shoots out on all sides into new developments.

The afternoon session began at 1:30 o'clock and Dr. H. A. Adrian delivered an address on "Right Beginning in Reading," and Grace E. Marshall, Ph D., gave a talk on "The Training of the Will."

Officials in charge state that this is the best institute that has ever been held in Allen county as it is well attended and much interest on the part of every one is displayed.

Lecture is Free.

The institute lecture on "The Antiquity of Man," to be given by Dr. Troward H. Marshall, of Dayton, tonight at the Wayne Street M. E. church, is free, and the general public is cordially invited to hear it. The address is said to be striking for the new ideas it presents, and the invitation is especially extended to professional men to hear it.

GERMAN ADVANCE CALLED AMAZING

London, Sept. 3.—The Daily News correspondent wiring from Gournay-en-Bray, a small town near Rouen, says:

"The German advance is amazing. A great battle is raging with what result I know not, but I do know that the French and British armies are intact and still confident of ultimate success.

"Incredible as it seems the tremendous masses of men that the Germans have hurled at the allies have not overwhelmed them. It seems that while the Germans have the weight the allies certainly have the wit and science and these, with reinforcements will eventually win.

"General Pau had fine success but in the center and left center the allies were not so successful, being obliged to retire. As a result of Sunday's battle the Germans now occupy * * * (name of town deleted by censor).

CORONER FILES MANY FINDINGS

Finds No Blame for Rehm Automobile Accident Near Avilla.

Dr. Edward H. Kruse, coroner of Allen county, on Thursday filed with County Clerk Gerding his findings in sixteen cases upon which he held inquests—most of them deaths by violence. His findings on the death of Mrs. Callie Blume, wife of A. M. Blume, a St. Joe township farmer, who was killed July 27, when the automobile of Daniel M. Rehm, 425 Fairmount place, Fort Wayne, was struck by a Fort Wayne & Northern Indiana interurban car a short distance north of Avilla, are that the highway was so constructed that the motorman could not see the approaching automobile and that the occupants of the automobile could not see the approaching car, although they tried to do so. The coroner further finds in this case that the automobile, when approaching the tracks, was being operated on second speed and that the driver—Mr. Rehm—was not speeding at the time of the accident. Mr. Rehm's 17-year-old daughter, Amber, was killed and Mr. and Mrs. Rehm were seriously injured in the same accident.

TROUBLE FEARED IN PAVING WORK

Mayor Doubts Validity of Contract for Maumee Avenue Job.

Believing that the Indiana street improvement laws, as they limit the powers of the boards of works in cities of the first, second and third classes, is distinct and unmistakable in its mandate that contracts shall not be let for paving streets where the cost is in excess of 50 per cent of the assessed valuation of the property abutting, exclusive of the value of improvements, Mayor Hosey raises serious question as to the validity of the contract for paving Maumee avenue, from Sidney street to the city limits with brick. Work on the improvement has already been inaugurated by the Moellering Construction company. Along that part of Maumee avenue now to be paved is a great deal of unimproved and unplatted territory. Mayor Hosey is positive it is not assessed at a figure high enough to equal double the cost of the expensive pavement going down. He fears that if the contract is completed the property owners will be able to successfully contest the assessments as being invalid and so stick the city for a large part of the cost of the pavement. The question will be investigated and some action may be taken if the mayor's view of the law is coincided in by the city's legal department.

FOR LAKESIDE SEWER PUMPS.

Resolution Prepared for Them and Condemnation of Site.

The resolution has been prepared and may be considered by the board of works Thursday evening for the construction of 1,800 feet of new 24-inch sewer, the purchase and installation of sewer pumps and the condemnation of a site for the pump house in Lakeside. This resolution contemplates fulfillment of the long asserted demands of hundreds of people in that region for relief from back-up sewage and accumulated storm water during times of flood in the Maumee, when the gates of the main sewers there must be closed against gravity flow from the river. The new sewer will extend from the alley south of Lake avenue to Cody street, a distance of five squares. When the board shall have adopted the resolution steps will be taken in court to condemn three lots needed for the pump house site. The entire improvement will doubtless cost $11,000 or $12,000 and will be paid for by assessment of all the lands and lots drained into the Lakeside sewers.

BOARD OF WORKS MEETING.

Hearings Will Be Given on Several Improvement Resolutions.

The board of works Thursday evening will have up for confirmation and will hear remonstrances on resolutions for the following improvements:

Opening and extension of Summit street from its eastern terminus to its intersection with Maumee avenue and Lillie street and condemning land for that purpose.

Opening and extension of Koch street from the alley north of Hoffman street to that street.

Condemning right of way under and through the Lake Shore railroad for a sewer 150 feet east of St. Mary's avenue.

Opening the alley south of High street from the west line of Watkins' addition to Sherman street; also vacating the south sixteen feet of High street from the alley east of Sherman to Sherman, and also vacation of the alley east and south of lot 12, Ewing's subdivision.

Opening and widening of McKinnie avenue, from the east line of lot 10, Disler place addition, to Piqua avenue.

NEW HOME READY SOON.

Extensive remodeling of the interior of the Rabus property, east of the city hall, is now in progress to fit it for headquarters for the city light and power department. The building is being overhauled in such wise as to admirably adapt it for the purpose. It is expected that the work will be completed by the 10th of the month, when the present discount of electric bills will be at an end. Following this payment bills for city current will be paid for in the new building.

MET A REMONSTRANCE.

It was expected that the park board would meet late Thursday afternoon with a quorum present to take final action on a remonstrance against the improvement of Rudisill boulevard from Calhoun street to South Wayne avenue. Five of the eleven resident property owners entered protest at the meeting Wednesday but action was deferred because of the absence of a quorum.

HERRICK ON JOB IN PARIS

ferred their cash elsewhere had not the American ambassador remained.

Another reason that determined Mr. Herrick to stay was the possibility that he might, as the representative of the United States, serve human interests regardless of any belligerent and express the views and feeling of the American government and people. Mr. Herrick asked Washington on Friday last if he was instructed to stay, giving at the same time his opinion that he ought to stay. Secretary of State Bryan replied that Mr. Herrick might remain.

With Bryan's Approval.

The American minister has sent J. W. Garrett, minister of Argentina; Louis Sussdorf, jr., of New York, third secretary of the embassy, and Captain Parker, military attache, to be with the French government at Bordeaux with the approval of Mr. Bryan.

The American embassy is now charged with British, Russian, Japanese, Servian, German and Austrian affairs in Paris and it is probable that the embassy will have its telegrams and mail delivered, in any event, owing to diplomatic exemptions.

Mrs. Herrick, who has been ill but is now recovering, will also remain in Paris.

Two Trains Reserved.

Two trains reserved for the president and the members of the senate and chamber of deputies left for Bordeaux this afternoon.

Fifteen judges of the court of cassation also will be transferred to the provisional capital of France.

In addition to the American ambassador, M. T. Herrick, the Swiss minister, M. Lardy, also has decided to remain in Paris.

The population of the capital is taking the departure of the heads of the government calmly, recognizing that it is a matter of prudence.

Although the city generally is placid the people feel keenly the approach of the German army and they are rapidly preparing for whatever may happen. Many families left for the west today, taking with them household necessities. These refugees from the capital have been forced to make very long detours because the railroads are encumbered with military trains. The railroad lines out of Paris to the north have virtually ceased running trains owing to fears of possible raids by German cavalry.

REVOLT AGAINST COX.

Whitacre Supporters in Ohio Out for Governor's Scalp.

Columbus, O., Sept. 3.—A number of democratic leaders who supported Congressman John J. Whitacre, defeated for the democratic gubernatorial nomination by Governor James M. Cox, started today the organization of the "True Democracy League of Ohio," with the purpose of fighting Cox and supporting Frank B. Willis, republican candidate for governor, at the election. The organization will bolt only the head of the state ticket and will support other democratic state candidates, it was announced. E. A. Crawford, Congressman Whitacre's campaign manager and chief organizer of the new league, declared Whitacre would wage a speaking campaign over Ohio for Willis.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

KENDALLVILLE IS RAVAGED BY FLAMES

Total Loss of $25,000 is Caused by Fire That Burned Stables and Threatened City.

Kendallville, Ind., Sept. 3.—The fire that broke out Tuesday afternoon and for a time threatened a large section of the business district with destruction, caused a total loss of $25,000, the bulk of which falls on John A. Cain, whose livery stable and much of its contents were prey to the flames. The fire is believed to have been communicated to the livery stable from a burning rubbish heap in the alley. A strong wind was blowing and in a few minutes the stable was wrapped in flames, and after rescuing two horses nothing more could be done. Six horses perished in the fire. The fire department, whose headquarters are just across the street from the scene of the fire, responded promptly, but there was no water pressure and for a quarter of an hour the firemen were obliged to stand idle and watch the destruction of the barn, the progress of the flames and the increasing menace of the entire square. The Garrett fire company responded promptly to a call for aid and with sixteen men and 800 feet of hose made a rapid trip by special car over the Fort Wayne and Northwestern interurban line. The Kendallville department, however, had the situation well in hand when the Garrett department reached here. Besides Cain, the Chappell Furniture company, which had its two hearses, a beautiful black team used on them and some other funeral paraphernalia destroyed in the fire, was the principal loser. Berhalter brothers, undertakers, also suffered loss in the burning of the barn. The household goods of George Bloomfield, who resided in the flat above the stable, were destroyed. Mrs. Bloomfield was the heroine of the fire, carrying her brother, Thomas Rogers, ill of typhoid fever, down the stairs to safety while the flames roared behind her. The Matzinger grocery was saved and most of the stock was removed by helpers from the crowd. Water wrought heavy damage to the Zern plumbing shop, but the building was saved. The firemen had work to save the George Lohman residence on State street, and all the household goods were carried out. The fire caused a shut down of the electric light and power station for several hours and put the Bell telephone system out of commission.

GRASPS LIVE WIRE; DIES.

Nine-Year-Old Lad Meets Instant Death in Lagrange.

Lagrange, Ind., Sept. 3.—Grasping the dangling end of a live wire that had been broken by the storm, Arthur, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Garmire, of this place, met an instant death in the presence of his brother, aged eleven, and another young companion with whom he was returning from a fishing trip. The unfortunate lad observed the dangling end of the wire and as he sought to take hold of it was warned by the other boys. Heedlessly he seized the deadly wire and the terrific shock from 1,100 volts of current struck life from his body in an instant. Mr. and Mrs. Garmire, until recently, resided in the country west of Lagrange. The slain boy is a brother of Robert B. Garmire, stenographer and a deputy coroner in Fort Wayne.

URGES FARMERS TO RAISE WHEAT

Huntington Miller Says War Argues Increase of Acreage.

Huntington, Ind., Sept. 3.—That the present war which is devastating Europe will affect the crops of Huntington county directly is the prediction of R. A. Brown, president of the Huntington Mill company, who advises the farmers to increase the acreage of their wheat fields.

"The war will affect next year's crops, notwithstanding all reports to the contrary. The farmers of Huntington county should put out a big acreage, as it is absurd to think that the women and children of the old country can put out and harvest the crops. They have always had all they could do in times of peace, let alone feeding the vast armies.

"We are bound to see higher prices for wheat in the next two years. We would advise the farmers to put out every available field in wheat, as the war will aaffect next year's prices even more than it has this year. It will be absolutely impossible for the old world to put out 50 per cent. of their usual acreage.

"War sentiment is always bullish to start with, but next year there will be a shortage of the world's breadstuff that will make for the highest prices we have yet seen."

WORKED LIKE HAND ON FARM.

Auburn, Ind., Sept. 3.—Hazel Wyatt and her husband, Clarence Wyatt, have been relating their troubles to a court room well filled with neighbors and relatives and it has taken the best part of two days to enlighten the court. Mrs. Wyatt tells a long story of the way her husband had used her. Three weeks after their marriage he kicked her because she went to Sunday school. She says he was jealous and had a revolver with him all the time and threatened her with it and also flourished a butcher knife. He forced her to work in the fields, plow, seed, harrow and husk corn, and she did work on the road. He kicked her out of bed one night and strained her back.

AGAIN IN DIVORCE COURT.

Hartford City, Ind., Sept. 3.—Marion Flatter, a young Blackford county farmer, has been extremely unfortunate in courting the favor of Eros. Twice has the god of love played him false. In July, 1913, he was divorced from Hazel Jarnigan, of Delaware county, charging that a bachelor uncle of the girl had come between them. Scarcely had the ink dried on the decree, which restored to the defendant her maiden name, than Flatter took unto himself another bride, at Dayton, Ohio. Wednesday afternoon he filed suit for divorce from his second wife.

CHARGES FRAUDULENT MARRIAGE

Bluffton, Ind., Sept. 3. A complaint was filed in circuit court by Mrs. Hilda Kean Zimmerman against Harry Zimmerman, in the nature of fraudulent marriage proceedings, and this morning Sheriff Johnston and Deputy Sheriff George Albright drove to the home of Zimmerman in the vicinity of Domestic, and placed him under arrest. Failing to furnish bond in the sum of $600 he is in the county jail, awaiting a trial at the September term of court.

FALLING HAIR AND DANDRUFF

For Four Years. Dandruff Could Be Seen Plainly. Head Burned and So Itchy Could Hardly Stand It. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Trouble Disappeared.

455 12th St., Detroit, Mich.—"I was troubled with falling hair and dandruff for about four years. The dandruff was very thick and my hair was always full of it. It could be seen plainly at times and whenever I would comb my hair it would come out pretty bad and my coat would be covered with it. Whenever I would scratch my head it would get red and leave little pimples. Then my head would burn and be so itchy that I could hardly stand it.

"I tried almost everything but with no result till one night I happened to think about Cuticura Soap and Ointment and thought I would try them. After using them about two weeks I found they were doing me so much good that I kept right on using the Cuticura Soap for washing my hair and the Cuticura Ointment for rubbing on my scalp. Now my hair is nice and thick and I am not bothered with any more dandruff or falling hair. The trouble has disappeared." (Signed) Roy Mittendorf, Jan. 31, 1914.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

John 11-1-16.

1 Now a certain man was sick, named Lazarus, of Bethany, the town of Mary and her sister Martha.

3 Therefore his sisters sent unto him, saying, Lord, behold, he whom thou lovest is sick.

4 When Jesus heard that, he said, This sickness is not unto death, but for the glory of God, that the Son of God might be glorified thereby.

5 Now Jesus loved Martha, and her sister, and Lazarus.

6 When he had heard therefore that he was sick, he abode two days still in the same place where he was.

7 Then after that saith he to his disciples, let us go into Judaea again.

8 His disciples say unto him, Master, the Jews of late sought to stone thee; and goest thou thither again?

9 Jesus answered, Are there not twelve hours in the day? If any man walk in the day, he stumbleth not, because he seeth the light of this world.

10 But if a man walk in the night, he stumbleth, because there is no light in him.

11 These things said he: and after that he saith unto them, Our friend Lazarus sleepeth; but I go, that I may awake him out of sleep.

12 Then said his disciples, Lord, if he sleep, he shall do well.

13 Howbeit Jesus spake of his death: but they thought that he had spoken of taking of rest in sleep.

14 Then said Jesus unto them plainly, Lazarus is dead.

15 And I am glad for your sakes that I was not there, to the intent ye may believe; nevertheless let us go unto him.

16 Then said Thomas, which is called Didymus, unto his fellow-disciples, Let us also go, that we may die withhim.

The Vice President's Announcement

It devolved upon Vice President Marshall to give out in a newspaper interview what is regarded as the authoritative announcement that President Wilson will be a candidate for renomination in 1916. It must be admitted that the announcement had been robbed of some of its thrill as news by the fact that it has been regarded for some time as a practical certainty that the president would indicate h is willingness to again head the democratic ticket. Still it is well to have the formal and definite announcement that the vice president has just given.

The president's friends argue, and argue well, we think, that it is up to the president and his administration to go before the people at the close of his first term, submitting the administration's accomplishments and its policies for either approval or rejection. The issue should be squarely drawn. No president in many years has either undertaken or accomplished so much in the way of reformative legislation and advanced statecraft as has the present occupant of the white house. His policies have involved marked departure from the old order in tariff, in currency reform and other vital issues. Some of these are already in effect and others are in process of adoption. Two years hence these will have either proven their desirability or shown that they are not what the country believed it needed. It is the people who must pass judgment, after all, and the only effectual method of expression in their hands is the ballot. The opportunity to commend or to condemn is fairly theirs.

But still another element must be taken into account, and that is the tremendous personal popularity of President Wilson—the gripping hold he has upon the confidence of the people, whether they may chance to agree with every detail of his policy or not. Despite the declaration of the Baltimore platform on the one-term principle for presidents, and in face of the ambitions of other great democrats, we do not believe the rank and file of the democratic party would permit the naming of any other candidate. President Wilson, as the party standard-bearer in 1916, is pretty nearly a foregone conclusion.

Nelson O'Shaughnessy, formerly United States charge d'affaires at Mexico City, has been ordered to Vienna where he will act as an extra secretary of the American embassy O'Shaughnessy acquitted himself so splendidly during the critical days at the Mexican capital that we think it will be the popular American verdict that he is entitled to something better than that His training will be of especial value to the United States in handling the delicate situations developed by the European war, and O'Shaughnessy has shown that he can be depended upon.

Indiana distillers are reported to be purchasing vast quantities of revenue stamps and rushing the production of spirits in expectation that the proposed war revenue tax will place an added stamp burden on the liquor output. Let nobody indulge the suspicion that there was any threatened shortage of whisky. Somebody always manages to maintain the available supply of booze, whatever happens. The new move of the distillers is merely an adroit scheme to escape war tax penalties as long as they can do so.

It appears to have required a rather stiff fine to convince a Logansport young man that in polite circles in Allen county the practice of carrying a revolver when one calls on his "best girl" is no longer considered the correct thing. Over here we insist that the social amenities be preserved at all hazards.

We are again told that congress is blazing the way for adjournment—but perhaps this may be merely another false alarm. There seems to be no immediate need for getting excited over the prospect.

PRESS ON THE NEW MINISTRY OF FRANCE.

War Unites Factions.

Perhaps Too Late.

Albany Knickerbocker Press: "France has done well to put her big men on guard, but perhaps she has done so too late. France now needs soldiers who can fight as well as statesmen and generals to direct them."

Theophile Delcasse.

Baltimore Sun: "Easily the most conspicuous and notable figure in this composite ministry is Theophile Delcasse. It is a piece of appropriate and poetic justice that makes him once more in such an emergency Minister of Foreign Affairs."

France's Time of Trial.

New York Times: "Probably France could not obtain safer counsellors for her time of trial. With few exceptions the ministers have had ample experience."

Sensible Thing.

New York Tribune: "The French have not shrunk from doing a sensible thing for fear of seeming demoralized. The rearrangement of the cabinet is only the outward acknowledgment of a remarkable unification of national sentiment."

Old Habits.

Montgomery Advertiser: "Of course the French cabinet had to resign. But promptly another was installed. France changes ministries with the moon, and a great crisis does not seem to change her old habits."

Differences Forgotten.

Washington Post: "The manner in which all political parties in France have acclaimed the newly formed ministry furnishes ample proof that all internal differences have been forgotten in the menace to national integrity. There was need of just such a ministry."

GOODS MADE IN INDIANA.

(Indianapolis Star.)

Indianapolis business men ought to turn out in goodly numbers to visit Kokomo's "$100,000 prosperity exhibit." Howard county is rich in agriculture and manufactures. Kokomo has several automobile factories, steel plants, plate glass establishments and numerous mills. It has prospered within the last twenty years to an unusual degree. Therefore it can well afford to have an exhibition. Excursions from many parts of the state are being run. It is planned that two hundred Indianapolis people may make the trip. Aside from its individual merit, the "$100,000 prosperity exhibition" is noteworthy in the appeal it makes for optimism. A city can not well hold a congratulatory show unless it has something to exhibit. Kokomo's property is indicative, we hope, of conditions elsewhere in the northern part of the state

During state fair week there is to be held in this city a "made-in-Indianapolis" exhibit. The Chamber of Commerce expects beneficial results from such an undertaking. The state fair will bring thousands of visitors to Indianapolis. Such fairs, in their industrial features, are by no means confined to state activities. Hence it sometimes happens that local business, unless energetic, loses considerable trade to outside firms. Making purchases may be said to depend largely on habit. all other things—quality and price especially—being equal. It is the idea of the Chamber of Commerce to arouse visitors to the desirability of patronizing home industry.

There really ought to be such reciprocity. Looking at the subject from a larger view, a "prosperity" exhibition in Kokomo, Ft. Wayne or Evansville, rightly calls attention to the activities of those cities and attracts more trade. There is enough trade for all. Howard county people may find that they cannot meet all their needs in Kokomo. Then they should go to other Indiana centers which in time will also seek Kokomo products. Goods made in Indiana—no matter what part of Indiana—ought to be bought by Indiana people.

Today's Lesson in War Geography.

ZAWICHOST—Frontier post in Russian Poland, on the Vistula, opposite the extreme northern point of Austrian territory.

JANOFF—In the government of Lublin, Russian Poland, about nine miles north of the frontier.

TAVETA—On the Tsavo river, in British East Africa, on the southeastern foothills of Mount Kilimanjaro. It is about 40 miles from the nearest point of the Uganda railway, and only about five miles from the German frontier.

NOVO RADOMSGK—In Russian Poland, on the railway from Tchenstochow to Warsaw, about 34 miles from the frontier of Germany at Herby.

SANNA RIVER—A tributary of the Vistula from the east, forming the extreme northern boundary of Austrian Poland.

FENESTRANGE (Finstingen) — In German Lorraine, on the Saar, about nine miles north of Saarburg.

CHAUDFONTAINE—A village and fort to the southeast of Liege, on the railway from Verviers.

DELLE—In French Alsace, the frontier town on the railway between Belfort and Porrentruy, in Switzerland.

VLODOVITZA—In Russian Poland, near the railway between Cracow and Tchenstochow, about 21 miles southeast from the latter.

ATTENHOVEN—In the Belgian province of Liege, about one and one-half miles northeast of Landen.

PERONNE—Village of 4,500, whose fortifications were razed in 1906, near which allies and Germans clashed. A monastery was founded here by an Irish monk in 650. It was captured by the Duke of Wellington in 1815 and in 1870 capitulated to Germans after a week's bombardment.

LAON—Fortified city of 15,288, built upon an isolated hill in an extensive plain. Has been the center of various battles. Napoleon was defeated here. In the Prussian war it surrendered without a blow, but when the victors were entering it, a lieutenant blew up a powder magazine, sacrificing his own life to kill 79 Germans.

SOISSONS—Ancient city, formerly fortified, on the Aisne river. It has a record for the number of sieges it has undergone. It carries on a large grain trade. Population, 14,334.

For Sallow, Blotchy, Rough or Greasy Skins

Some skins require constant grooming to keep them from becoming oily, muddy, blotchy or rough, or if such condition has developed, to overcome it. In such chronic cases it is particularly inadvisable to keep piling on cosmetics which clog the pores, collect dust and dirt, making the complexion worse than ever. It's a lot more sensible to use ordinary mercolized wax, which literally absorbs a bad complexion. Apply the wax, like cold cream, before retiring; next morning, in washing it off, you'll wash away fine flour-like particles of the unsightly cuticle. Repeat for a week or two and you'll have an entirely new skin—soft, satiny, spotless and beautiful as a child's. One ounce of mercolized wax, procurable at any druggist's is all you'll need.

If the skin be wrinkled or flabby, here's the best possible remedy. Mix ½ pint witch hazel and 1 ounce powdered saxolite and use as a face bath. It works like a miracle, for it utterly banishes

A SHY GENERAL.

Paris, Sept. 3.—Sir John French, commander of the British troops who are lined up with the French against the Germans in Northern France, is recognized as the greatest cavalry leader in Europe. He is as unlike the spur and sabre-clanking type of romance as can be imagined. Nobody outside the service had heard of him when he went to South Africa, but the stationmaster who told him it was impossible to get out of Ladysmith was probably the first civilian who got an idea of what "French's way" meant. He began to do things at once, and went on doing them with a most disconcerting swiftness and persistence. With it all he remained what he is still—the shyest, most modest man in the English army service.

KAISER'S COMPLIMENT.

Geneva, Sept. 3.—The following telegram from the kaiser has been placarded in the towns of Southeastern Germany: "The German states of the south can be tranquil; Switzerland has mobilized." This is a great compliment—even if not meant—to the Swiss army of citizen soldiers, who during many years have made great sacrifices, and are at present ready with 300,000 men to protect their neutrality at all costs. The Swiss deplore the plight of their sister small state, Belgium, but are glad and proud that their military sacrifices are yielding fruit.

A NURSE'S HAVERSACK.

London, Sept. 3.—A large number of women have joined the army as nurses. Many have already joined the British soldiers on the firing line. Only fully trained nurses are accepted for this active service. Each must carry a haversack which contains an enameled plate, mug and spoon, brush and comb, one army ration for twenty-four hours. Each nurse must wear a strong pair of boots—not shoes.

Robison Park Doll is Maurine

AWARDED TO MISS GERTRUDE HARRIS, 824 HEUSTIS AVE.

Immortalized in story by one of America's most gifted women writers, the name Maurine is known wherever the English tongue is spoken. Manager Williams chose the name for the beautiful pavilion doll, that has been on exhibition all summer and which was awarded yesterday to Miss Gertrude Harris, of 824 Heustis avenue. Over 27,000 guesses were recorded during the season, but only two individuals guessed the name correctly. The first was fourteen-year-old Gertrude Harris. The name was also written for three-year-old Innis Houshour, of 943 Erie street, by her mother. When more than one person guesses the correct name a drawing is held. Little Innis is now visiting in Ohio and could not be at Robison park yesterday, therefore, a drawing was not possible as the rules of the award required the personal presence of the participants. The doll Maurine is one of the most beautiful and costly ever awarded at Robison park. She is "petite and dainty—a creature formed to pet and kiss. You love her for her beauty, lovliness and grace." It is a remarkable fact that the name Maurine was guessed by two people only, inasmuch as it is not uncommon. Several babies registered in the 1914 baby show bore the name Maurine.

AMERICAN WOMAN WILL REPORT WAR

Mary Boyle O'Reilly Tells of Trip Aboard Treasure Train in Belgium.

By Mary Boyle O'Reilly.

(Staff Correspondence. Copyrighted, 1914, by the Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

Brussels, Belgium, Aug. 17.—"Is there any possibility of your getting into Brussels? Take no risks," cabled the editor. Two hours later I left London for the front. My satchel held compressed food for emergencies, $600 in gold bought at a 10 per cent. premium. War-time travellers must fend for themselves.

Folkstone and the sunlit channel calm

"Our home abuts the fortifications at Antwerp," she says, with a brave little laugh.

"Goodness! What is this?"

Crossed muskets bar us from the gangplank. "Your nationality?" demands an English territorial on guard.

An Austrian is denied passage on this, the only boat for the continent. The muskets raised, we climb aboard, only to be carefully corralled. Forty men wait to follow us, each laden with a small, weighty sack. Not powder and ball, but a munition of war more important—gold! For an hour the porters come and go, an endless chain. Three alert tally men keep their tally on clickers. Mere memory may not serve when the Old Lady of Thread Needle street sends millions of francs to her allies. The last sack counted, a Belgian flag breaks out at the masthead and the gold ship heads 'cross channel. A sturdy little gunboat scouts alongside.

Nine p. m., and frivolous Ostend, a lonely, silent, end-of-the-season Ostend; this is mid-August!

At the pier head an armed patrol flourish naked steel.

"Your nationality, madam?"

"I am an American citizen, monsieur."

"Show your papers."

A spread-eagle passport flutters in the chill night breeze.

I pass. Not so the others. A Prussian agent, his face suddenly chalk white, marches off between grim guards. A hundred such "agents" were shot yesterday in Belgium.

A dolorous clock booms in our railroad station. Fifteen fellow-travelers foregather in the vast, echoing glass casino. The nervous talk is of dangers unnamed but imminent. Up comes a perturbed little Flemish priest, Father Jacob Van Meenan, at our service. It is not desirable, he assures us, nay, is even unsafe, that we attempt to reach Brussels tonight. Prussian Uhlans threaten to cut the tracks. Tomorrow, perhaps, but tonight should assuredly be spent in Ostend.

But we entrain. In five minutes the speed is terrific. Quaint villages with spectral windmills and high, fretted gables appear for an instant only to vanish as we flash past. No man knows definitely where invading Uhlans raid under the blood-red moon. Our catapult express is a treasure train carrying gold from England to a besieged capital. Bruges! Ghent! When we return will the wonderful old buildings be standing? Who knows? The Prussians are burning everywhere—the place of learning and the cotter's hut.

"Two minutes more and we are in Brussels," a guard whispers to me.

Screaming brakes silence speech. The great Card du Nord depot at Brussels, brilliantly lighted, is almost empty—almost, not quite.

Stern-faced guards civique, bankers, lawyers, chief citizens of a splendid capital in a happier day, stand guard with naked bayonets. Sere Belgium gentlewomen, wearing the white gown and high coif of the Flemish Red Cross, wait tehir harrowing duties.

One train platform is covered with canvas—litters on each of which lies a Boy Scout—fast asleep. The treasure train has reached the heart of the war zone. It is long after midnight.

As the commanding officer approves our passports a Boy Scout steps to my side. He is apparently 12 years old. He is certainly four feet tall. His attitude is of military precision. Intent on active service, he addresses the captain of the guard.

"Sir, shall I escort madam to her hotel? The taxis are commandeered."

I look about. Every woman is provided with an escort. No one smiles at the small citizen soldiers in training for the threatening tomorrow. My scout and I slip from the station to a porch commanding a vast square.

Beneath the blood-red moon a military aeroplane, buzzing like a monstrous beetle, flies too high for friendship. Facing the railway station a thousand people stand silent and patient.

"They will call the Boy Scout, as his small calloused hand comes to salute, "wait, madam, to welcome the litters that bring home the defenders of Belgium."

NOTABLE FIGURE, THAT VON MOLTKE

German Chief of Staff is Modest, Silent and Plays 'Cello.

By Nixola Greeley-Smith.

Gen. Count Helmuth von Moltke, now 66 years old, namesake and favorite nephew of the the great field marshal who led the Germans to victory in the Franco-Prussian war, has been chief of the German general staff since 1904 and as such is in supreme command of the united forces of Germany—under the kaiser.

The reservation concerning the kaiser is important, because Von Moltke, modest and silent as the famous uncle whom Germans nicknamed "great taciturn," has never believed that he is the man for the place he occupies. In fact, he refused the job twice, and accepted it when the kaiser offered it to him for the third time, only because his imperial master declared with brutal frankness:

"In time of peace any man can do the work. In time of war I shall be my own chief of staff."

As a 22-year-old lieutenant, Von Moltke served through the Franco-Prussian war. For conspicuous gallantry in the fighting before Paris he was decorated with the Order of the Iron Cross. He was among the triumphant victors who marched under the Arch of the Star. His uncle, the great field marshal, was very proud of him and wrote home to Helmuth's father, Adolf von Moltke:

"Yesterday Helmuth marched in with his regiment—the tallest man in it. The king asked me his name. He looked splendid with his Iron Cross."

In the last years of the greater Moltke's life Helmuth and his wife kept house for the old soldier. Of the four sons of Adolf von Moltke, who were known as the "four giants," Helmuth resembled his uncle most and was regarded by him as his son. He stands 6 feet 4 inches, has blue eyes and, like all the Moltkes, is very blonde.

When Helmuth fell in love with the beautiful, fair-haired Eliza, daughter of Count von Moltke-Hvitfeldt, of Denmark—she was a distant cousin—his future father-in-law refused his consent to the match till the great field marshal had given his. Count von Moltke-Hvitfeldt once gave an amusing account of what followed.

"Eliza had received a telegram from Helmuth's uncle, saying to expect him on a certain train. You can imagine that we were excited and that we spent many days in preparation for the visit of the great German. I went to the station to meet the train indicated, and, as no one descended from the first-class carriages, I thought the field marshal had not arrived.

"But suddenly saw an old man in a snuffy brown suit get out of a second-class carriage and come toward me, carrying a small hand bag. It was Field Marshal von Moltke.

"I asked him about his trunks and he explained that he had brought none; that he had everything he required in the little bag. I asked if we should expect his man on a later train and he explained that he had no valet—that he could always look after himself. In his way my son-in-law is just as simple and unpretentious."

The present Helmuth von Moltke is, apart from his military talents, a very accomplished man. He is a good writer, draws admirably and is a very fine performer on the violincello. He is also a composer of music and twelve years ago the kaiser himself led the band which played one of Von Moltke's compositions for the first time. William likes him very much.

The chief of the general staff is sometimes confused in the public mind with his cousin, Kune, who was numbered among the German officers disgraced by the unsavory Rond Table scandal revealed by Maximilien Harden. But Helmuth von Moltke leads an ideal family life. He is a devoted husband and a fond and indulgent father.

WAR VETERANS TO PICNIC AT PARK

G. A. R. Posts and All the Auxiliaries Expected to Attend.

Two posts of the Grand Army of the Republic in Fort Wayne, Sion S. Bass post and the Lawton Wayne post, held a business session and as a result of the joint conference it was decided to have a picnic and chicken dinner next Monday, Labor day, at Robison park.

It is going to be a big affair in Grand Army circles and all comrades, members of the Woman's Relief corps and Ladies of the G. A. R., and their families, are expected to be in attendance with well filled baskets of good things to eat.

The old war veterans, with their families and friends, have been invited to hold the picnic at Robison park by Manager C. H. Williams, and he expects to have a program of many and interesting surprises for the old warriors. Special cars will leave the transfer corner for the park at 9:30 and 10:30 o'clock.

Switchman R. E. McNally, of the Wabash, has completed a vacation and resumed work.

MAKES PLEA FOR NATIONAL ANTHEM

G. A. R. Head Protests Use of "Star Spangled Banner" Flippantly.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 3.—A plea for the perpetuation of "The Star-Spangled Banner" as the American anthem, without alloy, was made fervently by Washington Gardner, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, in his address before the forty-eighth national encampment of that organization here today.

He urged the old soldiers to join in a movement to pay special honor to this song, and to discountenance the practice of playing it in medley with such "flippant and comparatively meaningless ditties as "Yankee Doodle" and "When Johnnie Comes Marching Home." He said there was something inspiring in an audience rising and standing uncovered at the majestic strains of the national anthem, but it was "incongruous, bordering even on the ludicrous," for the band to strike up some other national air in medley with this, and to observe the audience resume sitting in "an irregular, half-ashamed manner." It were better not to rise at all when the national hymn is played in medley, he said.

Permanent G. A. R. Headquarters.

A recommendation that permanent headquarters for the G. A. R. be established in Washington was another point of his address. Chicago and Philadelphia had been proposed, but he preferred the national capital, and thought that if possible the necessary space should be secured in a government building where the officers could keep closely in touch with matters before congress which affected the Grand Army.

A standing committee of seven persons, with the commander-in-chief and adjutant general of the G. A. R. as ex-officio members, he also remembered principally for the purpose of taking charge of all legislation which had the indorsement of the order. He said that such a committee would "concentrate responsibility, reduce expense and give promise of better results."

"As it is now," he continued, "the committees having to do with proposed legislation, number, in the aggregate, nearly ten times seven and are widely separated. It is difficult to have a general meeting save at large expense to the order or to the individuals. Under the present arrangement responsibility is too widely diffused and members too rarely brought together for consultation and concert of action."

Soldiers' Homes.

He urged that no change be made in the method of management of the soldiers' homes which are scattered throughout the United States. Concerning the matter, he said:

"Not a single complaint has come to the knowledge of the commander-in-chief from any member of any home during this administrative year. It is known than an effort is being made to place these homes, now under the care and supervision of our comrades, subject to the approval of the war department, into the custody of men who never saw military service in actual war and whose sympathies are not so likely to be directed toward our comrades in their declining years. This seems to be a case where the old rule, let well enough alone, will apply. This encampment, in my judgment, should say to Congress that the Grand Army of the Republic is decidedly against the proposed change."

The present membership in good standing was reported as 171,335. During the year the roll was curtailed by the death of 11,187 old soldiers, but notwithstanding this large figure, it is 151 less than died during the preceding year.

Session Will Last Long.

The meeting of the Grand Army and the Women's Relief corps promises to last until late in the afternoon. Questions of national policy, concerning each order, were to be discussed and probably decided upon before tonight. Matters of interest to the old soldiers included a movement to establish national headquarters in a large city, possibly Washington. It also was considered quite probable that the encampment would officially protest to congress against any proposed plan to change the present method of management of the soldiers' homes, scattered throughout the United States. These institutions have been managed by war veterans. G. A. R. sentiment seems strongly against so-called "outside control."

Receptions and camp fires and a display of fireworks at Belle Isle were the entertainments arranged for tonight. Col. J. L. Smith, of Highland Park, Mich., champion long distance runner of the civil war veterans, was called upon to defend his title this afternoon. At the state fair grounds he was to run ten miles against a picked relay team of ten old soldiers, each of whom was to run a mile. Col. Smith was victor in a similar race at the 1912 and 1913 encampments.

The prize in the game was won by Mrs. Mary Smith Vesey and was a basket of violet color with decoration of worsted roses in Bulgarian hues. The "worsted" roses are examples of an old art in fancy work which many women will remember seeing their mothers and grandmothers work in rugs, pillow covers and tops of footrests. Just now the wool yard flowers are quite the rage in Chicago. Two roses were made for this particular basket and fastened to its cover with green stems and leaves in outline.

Klingman—Hunt.

One of the prettiest of weddings was that of Miss Doris Hunt, niece of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hunt, of 821 Fourth street, and Mr. Loren Klingman, a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Klingman, which took place on Wednesday evening at the Wayne Street M. E. church. Rev. C. Claud Travis was the officiating minister. The guests, numbering about two hundred, were ushered to seats by Messrs. Carl and Ross Kennedy and also assisting as bridesmaid and groomsman were the groom's sister, Miss Ruth Klingman, and Mr. Martin Regedanz. Mrs. Leah C. Malay presided at the organ and preceded the coming of the bridal party by playing several selections, among them being Mendelssohn's Spring Song and the familiar march from "Lohengrin" as the bride and groom entered at 8 o'clock. During the marriage service "O Promise Me" was played and the Mendelssohn wedding march at the close. The bride made a very attractive appearance in a gown of white crepe de meteor trimmed with pearl bands and ornaments. She wore a veil caught to her hair with swansonia blossoms and held a bride's bouquet of Killarney roses. Miss Klingman presented an effective and pretty appearance in a gown of pale yellow crepe de chine with a trimming of pink rosebuds, pink flowers in her hair and a bouquet of pink roses of the Madam Shorey variety. A wedding supper of elaborate preparation and an informal reception to members of the two families and near relatives at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hunt followed the wedding service. The house was decorated with pink and white asters, gladioluses and sweetpeas with ferns. Pink, white and yellow were the prevailing colors to harmonize with the costumes of the bride and bridesmaid. Mrs. M. E. Jones lent assistance to Mrs. Hunt in serving the supper. Congratulations were showered on the bride and groom and later in the evening when they left for their own home rice and old shoes presaged all kinds of good luck for them. The bride and groom are going immediately to housekeeping at 441 St. Martin's street. Mr. Klingman is foreman of the transformer and testing department of the Fort Wayne Electric works. He is a young man of energy and many capabilities as well as of pleasant address which wins many friends. The bride is well fitted to be a helpmate as her pleasant disposition and sweet womanliness are attributes of a lovable character. Music during the evening was furnished by Mrs. F. O. Kuckuck, a cousin of the groom. Guests from away were Miss Pauline Kent, of Kendallville, and L. R. Hunt, of Grand Rapids, Mich.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

"Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" and Lovey Mary at the Majestic Three Days Starting Monday Matinee.

The original "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" is not quite as sunny a soul as she was before Anne Hegan Rice discovered her to the world in her stories and since Anne Crawford Flexner dramatized her. Fame has made uneasy the head that once lay down so easily in the "Cabbage Patch" of the Louisville suburb and insistent visitors, eager for a bit of first-hand philosophy, often receive a first-class scolding. Indeed, the impetuous prototype of Mrs. Wiggs not long since doused an excellent society lady with water and was summoned to police court.

"I won't trouble notoriety if notoriety don't trouble me. They kin put me in books and in stage plays until they're sick of it, but you all have got to steer clear of me in person," remarked the "Mrs. Wiggs" of Louisville to a reporter recently.

Meanwhile the sale of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" and "Lovey Mary" has gone into the hundreds of thousands and in their dramatized form the characters of the book are still more effective and entertaining.

All the cabbage patch folk will be seen here at the Majestic three days starting on Monday when the play will be presented by the United Play Co.

AT THE EMPRESS

There were as many parents, who had come to bring their children, at the Empress theater this afternoon as are seen on circus day. The big theater was filled to the brim with people who were thrilled and delighted by Richard the Great, the most remarkable monkey ever seen in Fort Wayne. Richard is known as the monkey who made a man of himself and certainly the intelligence he displayed at the Empress this afternoon at the opening matinee of the bill which will hold the stage for the latter half of the week was wonderful.

All the other acts on the bill which opened at the Empress this afternoon are of the pleasing variety. The Bounding Gordons, who are known as the world's greatest trampoline acrobats, have a wonderful act that is full of novelties. El Cota extracts music and other things from a xylophone in a way that kept the audience clapping continuously. Del Vaccio and company have a laugh-provoking comedy entitled "Fired from Yale," and Marguerite Hoyer and her partner are pretty girl athletes with a new kind of act. Excellent war pictures fresh from Europe in the Pathe Daily News complete the excellent bill.

The bill for the opening half of next week at the Empress comes from Toronto. The Marcus Loew coast-to-coast shows make the best connections of any vaudeville shows. They lose but two days in travel from Chicago to Los Angeles.

Friday evening the regular weekly musical will be given at the Empress from 7:15 to 7:30 o'clock. Director T. J. Jackson, of the Empress orchestra, is arranging a particularly entertaining program for this week's concert.

AT THE TEMPLE

With the great feature comedy act, "The Ten Dark Knights," headlining the bill, the Temple has a rare offering for the week-end engagement that was sprung for the first time at this afternoon's matinee. Johnny Rooker and his "jasbo" band are one of the crack specialties included in the "Ten Dark Knights." This act was at the Temple once before and scored a great hit at that time. Another familiar face to be seen on the week-end bill is The Great Lester, the marvelous ventriloquist and comedian, who has brought his wooden boys to town again.

Seabury and Price, the cartoonist and the soprano, combine two excellent acts in one, as Seabury's drawing, made-while-you-wait, or Miss Price's full melodious soprano, either one is sufficient to entertain in a highly satisfactory manner. The combination is deftly arranged and makes one of the happiest acts on the Temple's bill. Knight and Moore, "The College Boy Juggler and the Fair Co-ed;" Dewitt Young and Sister in their singing and talking novelty, together with the Keystone photo-play, complete this excellent offering. These Keystone comedies have earned a warm place in the hearts of Temple patrons and justly so, too, as they are among the best pictures projected in Fort Wayne.

Patriotic Women for American Fashions.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 3.—Inspired by patriotism, Chicago society women have volunteered to pose as fashion models in the "Made in America" fashion show to be held in connection with the Home Exposition in September.

Mrs. Milo A. Bennett, well-known social leader, and a committee of 100 debutantes will open the style show with a fashion parade in which fashions of American design and make will be displayed—a living proof that America need not look to war-distressed Paris for its fashion hints.

THREE SISTERS WAR REFUGEES

The Misses Hindman Enjoy Reunion With Fourth Sister in Fort Wayne.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Druckemiller, 2109 Florida drive, is the scene this week of a reunion of four sisters, three of whom are war "refugees" from Europe. The young women are Miss Cecile Hindman, of St. Louis, Mo., whose experiences in reaching home from Berlin after the war commenced have been referred to in The Sentinel, and her sisters, Miss Pauline Hindman, a teacher in the public schools of Kansas City, Kan., and Miss Annis Hindman. All are sisters of Mrs. Druckemiller.

The three Misses Hindman sailed from New York June 20, and reached Naples, Italy, July 4. Before the declaration of war, but while the continent was in a state of agitation over the preliminary events, the sisters toured Italy, Switzerland and Germany, and while at Berlin the first declaration of war was made. It was with difficulty that the young women reached London, by way of Holland, for the reason that the authorities demanded gold currency, refused to accept German money and declined to recognize travelers' express company checks. It was only by boldly boarding their trains for the coast, and then a vessel crossing the North sea and thus making necessary the acceptance of such currency as they had, that the sisters were able to reach England. Many who submitted to the demands of the transportation officials were compelled to remain on the continent. Even in England, thousands of travelers—and the country seemed to be filled with American tourists—suffered great inconvenience and hardship because of the financial disturbance.

"However," said Miss Cecile Hindman, "the receipt of the news that the American government had made provision to furnish money to assist the stranded tourists changed the aspect of conditions immediately, and, after that, there was no difficulty in the cashing of the travelers' checks or the use of other money besides gold."

Miss Cecile Hindman, who is a musician of note, had planned to remain for a considerable period in study in Paris. She sailed for home from Liverpool on August 27 on the American liner St. Louis. Misses Pauline and Annis boarded the Latetia, of the Donaldson line, at Glasgow, August 22. The latter boat, sailing under British colors, made the voyage with lights extinguished, and reached Montreal in safety.

Wednesday evening Mrs. Druckemiller entertained a small company in honor of her sisters, who will return to their homes within a few days.

MOTORCYCLE AND BICYCLE COLLIDE

W. H. Felger Thrown to the Pavement and Badly Injured.

W. H. Felger received a bad gash in his forehead, over the eyes, and sustained some painful internal injuries when the bicycle he was riding came in collision with a motorcycle ridden by two young men employed at the Fort Wayne Electric works. The accident occurred at the corner of Fairfield avenue and Jefferson street, as the men concerned were returning home from the shops at 4:30 o'clock Tuesday evening. Mr. Felger was thrown off the wheel and was unconscious for awhile. The young men picked him up and took him to a doctor, who had to take three stitches in closing the wound in the forehead. He was then sent home and has been in bed since. Mr. Felger is a painter and is employed at the Pennsylvania shops. Some of his comrades went to his home to see him last night.

CONDUCTOR SHAW DEAD.

Ran Train in and Out of Garrett Thirty-Four Years.

A. C. Shaw, known by his intimate friends as "Fatty" Shaw, one of the best known conductors on the Baltimore and Ohio road, running in and out of Garrett for thirty-four years, died in the Sacred Heart hospital in Garrett Wednesday. He was confined to the hospital nearly a year with organic heart trouble and but little hope for his recovery was entertained for some months. For many years he weighed 365 pounds, which was the occasion for the nickname of "Fatty." Mr. Shaw was a native of West Virginia and began work on the Baltimore and Ohio in that state, being transferred to Garrett in 1880. Four brothers, G. B., C. F. W., and J. M. Shaw, of Crafton, West Virginia, and Ed, of Clarksburg, West Virginia, are the only surviving relatives. The body will be taken to Grafton, West Virginia for burial.

A. C. Shaw was a member of the Garrett Brotherhood of Railway Conductors, the Garrett chapter of I. O. O. F. and the Fort Wayne lodge of Elks.

RECEIVER HARMON RETURNS.

Judson Harmon, receiver of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton road, passed through the city last night, en route to his home in Cincinnati. He had been at Charlevoix, Mich., where his summer home is located, and during the stop in Fort Wayne took lunch at the Pennsylvania restaurant, served on the window sill. Mr. Harmon was late in getting to the restaurant and every seat at the tables and at the lunch counter was occupied when he ordered luncheon.

ONLY STALLED; NOT DERAILED.

The story brought to the city that the Sells-Floto circus train had struck a washout on the Lake Shore road, near Otsego, been derailed and 100 horses drowned is not confirmed by news from the scene of the accident. The train was caught between two washouts and could move neither backwards or forwards and held there over twenty-four hours. It was in a sparsely settled district and the circus people had trouble in furnishing provisions for its employes. Rations had to be reduced to one-half the usual supply. As a result of the accident the show people had to cancel their engagement at Kalamazoo and Battle Creek.

SPECIAL TRAIN SERVICE.

The Portland fair is on this week and this is the big day. Thousands of people from the country adjacent to Portland are attending the fair and to handle those in the towns on the G. R. & I. road the company ran a special train in charge of Conductor O'Conner, which left this city at 2 o'clock this morning. This evening this train will leave Portland at 5:30 o'clock, running south as far as Lynn. Northbound it will leave Portland at 8:30 o'clock tonight and run to Fort Wayne, stopping at intermediate stations to discharge passengers.

Arnold Hitzeman, one of H. S. Borbeck's force in the drafting department of the Pennsylvania shops, will attend Purdue again this fall and winter and has resigned his position at the shop.

William Scheunmann has succeeded George Crumbo as general foreman of the Monon shops at Lafayette. The change became effective Tuesday. Both men worked at the Monon shops many years and are well known.

William Falconer was a caller at the Wabash shops yesterday to see the men who were his shopmates years ago. He is now located at Smithville, Ark., and he came here to attend the funeral of his mother.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. William Thompson, of Erie street, last night. This is the occasion for Mr. Thompson's absence from the Pennsylvania shops, where he is employed as a machinist.

The cause of delay to Wabash eastbound passenger trains Tuesday night was a freight wreck at Williamsport. Two heavy freight trains came together in a head-on collision, but each had checked its speed so that the engines were simply damaged and not thrown down the embankment. Three or four of the cars of one of the trains were crushed, however. The crews jumped and were not injured.

NEW TREATY WITH PANAMA IS SIGNED

Gives United States Control of Colon and Ancon Harbors.

Panama, Sept. 3.—An important treaty by the terms of which the United States gains control of the waters of the harbors of Colon and Ancon, together with certain other valuable rights, was signed here yesterday by William Jennings Price, the American minister, and Ernesto T. Lefevre, Panama secretary of foreign relations.

The new convention has been under negotiation for the last four years. Early last year the negotiations were broken by Panama because it then seemed impossible to bring the two governments into accord.

The instrument replaces what probably was known as the Davis agreement of June 16, 1904, in which the boundaries of the canal zone were tentatively fixed with the understanding that a future formal treaty would fix the delimitation permanently. It also amplifies thae Panama canal treaty of November 18, 1903, under which the canal zone was acquired from Panama.

Panama, by the provisions of the convention will for the first time be placed in direct physical connection with the remainder of the country. Hitherto the capital has been cut off by the canal zone, which those wishing to reach other parts of the republic had to traverse. A large tract of fertile land called "Las Sabanas," or the Savannahs, was ceded to Panama. In this territory are located many of the handsome country estates of wealthy Panamans.

The United States acquires absolute control of the waters of Colon and Ancon harbors and in addition two small islands lying in Ancon harbor, which are to be used for observation and light stations by the coast artillery.

One of the islands will be fortified. The site of battery Hancock on the Colon water front, is given to the United States, as also is the control of all the piers at the north entrance of the canal, costing approximately $2,500,000.

It is specially stipulated in the treaty that no railway shall be built across the Sabanas without the consent of the United States and that the United States may retake and occupy a portion or all of these lands if needed for the protection and defense of the canal or its approaches.

The treaty now will be sent to the Washington and Panama senates for ratification.

NEW YORK'S FREE MARKETS POPULAR

New York, Sept. 3.—The third day of New York's free markets saw the large to twice and three times original size so great has been their popularity with purchasers of table supplies. An increase of 25 per cent. in the number of buying at the four markets was reported yesterday and still greater increases were expected today.

The success of the Manhattan markets has resulted in a demand for similar trading places in other boroughs of the city and today plans for establishing them in Brooklyn, Staten Island and in the Bronx were well under way.

Observation of the experimnt led experts to say that radical improvements in the system must be made speedily if the city as a whole is to feel the benefit of the plan.

The need for having on sale at all the markets every variety of staple foodstuff, so that the houswife may do all her buying in one place, was emphasized.

WRITERS ARE TO TELL ABOUT CITY

Delegates to Editorial Meet Will Be Offered Cash Prizes.

When the members of the Northern Indiana Editorial association meet in Fort Wayne September 17 and 18 for their annual convention, a friendly contest is to be staged in that the Commercial club will offer a handsome cash prize to the best article written by a delegate on the subject, "The City of Fort Wayne." It is believed that a majority of the delegates will surely have something interesting to write concerning the Summit city.

This association is the oldest and most noted press association in Indiana and present indications are that the convention will be well attended. From the moment of their arrival until their departure, the editors and writers, with their wives and sweethearts, will be in the hands of the Commercial club.

As special guests at the banquet table will be seated United States Senator Benjamin F. Shively, Hon. Albert J. Beveridge, Hon. Hugh T. Miller, and it is also probable, according to Secretary McCormick, of North Judson, that United States Senator John W. Kern, Vice President Thomas R. Marshall and Governor Ralston will also attend. Congressman Cyrus Cline has also promised to be present.

The address of welcome will be made by Mayor William J. Hosey and Hon. Dell Crampton, of Delphi, will respond. Harry B. Darling, of Laporte, president of the association, will preside as toastmaster.

During the morning of the first day a reception is to be tendered the visiting editors and their wives at the Commercial club and following they will be assigned to the leading hotels. In the afternoon, as guests of the Commercial club, the delegates will be taken about the city in automobiles and shown the principal places of interest. They will also be taken to Robison park. The Friday morning session will be held in the assembly room of the Commercial club and will be featured by an address by Hon. Addison C. Harris, of Indianapolis, who will speak on the subject, "Shall the Constitution Stand?" Mr. Harris is one of the greatest constitutional lawyers in the country and his address will unquestionably be of the deepest interest. Following addresses by delegates, concerning the press in general, the annual election of officers will be held.

During the two days of the convention it is likely that Fort Wayne will be the mecca for most of the state's leading politicians. Practically all of the state candidates for the coming election will be present and as a whole, the convention is expected to be one of the most important gatherings of the season.

PROGRAM OF THE SENATE LEADERS

Legislative Schedule Had Been Mapped Out by Upper House.

(By Gilson Gardner,)

Washington, Sept. 2.—Senate leaders having outlined the legislative program as follows: 1, War revenue bill; 2, River and harbor bill; 3, Omnibus claims bill. The secretary of the Treasury has told leader Underwood that the interruption of customs revenues will probably result in a shortage of a hundred million dollars. In view of such a shortage, it has appeared to some members of Congress illogical to pass the river and harbor bill aggregating some eigthy-two million dollars, much of it being open to question on account of the fact that the money goes chiefly to private interests and impractical enterprises. Senator Simmons and others who have been pushing the river and harbor bill are now keen for the passage of a war revenue measure to supply money for this and other purposes. The claims bill asks about thirty-two million dollars for the descendants of the civil war sufferers.

Senators Burton, Kenyon, Norris and Borah have been fighting the pork barrel bill. Up to this time they have done so on the merits or demerits of the bill itself. They thought the fight won, but the bill has recently come to life, and now its opponents will add to their arguments against it the fact that war has brought about the need for great economy.

Whether it would be necessary to levy a war tax measure, if the pork barrel was not passed, it opened to some question. If the pork barrel goes through, there is no question that everybody will have to contribute. The present talk is for a tax on beer, whisky and tobacco with possibly a tax on coffee. The latter suggestion is bound to be unpopular and it is not very loudly discussed. It is hoped that it will not be necessary to levy a tax on telegrams, checks and drugs. Amendments will be offered in the House to any bill which does not increase the rate of the income tax as a means to raise increased revenue. It will be pointed out that the government has a full list of income tax payers and nothing would be more simple than to call on each for a larger share in this emergency.

It is one of the ill effects of the war that Congress will take advantage of the present business situation to abandon the railroad securities measure. It was intended by this bill to lodge power in some government body like the interstate Commerce Commission to supervise the issue of railway securities. The need for such supervision will be just as urgent when the present financial stress is passed as it ever was in the years that have gone. But big business has informed the powers that nothing ought to be done at the present time to disturb stock values. So this legislation has for the present been laid aside.

By unanimous consent and practically without debate the so-called seamen's bill passed the house Thursday night and was sent to a conference committee to adjust the differences between the House and Senate bills. The opposition to this measure came from the huge transportation companies like the Hamburg-American lines doing business at American ports. When the war put an end to these lines and their business, it also put an end to the lobby and its influence on Congress opposed to the lation which has for eighteen years been unable to pass goes through by unanimous consent.

Some teeth were drawn from the trust bill when the senate dropped the provision for all sentences for violations of prohibitions against holding companies and against the purchase of supplies by railroads from corporations having common directors or officers. Senator Clapp declared that "when the trust barons view this measure, they will think it has been handled by a Sunday school conference instead of a legislative body."

GOLF GOES BACK MANY CENTURIES

Is Twenty Years Old in the United States and is Popular.

Twenty years ago today the first American championship golf match was played. The game was then considered a society fad and was played in a regal setting at Newport, R. I. Of the twenty contestants W. G. Lawrence, of Newport, was declared the winner and the first American amateur champion. Golf in the United States is said to date from the establishment of the St. Andrews golf club at Yonkers, N. Y., in 1888. South Carolinians, however, claim that it was played in their state a century before, and point to the files of the Charleston City Gazette, where an item under date of Sept. 18, 1788, states " " " There is lately erected that pleasing and genteel amusement, the golf baan.

Golf was played in Scotland, said by many to be its place of birth, generations before Columbus made known that there was an America. One prominent American educator has said that he read an account of a golf game written by the ancient Aristotle, and had found reference to the sport in the Bible. It is also claimed that Holland was its place of origin. In the earlier records of Scottish history, literature and even legislation golf occupies a prominent place. Over four centuries ago the sport had so overwhelmed archery, the soldier's training, that the Scottish legislature decreed that "the fut ball and golf be utterly cryit doun and noch usit."

Forbidden to the masses, it remained a royal pastime. King James II played a game with an Edinburg shoemaker. Queen Mary was found playing on the links two days after the death of her royal consort Darnley. The news of the great Irish rebellion came to King Charles I while he was lifting the ball over the links at Leith.

Today golf, beginning as a society fad in the United States, has become a pastime at which a vast fortune, estimated as high as $50,000,000, is spent every year in the United States. There are said to be more than 200,000 active players who are driving the gutta percha balls over links whose combined acreage in the United States is nearly twice as large as the District of Columbia. Some of the American club houses are veritable mansions; one in the middle west has cost to date over $750,000 for the golfing course, the club house and the equipment.

The exact amount of money reaped annually by the American caddies is not definitely known, but it probably equals the amount paid in Great Britain, which is estimated at $12,500,000. Other items that go to make up the annual tribute to golf are clubs and balls. The value of the clubs in use is estimated at nearly $1,000,000, while the balls are valued at over $6,000,000. Golf has spread throughout the world. In Europe there is scarcely a country without its golf links and players. Japan has one of the finest courses in the world.

Mexico is rapidly becoming known for its links. While all classes have taken to the sport with enthusiasm, kings and queens, not to mention the lesser lights of royalty and the nobility, are ardent devotees. King Alfonso has his private links in Spain and has taught his Englishborn queen to play the game. The German emperor, prohibited by a physical ailment from participating in the sport, nevertheless is an enthusiast and frequently follows his son, the crown prince, about the links at Potsdam. President Wilson and his predecessor, Mr. Taft, are devoted to the game.

PITCHERS STAGE HURLING STUNTS

Abreviated Game Enlivened by Mound Work That Stood Out.

Cramer, Utrecht and Paynter staged some fancy hurling in an abreviated conflict that marked the close of the season so far as Grand Rapids is concerned at the Varnell ball yard Wednesday afternoon and sounded taps with Fort Wayne lugging the heavy end of a 3 to 2 total.

Paynter opened badly. He passed Smith and McLafferty right off the reel, and although the said Smith was outed at third on Streeter's bounder in front of the plate, Holderman beat out a grounder and filled the bases. Freddie Bratchi cut in with a drive that topped big Marshall in left and cleaned up the paths and gave Utrecht a margin of three runs to work on.

He did nicely in the opening inning but had two men on and one down in the next round but managed to pull through with a blank for the opposition. In the third he came through safely with one gone and O'Day on third, and in the fourth he again had a couple of men on and got out of the trouble with only a run tabbed against him.

In the fifth, however, he passed the first man and the second batter hit a double and then Harry Martin got his grapplers in action and shoved Bill Cramer into the running.

Bill did not allow a hit in the inning and skimmed to the third out with one marker for the champs. This crossed the plate while a runner was being retired at first.

In the final round he went in up to his waist line and it looked like the Essick troupe would shove the home talent to the bottom of the heap. Bill Minardo negotiated a nice rap to center for a starter and Castle followed with a slash in the same direction. Then Mr. Cramer indicated the value of knowing how. He started with the pitch when he thought Paynter would bunt, and copped the ball on the third base line in time to nail his man at third.

Mike O'Day nearly broke up the league fouling balls over the stands, and eventually walked, filling the sacks again. Frankie Nespo came nobly to the rescue in this round by retiring Castle at the plate on Paynter's roller but the bases were still choked and a hit meant that the enemy would go to the front.

This didn't bother Bill so very much and he kept working at his job until Marshall hit a nasty grounder that required some swift fielding to get the ball over in time to out the runner.

Paynter blazed his way through the second, third and fourth innings without being called upon to get out of a pinch but in that round he displayed his marked hurling talent. With one gone, Cramer kicked in with a swat to right, took second on Paynter's wild throw but was landed at the plate after advancing on an out.

In disposing of Cramer the bases were filled, with Holderman up, and he went to two and three before the Grand Rapids hurler finally persuaded him to strike at a ball a foot on the outside.

Freddie Brant has been playing stellar baseball all through the series and some of his fielding in the last three days has been marvelously fast. He is showing better form than he has displayed all year, and is showing why the Chattanooga club took the trouble to exercise an option on his services.

HEILBRONER IS A SCIENTIFIC BASEBALL SCOUT AND THE BASEBALL MAGNATES REALIZE IT

(By Hugh S. Fullerton.)

Baseball's clearing house, located at Fort Wayne, Ind., is perhaps the oddest, and at the same time the most interesting example of the commercial development of the national game.

Up in a suite of offices a little man, whose hair has grown gray doping ball players, sits amidst a maze of figures that would drive the hardiest dope fiend in the country insane and amidst a maelstrom of sixes and eights and sevens and twos, and all combinations of figures possible, calmly sorts out the records of about 8,000 baseball players, follows their doings, day by day, reports what they have done to owners of baseball clubs in many parts of the country and supplies the information that sends scouts scurrying all over American in search of second Ty Cobbs and Walter Johnsons.

The keeper of this maze of figures is Louis Heilbroner, president of the Central league, former scout of the Cincinnati team, and a man, who since a mere boy, has been associated with baseball.

In his office from five to eight skilled youths, clever at figures, work constantly compiling statistics. The daily records of from 1,700 to 1,800 men are carried forward, so that at the end of each day the player's record and average is complete.

Thirty-seven leagues in organized baseball and the Federal league are entered, posted and carried forward each day.

Practically every ball player in America is in the record filing case. There are between 7,000 and 8,000 "live" ones, meaning men actually engaged in playing. Besides that Heilbroner has the records of thousands more who have been in, and who may come back, more thousands of "dead" ones who have dropped out and hundreds who may be the Cobbs and Johnsons of the next five or six years.

It was hard and expensive work to get the complete record, but once complete "Looie" compiled it in the baseball blue book, a wonderful work of condensation, and after that players rushed to send in their records. Every manager, owner and most of the sporting editors must have the blue book and sometimes "Looie" almost breaks even on it.

The practical part of it all is its use to the club owners. Major league club owners receive hundreds of "tips" on players every year. One National league club owner told me that his friends and acquaintances recommended more than 100 players a month to him—urging him to try them. The clubs employ scouts but no scout could look over all the future Cobbs, so many of the clubs arranged with Heilbroner to attend to this department and to help them look up new players.

Louis Heilbronner.

"Looie's" system has saved the scouts weeks of time and hundreds of dollars of travel money.

MOOT TRIAL SUNDAY.

The moot trial to be given Sunday afternoon at the Buffalo hall by the lodge promises to be one of the most interesting events of the season. The trial, as announced, is the State of Indiana against Henry Dickson, a real estate man, for manslaughter. The man he is supposed to have killed is one Glenn Adams, a notorious political crook and a leader of a gang.

RAIN PREVENTS RACING.

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 3.—Rain interrupted the racing at the Grand circuit meeting held in connection wtih the New York state fair Wednesday afternoon. Five heats were contested but no one of the four numbers on the program was completed.

Did you ever stray away from the "Old Reliable" Furniture and Carpet house and buy a bill of goods elsewhere and not sooner or later have cause to regret it? You never lose when you trade at Foster's, you generally do when you don't.

PHYSICIANS ARE AIDING IN SHOW

Good Corps Secured and More to Be Heard from Later.

That examinations at the better baby contests to open on Tuesday, Sept. 8, at the Fort Wayne baseball park and to continue until and including the closing Saturday will be intelligently and satisfactorily made is assured by the corps of physicians already secured with others to be heard from.

Dr. Albert H. Macbeth, Dr. Miles F. Porter, sr., Dr. Herman A. Duesling, Dr. Eric Crull, Dr. B. F. Weaver, Dr. Miles F. Porter, jr., Dr. H. O. Bruggemeier, Dr. Kent K. Wheelock and Dr. S. H. Heaver are among those who have consented to give part of their valuable time to the advancement of child welfare.

This list does not include all who will be on hand. Members of the committee in charge of the contest have not had opportunity to consult other physicians who are to be asked to aid the cause, and the staff will be of sufficient size to insure that the babies will be cared for promptly every day.

Every physician who has been asked has readily consented to give his time and has also given his encouragement to the undertaking in the belief that it will do much toward teaching parents the things that are necessary to know in order to insure the health of their children.

Latent defects, not discernible to the laity, often exist among children, and very simple methods can be used to correct them and these will be revealed in the contest.

Members of the mothers' club are very anxious to have it understood that there will be no expense attached to the examinations. The club is vitally interested in the greatest of all problems—betterment of the men and women of the years to come, which can be brought about by the attention and care necessary to better babies, and the child of the poor, the middle classes and the rich will be given just exactly the same kind of treatment.

The committee in charge of the contest has been appointed, and is as follows: Mrs. Bertha Chaska, Miss Louise Pixley, Mrs. Ed Lindman, Mrs. Nathan Erber, Miss Trotterman, Mrs. George B. Savier, Mrs. Ed Schiele, Miss Lillian Lowe, Mrs. C. S. Stringer and Mrs. Eric Crull

TRAPPED IN WAR-STRICKEN EUROPE

Escapes From Steerage to Stateroom Crossing the Atlantic.

By LOUISE TOWNSEND NICHOLL.

CHAPTER VI.

Escape From the Steerage.

"There are two extra berths in my room. Why not come and take them?" an American girl told us.

"Why not, indeed," thought we.

Without further bother, we went below and got our bags and took them over to the half-empty room and made ourselves comfortable. It was the first sleep we had had, and, even an uneasy conscience, which it did not occur to me to have, could not have kept me awake.

The next morning I went to the purser to pay, if I could. It cost $30, and I had just that much, in American money, for I had spent my last English penny at QQueenstown, sending it back with the tender for a cable dispatch, which, after all, was never sent.

"What room is it?" asked the steward, suspiciously. "I didn't know there were any more empty places."

I told him, and he said he would send over for my bags.

"Oh, never mind," I said. "I brought them over myself yesterday afternoon. You see, I slept there last night," I concluded, quite innocently.

And then the storm broke. The man looked at me in horror and amazement.

"Do you mean to say you just picked up your things and walked out of third into second?" he asked.

It seemed there is a sort of feeling about third and second which I had not known about.

"Why, young woman," he went on, but rather weakly, "if you were a man I would put you in irons."

He looked at me again and then he began to laugh. He laughed on and on and on. Several times he tried to speak, but couldn't. Finally he gasped, "Well, you American girls have got me beat."

And so I was out of steerage. But I often used to go back and look down into the pit where the emigrants were so stoical, so seasick, so silent, excepting when they burst out into their weird songs in the evening or gathered together for some great test of prowess.

For that was their best amusement, to find out who was the strongest man. There was a prize fighter among them, and he fixed up all sorts of matches between all kinds of youths, and they boxed until the lip of every contestant ran blood.

But there were always some so apathetic that no fight nor song could move them. They lay all day on the canvas-covered platforms, sleeping or gazing straight ahead of them, except when the meal bell rang. All day long the ship echoed with meal bells, for there were three sittings at both the third and second class tables, and two at the first.

It was a strange trip. The weather was rough and cold until the last few days, when the long northern route we took veered toward New York. Then the sun came out for a day or two, and things looked normal again—almost.

Rumors were our daily fare. The war news came in by wireless every morning, and Walter's mother avoided the hatless, white-haired man for several hours after the ship's paper was out. For days it was customary to fear being turned around and headed again for England. But when we were half way across, and this fear could no longer be cherished, we turned our dread towards Halifax, where the hatless man and his coterie had premonitions of landing, penniless and at midnight.

When Halifax was passed we were bound straight for Boston. Feverish fingers traced the course on the map in the gangway all day long, and far into the night, and showed that it would be a manifest absurdity to say that we could reach New York by our present route.

But the greatest horror that hung over us was that we might suddenly be encountered by a German warboat which should drown us all and bear away our luggage to that continent from which we had carried it with so much hard labor.

There was an amazing note of reality underneath all the absurd alarm. We kept well to the north. We used our wireless for nothing but war news, and at night every porthole was shut and every deck light covered, lest any other ship should see us creeping slowly along the horizon. We passed one other boat, an Atlantic transport liner, creeping towards England by the same cold, eirie northern route, with all lights dimmed, and never a friendly wireless word for us.

The climax of our thrills came one night at 10 o'clock with the sighting of another boat far off our stern. She had a yellow light at bow and stern, and a red light half way between them. It seemed to me that she kept a steady course for England, but so many of the others who were watching declared that she turned around and followed us that I began to be uncertain. I still do not know whether we had a narrow escape or whether we only were clinging to the fond hope that we did.

One tiny incident which had no bearing on the trip or the war or on anything but the code of courtesy which has been built up at sea, stays in my mind. It was the happiest, most suggestive little incident of the whole trip. Our great boat suddenly began to turn around in a great circle and go more slowly.

We stood at the rail and watched the great smooth path which she made in turning, a huge semi-circle, from which the little white waves rippled away. The white-haired man had it that we were at last heading for England. It was all over with us.

"Well, it's all over now," he said, with a morbid relish. "But it's no surprise to me. And it's a good thing we're prepared for it."

But no one paid much attention to him, for it was a beautiful thing to see that big boat gently swoop around and not head again for England, but stop at a tiny brown rowboat far down below its bow. Just for a second we stood still there by the little tiny brown thing, which had strayed so far away, until the watch on the bridge was sure that it was empty except for the sea weed which surged in and out of it.

Then we moved on our way and the passengers again took up the hunt for warships, which some way seemed so unimportant and so much less connected with mystery and the sorrow of the sea than was the little boat left rocking there alone.

The days went on, one after another, and the steerage passengers climbed up into second class and the game of graft was played with large stakes, and gradually the rumors and the alarms died down, for we were at Quarantine.

And the emigrants had never been alarmed at all, but had lain on their platforms and fought their good-natured fights and had their tug-of-war, and made love to each other, out in the stern in the evenings, and eaten their bologna, and slept, most of them, not in cabins such as the American steerage had at all, but in great wards where one bunk topped another in towering tiers toward the ceiling.

It was 8 o'clock on Saturday morning by the clock on the Jersey Central station when we came up the harbor. We had seen the Statue of Liberty, and we could see a black spot up ahead which grew into a crowd of many people, waiting for us at the White Star line pier. And, just as if nothing in the world had happened, we opened up our bags for the customs man to see.

ITCHING IRRITATION.

Worst Form of Skin Trouble Quickly Relieved by Inexpensive Treatment.

When you suffer with any skin trouble, even though the itching seems unbearable, do not think that it is necessary to use some disgusting, greasy ointment. Try Hokara, a pure and simple cream, that is guaranteed to contain no grease or acids and which is so cleanly that it does not soil the linen.

Its power to instantly relieve any irritation of the skin and make it soft, white and beautiful is almost miraculous.

Not only do minor skin troubles like pimples, blackheads, acne, barber's itch, etc., quickly disappear, but the worst ulcers or cases of salt rheum or eczema are cleaned and healed by this wonderful skin food.

In order that any one may try Hokara at small expense, Meyer Bros. Co.'s drug store are selling a liberal-sized jar at 25c, and in addition guarantee to refund the money if the treatment does not do all that is claimed for it.—Adv.

Sage Tea Dandy to Darken Hair

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old, famous Sage Tea Recipe are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray, becoming faded, dry, scraggly and thin have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful—all dandruff goes, scalp itching and falling hair stops.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.—Adv.

WILL MAKE NO PROTEST.

Great Britain May Buy Munitions of War from American Firms.

Washington, Sept. 3.—Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, said while at the state department today he would make no protest against the purchase by Great Britain of munitions of war from American firms. The practice of nations in the observance of neutrality is not to restrict the traffic in contraband, the privilege to prevent such commerce on the high seas resting with belligerents in their right of search and capture.

The ambassador said the principal purpose of his visit to the state department was to introduce a new attache of the embassy. Later he had an engagement with President Wilson.

A charming prenuptial affair was a pink tea given this afternoon in honor of Miss Verne Bowser by Mrs. Harry M. Bowser at her home in Thomas street, with Mrs. Jules Simon as assisting hostess. The party was to announce the date of Miss Bowser's wedding to Daniel Garwood Milligan on October 27 and the medium through which the time was stated was in tiny rolls of white paper with gilded letters that were tucked inside dainty favors of pink or green parasols. Miss Bowser found a flower-covered parasol at her place at the supper table where the young women who are to take part in her bridal party were seated. Other guests were seated at small tables. Pink roses at each plate were other favors for the guests and white candles with pink tulle bows and pink asters for decoration made everything as beautiful as was the company of young girls and matrons in their summer gowns. The party was also a "shower" for the bride-elect and each guest had the privilege of bestowing any gift she chose. After the repast Mrs. Bowser's four-year-old son, Van, entered the room with one end of a pink ribbon in his hand and a gilded spool. In a pink and white satin colonial suit with wig of white the child made a picture no one will forget. Master Van handed the pink ribbon to Miss Bowser and told her to wind the spool and follow the ribbon which ended in her basket of gifts. It was a pretty sight and everyone present was delighted. Music during the time was a further provision made for the pleasure of the company. Covers at the tea were laid for twenty-four. Mrs. Louis Porter, of St. Louis, was a guest.

Mrs. Louis Porter, of St. Louis, was the honor guest at a picnic party last evening at the home of Mrs. A. Z. Pollamus. The picnic had been planned for Robison park but the uncertainty of weather brought about a change in plans.

Miss Agnes Ufhell, of Huntington, who is visiting Miss Josephine Ertle, of West Williams street, was the special guest for whom Miss Ertle gave a pretty affair on a recent evening. Music furnished by Miss Edna Miller was one of the pleasures of the hour, and toasts given by Maurice Sharp were equally enjoyed. Other young people who enjoyed Miss Ertle's hospitality were Misses Florence Ehler, of Baton, O., Edna Miller, Helen Trisch, Helen Colling, Goldie Blake, Mary Pembroke, Sadie Marsch, Bernadette Mohl, Agnes and Laurina Brown, Ella Faucett and Herbert Nichtor, Carl Noll, Frank Curran, George Rekers, Frank Bankert, Adolph Keller, George Roesener, Erwin Zollinger, Bill Miller, T. HIGHEST SINCE WAR BEGAN.

Wheat Prices Climb to New Top Notch in Chicago Market.

Chicago, Sept. 3.—Wheat prices today advanced to the highest point since the beginning of the European war. May wheat touched $1.25¼, surpassing by ¼ cent the topmost level reached on the wild upturn a week or more ago.

Increasing belief that Turkey and Italy would be drawn into the conflict was largely responsible for today's rise in the market. Trading was more active than has recently been the case and there was said to have been a notable enlargement of export demand.

The advance today compared with last night was 3⅜c to 3¾c a bushel, with the market finishing strong.

PONTO THE PURP

MASS MEETING TO CLOSE CONVENTION

Ft. Wayne Business Houses Have Unclean Cellars, It is Said.

With a mass meeting in the assembly room of the court house this evening, the annual convention of the Indiana Fire Prevention association will come to a close.

Delegates attending the convention spent Thursday inspecting the business houses of the city's central district and some of the factories, and in discussing their findings at noon at the Anthony hotel, it was decided that Fort Wayne business men, as a rule, do not take much pride in keeping the basements and cellars of their establishments in tidy order.

Dozens of cellars were found to contain a very large amount of rubbish and refuse, fire hazards of the first order. Owners were told of the danger and advised to clean their cellars and reduce the risk of fire.

Reports of the sub-committee will be submitted at the meeting to be held this evening, and among other things on the program will be an address by Joseph Hubble, of Chicago, one of the country's best known and most efficient fire prevention experts. Representatives of the state fire marshal's office will also speak.

Public is Invited.

Everybody interested in fires and fire prevention is cordially invited to attend and everybody will find something of an interesting nature in the address to be given. Deputy State Fire Marshall Ralph Richmond will give an address on fire prevention that will be educational in every respect, and the entire program will be of interest to all property owners.

HEARING IN PERJURY CASE.

Frank J. Shields Given Preliminary in City Court.

The preliminary hearing of Frank J. Shields, charged with perjury, was still in progress at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon, having been before Judge Kerr since 9 o'clock in the morning. Shields is charged with having committed perjury in connection with his damage suit against the Nickel Plate railway, in which a jury gave him $10,000. His counsel, Judge J. H. Aiken and P. B. Colerick, moved to quash the affidavit, but were overruled, and the hearing of testimony was begun.

OFFICERS ARE RE-ELECTED.

Only Two Changes in Spiritualist Organization.

Anderson, Ind., Sept. 2.—Only two changes were made among officers and trustees of the Indiana Association of Spiritualists when the annual business session was held at Camp Chesterfield.

The Rev. T. W. Smith, Anderson, president; J. S. Byers, treasurer, Chesterfield, and Mrs. Mabel Riffle, secretary, Anderson, were unanimously re-elected. J. H. Collins, of Chesterfield, succeeded Mrs. Sarah Zeigler, of Indianapolis, as vice president. Among the trustees Thomas Bronnenberg, of Anderson, succeeded Brenton Martin, of Marion. William Kennedy, Markleville; James Millspaugh, Chesterfield; Robert Bragdon, Anderson; J. M. Walker, Alexandria, and Joseph Corlett, Fort Wayne, were continued as board members.

The matter of camp improvements was referred to the board of trustees. The twenty-fourth annual camp meeting will close tomorrow. It opened on July 18. The attendance throughout the meeting was the best for several years past.

MEN NOW WEAR "LOW NECKS."

Chamonix, Switzerland, Sept. 2.—Men in "decollete" attracted more attention than women in flimsy fashionable dress in the principal Swiss towns and mountaineering resorts up to the outbreak of war.

The fashion consists of a white flannel or silk shirt, worn open at the neck, down to the second button, with a wide soft sailor collar flowing over the coat. It is called the "Schiller collar," and was "made in Germany," or at least the fashion is stated to have started there and has now spread to the Swiss and Austrians. English and American visitors have not adopted it, however, and they seem surprised to see men walking about in "low neck" both by day and night. That men are becoming women is the opinion of the sturdy Chamonix guides.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Chicago, Sept. 3.—Fear that the European war might spread brought about a further advance today in the price of wheat. After opening ⅝c to 2¼c higher, prices held close to the top level reached. The close was strong, 3⅜c to 3¾c net higher.
Corn rose with wheat. The opening, which was ⅛c to ¾@⅞c up, was followed by additional gains.
The close was steady at 1⅜c to 1¾c above last night.
Big gains to the seaboard made the oats market firm.
Provisions turned up grade after an early break, due to lower prices for hogs.

For Indiana and Ohio: Fair tonight and Friday.
For Lower Michigan: Fair tonight and Friday; cooler central portion tonight.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

The storm which is moving down the St. Lawrence valley has given some rains during the last twenty-four hours over the lake region, New York and New England, but it has been followed by fair weather throughout the central states. Some rains are reported from the southern states, but fair weather prevails over practically all sections west of the Mississippi.
Cooler weather has overspread the central states. While it remains cool throughout the northwest, no frosts are reported this morning except from North Dakota and the British northwest. Over the Atlantic coast states high temperatures were general yesterday, Washington reporting a temperature of 96 degrees.
The weather will continue fair in this section tonight and Friday, and cool weather is indicated for the next two or three days.

waiting for hours in the square in the expectation of a nannouncement as to the outcome of the deliberations of the sacred college, understood that a selection had been reached. The people applauded vigorously.

Announced the Election.

At twenty-five minutes before 12 Cardinal Della Volpe appeared on the balcony with Monsignor Capostosti bearing the pope's cross on his right, and pronounced the ritual announcing the election of Cardinal Della Chiesa. To this he added that the new pope had chosen the name of Benedict XV.
Again the crowd of several thousand persons cheered, and at once began to make their way into the basilica to hear the benediction of the new pontiff.

New Pope Appears.

At fifteen minutes before 12 the new pope appeared on an inner balcony of St. Peter's, clad in his pontifical robes. The balcony was hung with red velours and a heavy golden fringe decorated the railing.
The pontiff pronounced the apostolic benediction to the kneeling crowd below and immediately afterwards withdrew and entered his apartments.
It is asserted on good authority in Rome today that the new pope will appoint Cardinal Dominico Ferrata his secretary.

Sketch of the New Pope.

Cardinal Giacono Della Chiesa, who was today elected pope by the sacred college, in succession to Pius X, who died Aug. 20, was created a cardinal May 25, 1914. He is the archbishop of Bologna, Italy.
He was born at Pegli in the diocese of Genes November 21, 1854, and was ordained a priest December 21, 1878. He served as secretary of the Conciature in Spain from 1883 to 1887, in which year he was appointed secretary to the late Cardinal Rampolla.
He was appointed substitute secretary of state in 1901, and in 1907 he was elected to the post of adviser to the holy office.
In 1907 he was appointed papal nuncio of Madrid in succession to Mgr. Rinaldini, but this appointment was cancelled three days later. This incident had occurred just before he was made archbishop of Bologna. When Monsignor Della Chiesa was given this post it was declared in Rome it was mainly with the object of combatting modern religious ideas, Bologna being the headquarters of the national democratic league, whose members advocated what is known as "modernism" in religion. In January, 1914, while still at Bologna the present pope issued a pastoral letter strongly condemning the tango.

First of Title in 174 Years.

It has been 174 years since the time of the last pope Benedicte. In his election to the papacy in 1740, Cardinal Prospero Lambertini assumed that title. It is an interesting fact that the new pope was archbishop of Bologna while Pope Benedicte XIV was born in Bologna.
According to a dispatch from Rome, dated at 2:50 yesterday afternoon and received in New York early today, the White Star line steamer Canopic, bearing Cardinal Gibbons and O'Connell to Rome, was not due at Naples until tomorrow. Therefore it is probable that neither of these two American cardinals participated in the election of the new pope.

An Italian Chosen.

The choice falls on a cardinal of Italian birth, as was expected from tradition and also from the disturbed condition in Europe, which mitigated against the selection of a pope outside of the Italian hierarchy.
It was at the age of 24 that the new pope was ordained in the priesthood. He soon attracted the attention of Cardinal Rampolla, later secretary of state for Pope Leo XIII. When Cardinal Rampolla was made nuncio to Madrid he took Mgr. Della Chiesa with him as secretary of nunciature. On Cardinal Rampolla's return to Rome to become secretary of state for the vatican, Mgr. Della Chiesa entered the secretariat of state as one of the "minutamti" or minor officials until 1901, when he was appointed substitute of the secretariat and also secretary of the cypher.

Came Into Prominence.

As secretary to the secretary of state, Cardinal Della Chiesa was brought into notable prominence throughout the Catholic hierarchy, but his position was not at that time of cardinalist rank. On the accession of Pope Pius X, Mgr. Della Chiesa continued in the secretariat until December 16, 1907, when Piux X gave him a noted promotion to the position of archbishop of the important see of Bologna.
For seven years he administered the see of Bologna with notable success, until in May, last, Pope Pius named him among thirteen members of the hierarchy to receive the red hat.
The full title of the new pope, in addition to Benedicte XV, will be pope, bishop of Rome and successor of St. Peter, supreme pontiff of the universal church, patriarch of the west, primate of Italy, archbishop and metropolitan of the Roman province, sovereign of the temporal dominion of the holy Roman church.

NOT OFFICIALLY ADVISED.

Washington, Sept. 3.—The apostolic delegation has not yet been officially advised of the selection of the new pope. Word of the choice reached the delegation through press sources and great interest was manifested. It is pointed out that Cardinal Della Chiesa has had wide experience, both as administrator of the important see of Bologna and also on the diplomatic side as secretary of the nuncio at Madrid. He is described as a man of great spiritual character and one of the most highly esteemed in the hierarchy. He is about average height of stock build and rather quiet and reserved manners.

Investigation of sickness among men engaged in manufacturing shuttles in London from wood imported from Africa showed that the fine dust which they inhaled was a slow poison affecting the heart.

KID HIGHWAYMAN FACES A PRISON

Charles Jones, Montana Lad, Insists He is Guilty; So Does Companion.

"Guilty, guilty," said Frank Jones, a 19-year-old, undersized youth who says his home is in Butte, Mont., when arraigned in the city court on a charge of robbery. It was explained to him that the charge was serious. He still insisted on the standing of his plea.

Prosecutor Callahan again sought to impress the lad with the gravity of his situation and Judge Kerr advised him of his rights in the court to have a continuance and procure legal counsel.

"I am guilty, I say," repeated Jones and Judge Kerr put him under $1,000 bond for his appearance in the circuit court. He was taken to jail.

Kyle Pressler, aged 15, who was the companion of Jones in the snatching of a purse from Miss Emily Jacobs, 808 West Superior street, as she was going home Wednesday night, also pleaded guilty and was certified to the juvenile court and put in custody of the probation officer. Pressler's home is in Huntington. Jones appeared in that city a few days ago and Wednesday induced young Pressler to run away and come to Fort Wayne. They met Miss Jacobs on a dark part of Superior street, held her up, took her purse and fled. Officers Coulter and Ellyson were put on the case and soon afterward found Jones hiding under the Trier barn along the St. Mary's river. Later Officer Crawley joined them and the three made a further search, finding young Pressler hiding in the tall weeds. Both boys admitted their guilt and were locked up. The purse was recovered.

Abe Ochstein Again in Trouble.

"This is awful! Ain't it awful?" asserted and queried Abe Ochstein, a junker, charged with petit larceny and locked up in default of $100 bond for his presence Friday morning in the city court. However, trouble with the law is not a virgin experience for Abe and it did not perfectly ruin his appetite, for he performed handily with a bag of lunch his wife gave to him in his cell a few minutes later. He is charged with stealing brass from the Pennsylvania railroad.

Saloonist is Fined.

John I. McKee, proprietor of the saloon at the corner of Columbia and Clinton streets, was fined $10 and costs for violation of the screen law. Testimony was taken in a protracted hearing Wednesday and a mass of very contradictory testimony was adduced. Judge Kerr could make little of it and took the case under advisement until Thursday morning. Wednesday night he made a personal inspection of the premises, "from outside, not inside the saloon," as he carefully explained, and gained the conviction that the law had been violated.

Other City Court Cases.

Frank Ryan, a cripple loiterer, begged "for God's sake" to be turned loose. "The Lord's sake doesn't appear greatly in issue here," but for the city's sake I'll let you go, if you'll go—on and on and on, clear out and away forever," said the court. Ryan promised and hiked.

H. G. Waterhouse, charged with violating the traffic law in driving his automobile discharging passengers at Calhoun and Berry streets, Wednesday afternoon, was let go. It appeared that the violation was not wholly his fault.

"You look just as good to me as the next one or anybody—I'll just take a trifle from you," panhandled John Brady, a drunken cadger who was operating at the Wabash depot. Officer Walter Kavanaugh was the gentleman addressed and he paid prompt respect to the true deserts of Mr. Brady by throwing him in. Judge Kerr gave him $10 and costs on a drunk charge and he went to jail for twenty days.

John Mourning, a colored gentleman who had imbibed too much and got pinched, was turned loose, as was Dan Murphy, held for two or three days to get sober.

FINED FOR CARRYING GUN.

Truman Farrar, 23, Logansport, Ind., was fined $25 and costs in the court of Justice Nierman on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. Farrar is the young fellow who threatened to kill Miss Eva Eberling at the home of Mrs. Tilberry, in St. Joe township, because the young woman refused to meet him and caused alarm by loitering about the place, where he had been employed.

A Lame Back-Kidney Trouble Causes It.

It don't take long for kidney and bladder trouble to give you a lame back, and even worse if not checked. Mrs. H. T. Stryange, Gainesville, Ga., was fairly down on her back with kidney trouble and inflamed bladder. She says: "I took Foley's Kidney Pills and now my back is stronger than in years, and my kidney trouble and painful bladder sensation have entirely gone." Good druggists are glad to sell Foley Kidney Pills because they always help. They contain no habit forming drugs. Dreier Drug Co.—Adv.

Cured His RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation. If you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 92 A Marcellus avenue, Manasquan, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

BORDEAUX TO BE FRENCH CAPITAL

Pressed by Germans, Government Departments Are Ordered Moved.

Paris, Sept. 3.—(12:02 a. m.)—A proclamation has just been issued by the government announcing that the government departments will be transferred temporarily to Bordeaux.

The proclamation was issued by the minister of the interior, who said the decision had been taken solely upon the demand of the military authorities because the fortified places of Paris, while not necessarily likely to be attacked, would become the pivot of the field operations of the two armies.

Text of the Proclamation.

The proclamation follows:

"Frenchmen: For several weeks our heroic troops have been engaged in fierce combats with the enemy. The courage of our soldiers has won for them a number of marked advantages. But in the north the pressure of the German forces has constrained us to retire. This situation imposes on the president of the republic and the government a painful decision.

"To watch over the national safety the public authorities are obliged to leave for the moment the city of Paris. Under the command of its eminent chief, the French army, full of courage and spirit, will defend the capital and its patriotic population against the invader. But the war must be pursued at the same time in the rest of the French territory.

"The struggle for the honor of the nation and the reparation of violated rights will continue without peace or truce and without a stop or a failure. None of our armies has been broken.

"If some of them have suffered only too evident losses the gaps in the ranks have been filled up from the waiting reserve forces, while the calling out of a new class of reserves brings us tomorrow to new resources in men and energy.

"Endure and fight. Such should be the motto of the allied army, English, Russian, Belgians and French.

"Endure and fight. While on the sea our allies aid us to cut the enemy's communications with the world.

"Endure and fight. While the Russians continue to carry a decisive blow to the heart of the German empire.

"It is for the government of this republic to direct this resistance to the very end and to give to this formidable struggle all its vigor and efficiency. It is indispensable that the government retain the mastery of its own actions. On the demand of the military authorities the government therefore transfers its seat momentarily to a point of the territory whence it may remain in constant relations with the rest of the country. It invites the members of parliament not to remain distant from the government in order to form, in the face of the enemy, with the government and their colleagues a group of national unity.

"The government does not leave Paris without having assured a defense of the city and its entrenched camp by all means in its power. It knows it has not the need to recommend to the admirable Parisian population a calm resolution and sangfroid for it shows every day it is equal to its greatest duties.

"Frenchmen, let us all be worthy of these tragic circumstances. We shall gain a final victory and we shall gain it by untiring will, endurance and tenacity. A nation that will not perish and which to live retreats before neither suffering nor sacrifice is sure to vanquish."

Sacred College Elects New Pope

MGR. DELLA CHIESA POPE BENEDICT XV

Rome, Sept. 3.—Cardinal Giacomo Della Chiesa, archbishop of Bologna, Italy, was today elected supreme pontiff of the Catholic hierarchy in succession to the late Pope Pius X, who died August 20.

He will reign under the name of Benedict XV.

The conclave sacred college, whose duty it is to elect the pope, went into session the evening of Monday, August 31. The announcement of the outcome of its deliberations was made this morning shortly after 11 o'clock.

Two Did Not Arrive.

Cardinal Gibbons, of Baltimore, and Cardinal O'Connell, of Boston, are on board the steamer Canopic, which is not due at Naples until tomorrow. They were on their way to attend the conclave. Consequently neither of them participated in the election of the new pope. Cardinal Farley, of New York, reached here several days ago.

Prince Chigi-Albani, one of the assistants to the throne in the pope's household, was notified at a quarter past 11 that Cardinal Della Chiesa had been elected.

At twenty minutes past 11 Monsignor Misciatelli, sub-prefect of the sacred palaces and governor of the conclave, received a communication from the new pope asking that the gratings of the basilica of St. Peter be opened, because he proposed in a short time to issue his proclamation. At this same hour—eleven twenty—the master of ceremonies appeared on the central balcony of St. Peter's and spread out the red carpet. The crowd below, which had been

American Embassy Remains as Government Moves to Bordeaux.

Paris Feels Keenly German Approach and Prepares for Eventualities.

Paris, Sept. 3. 11:40 a. m. President Poincare and his cabinet have gone to Bordeaux, the new French seat of government, where they arrive in the morning.

The diplomatic corps, excepting the embassy of the United States, accompanies the government to Bordeaux. The American ambassador, Myron T. Herrick, has decided to remain in Paris and this course has been warmly commended by the ministry of foreign affairs because the representative of the most powerful neutral government will be able should the occasion arise, to serve the French as well as his own people.

Reasons for Remaining.

Mr. Herrick's reasons for remaining, in substance are that he can better look after the several thousand Americans who stay in Paris. They are principally permanent residents in business or persons of moderate means unable to leave conveniently. He also feels that he can better protect American business interests among them several American banks and agencies with deposits of Americans. These would have trans-

MRS. LILLIAN C LARK WOOD.

GEN. GALLEINI PLANS A DESPERATE STAND

Paris, Sept. 3.—3:05 p. m.—It is officially announced that Gen. Gallieni, commander of the army defending the city, today issued the following proclamation to the inhabitants of Paris:

"The members of the government of the republic have left Paris in order to give a new impetus to the defense of the nation. I have been ordered to defend Paris against the invaders. This order I will fulfill to the end.

"GALLIENI,

"Military Governor of Paris, Commanding the Army of Paris."

A dispatch to the Havas agency from Amsterdam says the American minister to the Netherlands, Dr. Henry Van Dyke, has sent to Washington a long report upon the alleged German atrocities in Belgium.

Situation in Belgium.

A Havas agency dispatch from Antwerp contains the following official announcement by the Belgian government:

"The situation remains the same in the provinces of Antwerp and Limbourg. The Germans have set fire to several sets of farm buildings. M. Merchten, attache at the Russian embassy, confirms the report of the destruction of Lansberg, Cessel and Beschofsheim by Russian cavalry and also that they have broken the lines of the enemy between Heilsberg, (east Prussia, forty miles south of Koenigsberg,) and Koenigsberg."

One of the German aeroplanes of the Taube type, which recently dropped bombs on the city of Paris, has been brought down. The two German aviators on board were killed.

RUSSIANS CONTINUE TO WIN.

Czar's Forces Score Success After Success Over Austrians.

London, Sept. 3. The Petrograd correspondent of the Post sends the following on the operations on the Russian front:

"Russia is scoring success after success against Austria and is momentarily expecting news of a signal victory.

"The commander-in-chief on the Austrian front apparently plans to drive in strongly with one army from the east, starting from the Russian provinces adjoining Rumania, and in the meantime merely aims to restrain the Austrian advances into the Polish provinces, thus keeping Austria on the alert along the line of two to three hundred miles.

"While pushing temporary advances in South Poland the Russians were forcing their way westward from Podolia and Bessarabia upon Lemberg. When the Austrians finally realized these plans they attempted to turn the Russian flank near Hallic near the junction of the Gnita Lipa river with the Dniester and a sanguinary fight took place there two days ago. The Austrians were signally defeated, losing 5,000 killed and many prisoners, including one general, 32 guns, a standard and quantities of supplies.

"Apparently the progress of the southern Russian army from Podolia in Galicia has been a series of fights on an increasing scale until a third river, known as the Foul Lipa, was reached. The fight for the possession of the valley of the foul Lipa was severe. The Austrians had realized the strength of the Russians and had strongly fortified a naturally formidable position. This was carried after an obstinate fight.

Says He Can't Leave But He is Well and Also Happy.

In a letter to employes of his jewelry store in this city August Bruder, writing from Waldkirch, Germany, where he is detained because of the war in Europe, says he has made several attempts to leave Germany, but that women and children are being given first bookings on the steamships leaving for America, and that he does not know now when he will be able to leave the war stricken country.

He wrote the letter in the German script, saying that he did not dare write in English, because of the censorship, and that if any in Fort Wayne intended to write him it must be in German, and the letter dare not be sealed.

Mr. Bruder's letter, however, was in an optimistic vein, and he closed by declaring that he was still in the land of the living, feeling well and extremely happy. He added that he wanted to have the Fort Wayne daily newspapers sent to him. He said he had several conferences with Consul Koehl.

He tried to leave Germany on the Holland-American line some time ago, but was unsuccessful, and at the time of his writing, August 17, he daily expected a letter from the steamship offices giving him some encouragement as to passage to the United States. Among other things he asks that his friends send him postcards or letters and says he will leave for home at the first opportunity.

50 KILLED IN A RIOT ON STEAMER

New York, Sept. 3.—A riot aboard the German steamer Bluecher, at anchor in the harbor of Perambuco, Brazil, in which three of the Bluecher's crew and 50 of her 800 steerage passengers were killed, was described today by passengers aboard the Brazilian steamer Sao Paulo upon her arrival here from Brazilian ports whence she sailed at the commencement of the European war.

BULLETIN.

Paris, Sept. 3.—Reports are in circulation here that one of the German aeroplanes, which hovered over Paris yesterday, had been brought down at Champigny. Several bombs were dropped while the German machines were here, but only one of them exploded and this did only slight damage

WORRIED NOW ABOUT TURKEY

Washington, Sept. 3.—State department officials today admitted their apprehension over the situation in Turkey. For three days there has not been a single cablegram from Ambassador Morgenthau. As the situation grew acute a week ago, he communicated full details of the diplomatic crisis and kept in constant touch on matters of funds for Americans.

The belief prevailed that cable communication either had been interrupted or restricted on account of the gravity of the political situation. A declaration of war by Turkey on Great Britain is expected in many quarters here though the Turkish ambassador declares he has been without advices for several days and will not predict what course his country will take.

TENNESSEE HAS REACHED HAVRE

London, Sept. 3.—2:20 p. m.—The American embassy has been advised of the arrival of the American cruiser Tennessee at Havre, where she will supply funds to hundreds of Americans who are trying to leave France by that port, now that the northern ports have been closed because of the German advance. The embassy today sent a messenger with funds to relieve 200 Americans stranded at Ostend.

Ambassador Page received Mme. Emilo Vandervelde, secretary of the new university of Brussels and wife of one of the Belgian commissioners who are proceeding to Washington to describe alleged violations of Germans of the international law conventions.

GERMAN FORCES CAPTURE AMIENS

London, Sept. 3.—2:55 p. m.—A dispatch from Amiens, France, to the Daily Mail, dated Tuesday, September 1, declares that the Germans have taken possession of Amiens after three days' fighting.

Amiens is the capital of the department of Somme. It is seventy miles directly north of Paris. It is a manufacturing city and has a population of 90,000. It is on the line of the railroad to Boulogne and about fifty miles to the west of Lafere and other points in the department of Aisne where there has been fighting during the past few days between the allied armies and the Germans.

WHEN AIRSHIPS RAIDED ANTWERP

London, Sept. 3.—7 p. m.—The Antwerp correspondent of the Central News describes the second aerial raid upon Antwerp by a German Zeppelin, which he said occurred just before dawn. The bombardment he explained demonstrated from a military point of view the futility of the Germans' efforts to do any damage of importance. His description of the aerial bombardment follows:

"I was awakened by a rattle of rifle fire from neighboring roofs and the crash of exploding bombs. Hurriedly descending I was just in time to see the airship disappearing southward at a tremendous height. There was incessant rattle of shots from rifles and machine guns from the darkened town and shrapnel could be seen exploding like meteorites in the trail of the flying marauder. All around from points of vantage on the high buildings spurts of flames indicated the efforts of the firers to bring down the hated Zeppelin.

"It is believed the Zeppelin drifted over the city with the aid of a brisk easterly wind so that with her engines almost silent she was able to get near enough to the city to begin work unopposed. There was no panic in the city, the people remaining in doors until dawn, when they gathered in small groups on the street corners to discuss the outrage.

KURRIE IS NEW HEAD OF MONON

Chicago, Sept. 3.—Harry R. Kurrie, of Chicago, was elected president of the Monon railroad at a meeting of the directors held in New York. Announcement was made at headquarters here today.

Mr. Kurrie, who succeeds to the office held until recently by Frederic A. Delano, who resigned to become a member of the federal reserve board, is one of the youngest railroad presidents in the United States, being but 39 years of age. The main lines of the Monon are in Indiana and for the first time in the history of the road a native of that state becomes its head. Mr. Kurrie entered the employment of the road in 1902 as assistant general solicitor. In 1910 he was made general attorney of the company and his promotion is from that position. E. C. Field, vice president of the road, stated that no change in personnel or policy are contemplated.

WILL DELIVER HIS OWN PLEA

Wilson Going in Person to Congress to Ask War Tax Measure.

President May Not Receive the Belgium Protest Commission.

Washington, Sept. 3.—President Wilson will appear before a joint session of congress tomorrow afternoon at 12:30 o'clock to ask for a war tax measure to raise $100,000,000 annually.

This announcement was made today following a visit of Democratic Leader Underwood to the white house. In his message the president will not advise means of raising the money.

The president completed his address and showed it today to Mr. Underwood. Mr. Underwood believes the war tax is necessary to keep the treasury in a strong condition and make it unnecessary to call in funds advanced to banks. He will ask congress to provide for obtaining the $100,000,000 in a way which will be felt least by the people of the country.

Protests Not Yet Received.

It was said at the white house today that protests against dropping of bombs by German air craft have not been received yet by the president and it was indicated that the president will take no action upon them. The president may not receive the Belgium commission which is coming to protest. The

DROWNS IN RIVER AFTER ASCENSION

Mrs. Lillian Clark Wood is Carried Into Stream by Parachute.

Mrs. Lillian Clark Wood, aged twenty-two years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Clark, 448 West DeWald street, drowned in St. Joseph's river late Wednesday afternoon after having made a balloon ascension with a friend, Walter Wells, and a parachute drop from an altitude of 3,000 feet at Robison park.

WALTER WELLS,
Aeronaut Who Made Ascension With Young Woman Who Lost Life.

With Wells the young woman was strapped to the balloon and they made a beautiful ascension. At a signal fired by a revolver, Mrs. Wood cut loose and the wind carried her parachute directly above the stream. Unable to rid herself of the parachute the young lady drowned before help could reach her. It was her first experience as an aeronaut.

Her body was recovered from the water five minutes after landing in the stream. Physicians were summoned

ALLIES FALLING BACK IN TITANIC STRUGGLE

London, Sept. 3.—The battle to decide whether history will repeat itself in a second siege of Paris is still in progress, according to the latest official announcement here.

Future military historians will write volumes about the details of this battle, but all the British public knows officially concerning the titanic struggle—the most momentous British soldiers have fought since Waterloo—is contained in one sentence of an official report issued last night by the press bureau.

"Continuous fighting has been in progress along almost the whole line of battle."

To this generally the French official communication adds the fact that the allied forces have fallen back toward the southwest to avoid an action which might have been engaged under unfavorable conditions.

Much is Unknown.

How far and to what point line the allies have gone is unknown. There can be no revelation of military secrets, nothing which a patriotic censorship could criticize, in stating these facts, because the German army, which is engaging the allies, knows precisely where their first line is drawn, and the purpose of the censorship is only to suppress facts which might enlighten the enemy.

The brief official bulletin of last night is the first word the British people have received from their government concerning the present battle. The last previous bulletin was Field Marshal Kitchener's statement, issued Sunday night, throwing a welcome light on the previous four days' battle, which ended

The absence of official announcements from the capitals of the belligerents today is the first indication that the fighting in the east and west continues without recisive results.

Such news dispatches as escaped the censors tend to confirm earlier official claims and admissions. The Germans are pushing their right wing nearer Paris while their center and left appear to be held by the French.

Russia is pressing forward in the Austrian province of Galicia after having taken the strongly fortified capital Lemberg.

The Germans are admittedly victorious in East Prussia.

The Japanese are said to have occupied seven islands near Kiao Chow and to have landed additional troops within marching distance of that German stronghold in the face of protests by China.

King Nicholas of Montenegro is reported as determined to occupy Scutari.

The governor and other German officials of Samoa have been made prisoners by the British and sent to the Fiji islands.

The government of France is now established at Bordeaux. The foreign embassies and legations, with the exception of those of the United States and Switzerland, have also been removed from Paris to Bordeaux.

DASHING CHARGE WAS LIKE NEW BALAKLAVA

London, Sept. 3.—The Daily Mail's correspondent behind the British lines describes the charge of the Ninth lancers, which occurred at an unnamed spot during the recent series of tactical retreats as a second Balaklava. He says:

"Terrible havoc had been caused in our ranks by shells from a battery of eleven German guns posted inside a fort near the Belgian frontier.

"It seemed impossible to silence their fire until the Ninth Lancers made their attempt, riding straight at the guns after debouching into the open and charging under a hail of melinite and lyddite.

"I have not been able to get reliable figures as to the distance they rode, but they reached their goal. Nothing could stop them. They reached the guns, killed the gunners and put the guns out of action. Then, like their prototypes of Balaklava, they rode back.

"On the return they fell in greater numbers still from the attack of other German batteries, posted at vantage points around the valley.

"Notable bayonet charges were made at ——— (name deleted) on Wednesday last.

"Several British infantry regiments occupied an exposed position around which the Germans gradually circled, drawing the noose closer.

"The Britishers decided to cut their way through the cordon. So the men went at it, yelling and shouting, and got through, although the German artillery mowed them down frightfully.

"The German machine guns have been tremendously effective in all engagements thus far. Men who saw the South African war say the hottest firing there was childish compared with what the British troops have undergone since their arrival in France. So far as I can learn thus far the Germans have lost twenty-six of these guns."

Saturday, and which reflected the greatest credit on the generalship and discipline of the British army.

Three Million Frenchmen.

Three million Frenchmen are under arms to defend Paris. They still have confidence in the ultimate result of the war.

The list of killed, wounded and missing British officers from the crack regiments which were engaged in the four days' battle of last week brings mourning to many noble and aristocratic homes. This, however, is the price of war which the country appears willing to pay.

The prince of Wales fund for the relief of suffering is now over $10,000,000.

Recruiting in Great Britain has reached vast proportions in the past fortnight.

In spite of the fact that the French capital has been removed to Bordeaux and that the German army of the west is within thirty miles of the outer fortifications of Paris, a strange air of confidence prevails today among the allies. The general feeling seems to be that the German attack is wearing itself out in hammering away at the allied lines, which give but do not break.

Paris Soon to Be Pivot.

President Poincare has issued a proclamation to his people telling them that military necessity alone has led him to remove his government to Bordeaux. Military experts agree that Paris will soon be the pivot of the hostile forces operating in the area of the west. Even the downfall of the French capital is not expected to end these operations.

The feeling of confidence was greatly increased by the news of the great victory of the Russians in Galicia. Reports from Petrograd tell of the entry of Russians into Lemberg, the capital of Galicia. These appear credible as news of the defeat of the Austrians in that district has been received from several sources.

One of the Greatest.

The battle of Lemberg was one of the greatest ever fought. Evidently it resulted in a decisive and perhaps overwhelming defeat of the Austrians. The battle line extended over 200 miles and it is estimated that 1,500,000 men were engaged.

According to an official dispatch received by Emperor Nicholas from Grand Duke Nicholas, commander-in-chief of the Russian forces, the victory was won after seven days of fighting. The climax came when the Austrians were routed in a final desperate assault on the Russian center, which was held by General Ruzsky.

The Austrian army in Galicia was acting in close co-operation with two German army corps facing Breslau and waiting to envelop the Russian forces in Poland. Their plans, however, met with a series of disasters ending in a complete rout when an attempt was made to pierce the Russian center.

The Line in the West.

Lafere, one of the weaker of the French fortresses, evidently is in the hands of the Germans. Farther east and north the allied armies apparently held their own in the neighborhood of Loan and Rethel (24 miles northeast of Rheims). The right of the allies rests on the fortified Franco-German frontier.

The names of the British who fell in the four days' battle last week will not be announced until they have been communicated to relatives. The heavy loss of officers in proportion to the men is the story of South Africa over again. It indicates that the officers refused to take cover as they insist that the men shall.

The west coast of Belgium and the west coast of northern France are free from Germans. Many Americans are crossing the channel to the continent determined to see something of the war at any risk.

DROWNS IN RIVER AFTER ASCENSION

from the city and a pulmotor was used for more than a half hour in an effort to resuscitate her, but all efforts to save her life were fruitless. Wells cut away from the balloon in his parachute almost simultaneously with Mrs. Wood and landed safely on the west shore of the river.

Father Was Absent.

The young woman made the ascension against the wishes of her mother. Her father, a conductor on the Nickel Plate railroad, was out of the city on one of his regular runs between Fort Wayne and Cleveland, and knew nothing of his daughter's sad end until he arrived home from his work.

Mrs. Wood had always been adventuresome, according to relatives, and she had made a number of trips in an aeroplane at Toledo, but she had frequently expressed a desire to ride a balloon and was apparently happy that through the courtesy of William Crowl, owner of the balloon, she was permitted to make the trip Wednesday.

She was also athletically inclined and was the possessor of a medal, awarded her for championship in a shooting tournament in Ohio some time ago, when, with expert marksmen as her opponents, she made a score of 97 out of a possible 100 shots. She was widely known about Fort Wayne and her hundreds of friends were sorrowfully shocked when informed of her death.

Thinks It Heart Disease.

Aeronaut Wells, who made the ascent with Mrs. Woods, believes that the young woman's death was due to heart disease and not drowning, and that death had intervened before she alighted in the water.

"She had commented on her enjoyment of the trip while we were in the air," said Mr. Wells, "and I had given her careful instructions as to cutting her parachute loose and especially warned her of the sudden drop that would follow its release. I believe it was this shock that resulted in her death. She was in the water less than three minutes and lay face downward."

Helped Take Census.

Mrs. Wood was employed by the government in 1910 as one of the official census takers in Fort Wayne. She and her mother were both engaged for the enumeration. Deputy United States Clerk Thomas J. Logan, in discussing the tragedy Thursday morning, says she was a bright and intellectual young woman and was the youngest census enumerator employed in Fort Wayne.

Mrs. Wood was a member of the Calvary United Brethren church, of Mad Anthony hive No. 27, L. O. T. M., and of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, No. 436.

Funeral services Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence. Interment will be made at Prairie Grove cemetery.

SUSTAINS A BRUISED LIMB.

Vincent Matthews, of Whitley County, Struck by Automobile on Goshen Road.

Vincent Matthews, of Smith township, Whitley county, was brought to the Lutheran hospital late Wednesday afternoon following an accident on the Goshen road when he was jammed between an automobile driven by L. R. Griffin, of Milwaukee, but formerly of this city. Mr. Matthews was dumping a load of gravel on the road, and when the automobile attempting to pass skidded, catching the unfortunate man.

Mr. Griffin picked up the man and hurried him to the office of Dr. O. P. Franks, of Churubusco, where it was feared that he had a broken limb. He was then taken to the Lutheran hospital in the Griffin automobile, where it was found that the man was suffering from a badly bruised limb. No bones were broken.

TELLS OF GREAT THINKER BERGSON

Dr. T. H. Marshall in Address at Teachers' Institute.

In an address delivered at the Thursday morning's session of the Allen County Teachers' institute held at the high school auditorium, Dr. Troword H. Marshall, of Dayton, Ohio, told of the great French thinker, Bergson, who now dominates the thought of much of Europe.

The speaker pointed out how Bergson's influence has grown until it affects all French life. The people now talk of Bergsonian art, Bergsonian literature, Bergsonian theology and even of a Bergsonian labor movement. Dr. Marshall gave the principal features of the Bergsonian philosophy and so simplified the abstract teaching of the great Frenchman that the entire audience was able to understand him. The speaker emphasized Bergson's insistance on the fact that the world is not finished yet but that we live in a growing world. Bergson also teaches us that life is unpredictable but shoots out on all sides into new developments.

The afternoon session began at 1:30 o'clock and Dr. H. A. Adrian delivered an address on "Right Beginning in Reading," and Grace E. Marshall, Ph. D., gave a talk on "The Training of the Will."

Officials in charge state that this is the best institute that has ever been held in Allen county as it is well attended and much interest on the part of every one is displayed.

Lecture is Free.

The institute lecture on "The Antiquity of Man," to be given by Dr. Troward H. Marshall, of Dayton, tonight at the Wayne Street M. E. church, is free, and the general public is cordially invited to hear it. The address is said to be striking for the new ideas it presents, and the invitation is especially extended to professional men to hear it.

GERMAN ADVANCE CALLED AMAZING

London, Sept. 3.—The Daily News correspondent wiring from Gournay-en-Bray, a small town near Rouen, says:

"The German advance is amazing. A great battle is raging with what result I know not, but I do know that the French and British armies are intact and still confident of ultimate success.

"Incredible as it seems the tremendous masses of men that the Germans have hurled at the allies have not overwhelmed them. It seems that while the Germans have the weight the allies certainly have the wit and science and these, with reinforcements will eventually win.

"General Pau had fine success but in the center and left center the allies were not so successful, being obliged to retire. As a result of Sunday's battle the Germans now occupy * * * (name of town deleted by censor).

CORONER FILES MANY FINDINGS

Finds No Blame for Rehm Automobile Accident Near Avilla.

Dr. Edward H. Kruse, coroner of Allen county, on Thursday filed with County Clerk Gerding his findings in sixteen cases upon which he held inquests—most of them deaths by violence. His findings on the death of Mrs. Callie Blume, wife of A. M. Blume, a St. Joe township farmer, who was killed July 27, when the automobile of Daniel M. Rehm, 425 Fairmount place, Fort Wayne, was struck by a Fort Wayne & Northern Indiana interurban car a short distance north of Avilla, are that the highway was so constructed that the motorman could not see the approaching automobile and that the occupants of the automobile could not see the approaching car, although they tried to do so. The coroner further finds in this case that the automobile, when approaching the tracks, was being operated on second speed and that the driver—Mr. Rehm—was not speeding at the time of the accident. Mr. Rehm's 17-year-old daughter, Amber, was killed and Mr. and Mrs. Rehm were seriously injured in the same accident.

The Coroner's Findings.

The coroner's findings in the sixteen cases filed Wednesday are as follows, the date of death being given:

Mary Meyers, aged 36 years, August 10, 1914—Convulsions due to acute uremic poisoning.

Elmer E. Weil, aged 21 years, August 11, 1914—Crushed in automobile accident.

Alfred M. Mowery, aged 16 years, August 10, 1914—Accidental gunshot wound in abdomen from shotgun in hands of Claude Mowery.

TROUBLE FEARED IN PAVING WORK

Mayor Doubts Validity of Contract for Maumee Avenue Job.

Believing that the Indiana street improvement laws, as they limit the powers of the boards of works in cities of the first, second and third classes, is distinct and unmistakable in its mandate that contracts shall not be let for paving streets where the cost is in excess of 50 per cent of the assessed valuation of the property abutting, exclusive of the value of improvements, Mayor Hosey raises serious question as to the validity of the contract for paving Maumee avenue, from Sidney street to the city limits with brick. Work on the improvement has already been inaugurated by the Moellering Construction company. Along that part of Maumee avenue now to be paved is a great deal of unimproved and unplatted territory. Mayor Hosey is positive it is not assessed at a figure high enough to equal double the cost of the expensive pavement going down. He fears that if the contract is completed the property owners will be able to successfully contest the assessments as being invalid and so stick the city for a large part of the cost of the pavement. The question will be investigated and some action may be taken if the mayor's view of the law is coincided in by the city's legal department.

FOR LAKESIDE SEWER PUMPS.

Resolution Prepared for Them and Condemnation of Site.

The resolution has been prepared and may be considered by the board of works Thursday evening for the construction of 1,800 feet of new 24-inch sewer, the purchase and installation of sewer pumps and the condemnation of a site for the pump house in Lakeside. This resolution contemplates fulfillment of the long asserted demands of hundreds of people in that region for relief from back-up sewage and accumulated storm water during times of flood in the Maumee, when the gates of the main sewers there must be closed against gravity flow from the river. The new sewer will extend from the alley south of Lake avenue to Cody street, a distance of five squares. When the board shall have adopted the resolution steps will be taken in court to condemn three lots needed for the pump house site. The entire improvement will doubtless cost $11,000 or $12,000 and will be paid for by assessment of all the lands and lots drained into the Lakeside sewers.

BOARD OF WORKS MEETING.

Hearings Will Be Given on Several Improvement Resolutions.

The board of works Thursday evening will have up for confirmation and will hear remonstrances on resolutions for the following improvements:

Opening and extension of Summit street from its eastern terminus to its intersection with Maumee avenue and Lillie street and condemning land for that purpose.

Opening and extension of Koch street from the alley north of Hoffman street to that street.

Condemning right of way under and through the Lake Shore railroad for a sewer 150 feet east of St. Mary's avenue.

Opening the alley south of High street from the west line of Watkins' addition to Sherman street; also vacating the south sixteen feet of High street from the alley east of Sherman to Sherman, and also vacation of the alley east and south of lot 12, Ewing's subdivision.

NEW HOME READY SOON.

Extensive remodeling of the interior of the Rabus property, east of the city hall, is now in progress to fit it for headquarters for the city light and power department. The building is being overhauled in such wise as to admirably adapt it for the purpose. It is expected that the work will be completed by the 10th of the month, when the present discount of electric bills will be at an end. Following this payment bills for city current will be paid for in the new building.

MET A REMONSTRANCE.

It was expected that the park board would meet late Thursday afternoon with a quorum present to take final action on a remonstrance against the improvement of Rudisill boulevard from Calhoun street to South Wayne avenue. Five of the eleven resident property owners entered protest at the meeting Wednesday but action was deferred because of the absence of a quorum.

ferred their cash elsewhere had not the American ambassador remained.

Another reason that determined Mr. Herrick to stay was the possibility that he might, as the representative of the United States, serve human interests regardless of any belligerent and express the views and feeling of the American government and people. Mr. Herrick asked Washington on Friday last if he was instructed to stay, giving at the same time his opinion that he ought to stay. Secretary of State Bryan replied that Mr. Herrick might remain.

With Bryan's Approval.

The American minister has sent J. W. Garrett, minister of Argentina; Louis Sussdorf, jr., of New York, third secretary of the embassy, and Captain Parker, military attache, to be with the French government at Bordeaux with the approval of Mr. Bryan.

The American embassy is now charged with British, Russian, Japanese, Servian, German and Austrian affairs in Paris and it is probable that the embassy will have its telegrams and mail delivered, in any event, owing to diplomatic exemptions.

Mrs. Herrick, who has been ill but is now recovering, will also remain in Paris.

Two Trains Reserved.

Two trains reserved for the president and the members of the senate and chamber of deputies left for Bordeaux this afternoon.

Fifteen judges of the court of cassation also will be transferred to the provisional capital of France.

In addition to the American ambassador, M. T. Herrick, the Swiss minister, M. Lardy, also has decided to remain in Paris.

The population of the capital is taking the departure of the heads of the government calmly, recognizing that it is a matter of prudence.

Although the city generally is placid the people feel keenly the approach of the German army and they are rapidly preparing for whatever may happen. Many families left for the west today, taking with them household necessities. These refugees from the capital have been forced to make very long detours because the railroads are encumbered with military trains. The railroad lines out of Paris to the north have virtually ceased running trains owing to fears of possible raids by German cavalry.

REVOLT AGAINST COX.

Whitacre Supporters in Ohio Out for Governor's Scalp.

Columbus, O., Sept. 3.—A number of democratic leaders who supported Congressman John J. Whitacre, defeated for the democratic gubernatorial nomination by Governor James M. Cox, started today the organization of the "True Democracy League of Ohio," with the purpose of fighting Cox and supporting Frank B. Willis, republican candidate for governor, at the election. The organization will bolt only the head of the state ticket and will support other democratic state candidates, it was announced. E. A. Crawford, Congressman Whitacre's campaign manager and chief organizer of the new league, declared Whitacre would wage a speaking campaign over Ohio for Willis.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

KENDALLVILLE IS RAVAGED BY FLAMES

Total Loss of $25,000 is Caused by Fire That Burned Stables and Threatened City.

Kendallville, Ind., Sept. 3.—The fire that broke out Tuesday afternoon and for a time threatened a large section of the business district with destruction, caused a total loss of $25,000, the bulk of which falls on John A. Cain, whose livery stable and much of its contents were prey to the flames. The fire is believed to have been communicated to the livery stable from a burning rubbish heap in the alley. A strong wind was blowing and in a few minutes the stable was wrapped in flames, and after rescuing two horses nothing more could be done. Six horses perished in the fire. The fire department, whose headquarters are just across the street from the scene of the fire, responded promptly, but there was no water pressure and for a quarter of an hour the firemen were obliged to stand idle and watch the destruction of the barn, the progress of the flames and the increasing menace of the entire square. The Garrett fire company responded promptly to a call for aid and with sixteen men and 800 feet of hose made a rapid trip by special car over the Fort Wayne and Northwestern interurban line. The Kendallville department, however, had the situation well in hand when the Garrett department reached here. Besides Cain, the Chappell Furniture company, which had its two hearses, a beautiful black team used on them and some other funeral paraphernalia destroyed in the fire, was the principal loser. Berhalter brothers, undertakers, also suffered loss in the burning of the barn. The household goods of George Bloomfield, who resided in the flat above the stable, were destroyed. Mrs. Bloomfield was the heroine of the fire, carrying her brother, Thomas Rogers, ill of typhoid fever, down the stairs to safety while the flames roared behind her. The Matzinger grocery was saved and most of the stock was removed by helpers from the crowd. Water wrought heavy damage to the Zorn plumbing shop, but the building was saved. The firemen had work to save the George Lohman residence on State street, and all the household goods were carried out. The fire caused a shut down of the electric light and power station for several hours and put the Bell telephone system out of commission.

BIG TIME IN OSSIAN.

Ossian, Ind., Sept. 3. Ossian will have a whole week of gala doings beginning Monday, September 7, and continuing until Saturday, September 12. It will be a homecoming affair all week and during the six days of the celebration a carnival company will furnish entertainment. Thursday, Friday and Saturday there will be held a mammoth agricultural fair, for which the exhibits promise to be both large and interesting. The premium list is extensive and attractive. During the week there will be music on the streets all of the time and plenty of free attractions besides the carnival company's offerings. There will be balloon ascensions and parachute drops daily. A baseball game will be staged daily. The Fort Wayne Badgers have been scheduled for Friday forenoon. Two brass bands have been engaged for the entire week.

GRASPS LIVE WIRE; DIES.

Nine-Year-Old Lad Meets Instant Death in Lagrange.

Lagrange, Ind., Sept. 3.—Grasping the dangling end of a live wire that had been broken by the storm, Arthur, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Garmire, of this place, met an instant death in the presence of his brother, aged eleven, and another young companion with whom he was returning from a fishing trip. The unfortunate lad, observed the dangling end of the wire and as he sought to take hold of it was warned by the other boys. Heedlessly he seized the deadly wire and the terrific shock from 1,100 volts of current struck life from his body in an instant. Mr. and Mrs. Garmire, until recently, resided in the country west of Lagrange. The slain boy is a brother of Robert B. Garmire, stenographer and a deputy coroner in Fort Wayne.

URGES FARMERS TO RAISE WHEAT

Huntington Miller Says War Argues Increase of Acreage.

Huntington, Ind., Sept. 3.—That the present war which is devastating Europe will affect the crops of Huntington county directly is the prediction of R. A. Brown, president of the Huntington Mill company, who advises the farmers to increase the acreage of their wheat fields.

"The war will affect next year's crops, notwithstanding all reports to the contrary. The farmers of Huntington county should put out a big acreage, as it is absurd to think that the women and children of the old country can put out and harvest the crops. They have always had all they could do in times of peace, let alone feeding the vast armies.

"We are bound to see higher prices for wheat in the next two years. We would advise the farmers to put out every available field in wheat, as the war will affect next year's prices even more than it has this year. It will be absolutely impossible for the old world to put out 50 per cent. of their usual acreage.

"War sentiment is always bullish to start with, but next year there will be a shortage of the world's breadstuff that will make for the highest prices we have yet seen."

WORKED LIKE HAND ON FARM.

Auburn, Ind., Sept. 3.—Hazel Wyatt and her husband, Clarence Wyatt, have been relating their troubles to a court room well filled with neighbors and relatives and it has taken the best part of two days to enlighten the court. Mrs. Wyatt tells a long story of the way her husband had used her. Three weeks after their marriage he kicked her because she went to Sunday school. She says he was jealous and had a revolver with him all the time and threatened her with it and also flourished a butcher knife. He forced her to work in the fields, plow, seed, harrow and husk corn, and she did work on the road. He kicked her out of bed one night and strained her back.

AGAIN IN DIVORCE COURT.

Hartford City, Ind., Sept. 3.—Marion Flatter, a young Blackford county farmer, has been extremely unfortunate in courting the favor of Eros. Twice has the god of love played him false. In July, 1913, he was divorced from Hazel Jarnigan, of Delaware county, charging that a bachelor uncle of the girl had come between them. Scarcely had the ink dried on the decree, which restored to the defendant her maiden name, than Flatter took unto himself another bride, at Dayton, Ohio. Wednesday afternoon he filed suit for divorce from his second wife.

CHARGES FRAUDULENT MARRIAGE

Bluffton, Ind., Sept. 3. A complaint was filed in circuit court by Mrs. Hilda Kean Zimmerman against Harry Zimmerman, in the nature of fraudulent marriage proceedings, and this morning Sheriff Johnston and Deputy Sheriff George Albright drove to the home of Zimmerman in the vicinity of Domestic, and placed him under arrest. Failing to furnish bond in the sum of $600 he is in the county jail, awaiting a trial at the September term of court.

The complaint says Zimmerman married the plaintiff to escape proceedings and never supported her. They were married May 31, 1914.

ELKHART'S POPULATION 23,310.

Elkhart, Ind., Sept. 3.—The population of Elkhart is estimated at 23,310 by the R. L. Polk directory company, of Detroit, which has just placed its 1914 directory in the mercantile houses of the city. A summary of the facts about the city contained in the introduction supplies the information that Elkhart has an area of seven square miles.

ROUGHS STONE WOMAN'S HOUSE.

Bluffton, Ind., Sept. 3.—A gang of rowdies terrorized Mrs. Lide Bennett, a west side resident, and stoned her house, tore away screens and committed other depredations. She was afraid to leave her home to call for assistance. She has furnished Marshal Fritz with information that may lead to some arrests.

Dailey, local dentist who attended the annual convention of the Northern Indiana Dental association in Culver, has arrived home, with the announcement that the 1915 convention of the association will be held in Bluffton. BURIED IN GRAVEL PIT.

Huntington, Ind., Sept. 3.—A gravel bank on the John Morrow farm, south of Huntington, caved in, burying William Spath to his armpits. The weight of the gravel nearly choked him and his left ankle was severely sprained. He was loading a wagon at the time and other men who were working in the pit hurried with shovels to dig him out.

FALLING HAIR AND DANDRUFF

For Four Years, Dandruff Could Be Seen Plainly. Head Burned and So Itchy Could Hardly Stand It. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Trouble Disappeared.

455 12th St., Detroit, Mich.—"I was troubled with falling hair and dandruff for about four years. The dandruff was very thick and my hair was always full of it. It could be seen plainly at times and whenever I would comb my hair it would come out pretty bad and my coat would be covered with it. Whenever I would scratch my head it would get red and leave little pimples. Then my head would burn and be so itchy that I could hardly stand it.

"I tried almost everything but with no result till one night I happened to think about Cuticura Soap and Ointment and thought I would try them. After using them about two weeks I found they were doing me so much good that I kept right on using the Cuticura Soap for washing my hair and the Cuticura Ointment for rubbing on my scalp. Now my hair is nice and thick and I am not bothered with any more dandruff or falling hair. The trouble has disappeared." (Signed) Roy Mittendorf, Jan. 31, 1914.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

John 11-1-16.

1 Now a certain man was sick, named Lazarus, of Bethany, the town of Mary and her sister Martha.

3 Therefore his sisters sent unto him, saying, Lord, behold, he whom thou lovest is sick.

4 When Jesus heard that, he said, This sickness is not unto death, but for the glory of God, that the Son of God might be glorified thereby.

5 Now Jesus loved Martha, and her sister, and Lazarus.

6 When he had heard therefore that he was sick, he abode two days still in the same place where he was.

7 Then after that saith he to his disciples, Let us go into Judaea again.

8 His disciples say unto him, Master, the Jews of late sought to stone thee; and goest thou thither again?

9 Jesus answered, Are there not twelve hours in the day? If any man walk in the day, he stumbleth not, because he seeth the light of this world.

10 But if a man walk in the night, he stumbleth, because there is no light in him.

11 These things said he: and after that he saith unto them, Our friend Lazarus sleepeth; but I go, that I may awake him out of sleep.

12 Then said his disciples, Lord, if he sleep, he shall do well.

13 Howbeit Jesus spake of his death: but they thought that he had spoken of taking of rest in sleep.

14 Then said Jesus unto them plainly, Lazarus is dead.

15 And I am glad for your sakes that I was not there, to the intent ye may believe; nevertheless let us go unto him.

16 Then said Thomas, which is called Didymus, unto his fellow-disciples, Let us also go, that we may die with him.

VOL. LXXXI..... No. 311

The Vice President's Announcement

It devolved upon Vice President Marshall to give out in a newspaper interview what is regarded as the authoritative announcement that President Wilson will be a candidate for renomination in 1916. It must be admitted that the announcement had been robbed of some of its thrill as news by the fact that it has been regarded for some time as a practical certainty that the president would indicate h is willingness to again head the democratic ticket. Still it is well to have the formal and definite announcement that the vice president has just given.

The president's friends argue, and argue well, we think, that it is up to the president and his administration to go before the people at the close of his first term, submitting the administration's accomplishments and its policies for either approval or rejection. The issue should be squarely drawn. No president in many years has either undertaken or accomplished so much in the way of reformative legislation and advanced statecraft as has the present occupant of the white house. His policies have involved marked departure from the old order in tariff, in currency reform and other vital issues. Some of these are already in effect and others are in process of adoption. Two years hence these will have either proven their desirability or shown that they are not what the country believed it needed. It is the people who must pass judgment, after all, and the only effectual method of expression in their hands is the ballot. The opportunity to commend or to condemn is fairly theirs.

But still another element must be taken into account, and that is the tremendous personal popularity of President Wilson—the gripping hold he has upon the confidence of the people, whether they may chance to agree with every detail of his policy or not. Despite the declaration of the Baltimore platform on the one-term principle for presidents, and in face of the ambitions of other great democrats, we do not believe the rank and file of the democratic party would permit the naming of any other candidate. President Wilson, as the party standard-bearer in 1916, is pretty nearly a foregone conclusion.

Nelson O'Shaughnessy, formerly United States charge d'affaires at Mexico City, has been ordered to Vienna where he will act as an extra secretary of the American embassy. O'Shaughnessy acquitted himself so splendidly during the critical days at the Mexican capital that we think it will be the popular American verdict that he is entitled to something better than that. His training will be of especial value to the United States in handling the delicate situations developed by the European war, and O'Shaughnessy has shown that he can be depended upon.

Indiana distillers are reported to be purchasing vast quantities of revenue stamps and rushing the production of spirits in expectation that the proposed war revenue tax will place an added stamp burden on the liquor output. Let nobody indulge the suspicion that there was any threatened shortage of whisky. Somebody always manages to maintain the available supply of booze, whatever happens. The new move of the distillers is merely an adroit scheme to escape war tax penalties as long as they can do so.

It appears to have required a rather stiff fine to convince a Logansport young man that in polite circles in Allen county the practice of carrying a revolver when one calls on his "best girl" is no longer considered the correct thing. Over here we insist that the social amenities be preserved at all hazards.

We are again told that congress is blazing the way for adjournment—but perhaps this may be merely another false alarm. There seems to be no immediate need for getting excited over the prospect.

PRESS ON THE NEW MINISTRY OF FRANCE.

War Unites Factions.

Perhaps Too Late.

Albany Knickerbocker Press: "France has done well to put her big men on guard, but perhaps she has done so too late. France now needs soldiers who can fight as well as statesmen and generals to direct them."

Theophile Delcasse.

Baltimore Sun: "Easily the most conspicuous and notable figure in this composite ministry is Theophile Delcasse. It is a piece of appropriate and poetic justice that makes him once more in such an emergency Minister of Foreign Affairs."

France's Time of Trial.

New York Times: "Probably France could not obtain safer counsellors for her time of trial. With few exceptions the ministers have had ample experience."

Sensible Thing.

Old Habits.

Montgomery Advertiser: "Of course the French cabinet had to resign. But promptly another was installed. France changes ministries with the moon, and a great crisis does not seem to change her old habits."

Differences Forgotten.

Washington Post: "The manner in which all political parties in France have acclaimed the newly formed ministry furnishes ample proof that all internal differences have been forgotten in the menace to national integrity. There was need of just such a ministry."

GOODS MADE IN INDIANA.
(Indianapolis Star.)

Indianapolis business men ought to turn out in goodly numbers to visit Kokomo's "$100,000 prosperity exhibit." Howard county is rich in agriculture and manufactures. Kokomo has several automobile factories, steel plants, plate glass establishments and numerous mills. It has prospered within the last twenty years to an unusual degree. Therefore it can well afford to have an exhibition. Excursions from many parts of the state are being run. It is planned that two hundred Indianapolis people may make the trip. Aside from its individual merit, the "$100,000 prosperity exhibition" is noteworthy in the appeal it makes for optimism. A city can not well hold a congratulatory show unless it has something to exhibit. Kokomo's prosperity is indicative, we hope, of conditions elsewhere in the northern part of the state.

During state fair week there is to be held in this city a "made-in-Indianapolis" exhibit. The Chamber of Commerce expects beneficial results from such an undertaking. The state fair will bring thousands of visitors to Indianapolis. Such fairs, in their industrial features, are by no means confined to state activities. Hence it sometimes happens that local business, unless energetic, loses considerable trade to outside firms. Making purchases may be said to depend largely on habit, all other things quality and price especially being equal. It is the idea of the Chamber of Commerce to arouse visitors to the desirability of patronizing home industry.

There really ought to be such reciprocity. Looking at the subject from a larger view, a "prosperity" exhibition in Kokomo, Ft. Wayne or Evansville, rightly calls attention to the activities of those cities and attracts more trade. There is enough trade for all. Howard county people may find that they cannot meet all their needs in Kokomo. Then they should go to other Indiana centers which in time will also seek Kokomo products. Goods made in Indiana—no matter what part of Indiana—ought to be bought by Indiana people.

Today's Lesson in War Geography.

ZAWICHOST—Frontier post in Russian Poland, on the Vistula, opposite the extreme northern point of Austrian territory.

JANOFF—In the government of Lublin, Russian Poland, about nine miles north of the frontier.

TAVETA—On the Tsavo river, in British East Africa, on the southeastern foothills of Mount Kilimanjaro. It is about 40 miles from the nearest point of the Uganda railway, and only about five miles from the German frontier.

NOVO RADOMSGK—In Russian Poland, on the railway from Tchenstochow to Warsaw, about 34 miles from the frontier of Germany at Herby.

SANNA RIVER—A tributary of the Vistula from the east, forming the extreme northern boundary of Austrian Poland.

FENESTRANGE (Finstingen) — In German Lorraine, on the Saar, about nine miles north of Saarburg.

CHAUDFONTAINE—A village and fort to the southeast of Liege, on the railway from Verviers.

DELLE—In French Alsace, the frontier town on the railway between Belfort and Porrentruy, in Switzerland.

ATTENHOVEN In the Belgian province of Liege, about one and one-half miles northeast of Landen.

PERONNE—Village of 4,600, whose fortifications were razed in 1906, near which allies and Germans clashed. A monastery was founded here by an Irish monk in 650. It was captured by the Duke of Wellington in 1815 and in 1870 capitulated to Germans after a week's bombardment.

LAON—Fortified city of 15,288, built upon an isolated hill in an extensive plain. Has been the center of various battles. Napoleon was defeated here. In the Prussian war it surrendered without a blow, but when the victors were entering it, a lieutenant blew up a powder magazine, sacrificing his own life to kill 79 Germans.

SOISSONS Ancient city, formerly fortified, on the Aisne river. It has a record for the number of sieges it has undergone. It carries on a large grain trade. Population, 14,334.

For Sallow, Blotchy, Rough or Greasy Skins

Some skins require constant grooming to keep them from becoming oily, muddy, blotchy or rough, or if such condition has developed, to overcome it. In such chronic cases it is particularly inadvisable to keep piling on cosmetics which clog the pores, collect dust and dirt, making the complexion worse than ever. It's a lot more sensible to use ordinary mercolized wax, which literally absorbs a bad complexion. Apply the wax, like cold cream, before retiring, next morning, in washing it off, you'll wash away fine flour-like particles of the unsightly cuticle. Repeat for a week or two and you'll have an entirely new skin—soft, satiny, spotless and beautiful as a child's. One ounce of mercolized wax, procurable at any druggists's is all you'll need.

If the skin be wrinkled or flabby, here's the best possible remedy: Mix ½ pint witch hazel and 1 ounce powdered saxolite and use as a face bath. It works like a miracle, yet is entirely harmless.

Grape and Canister from Scene of War.

A SHY GENERAL.

Paris, Sept. 3.—Sir John French, commander of the British troops who are lined up with the French against the Germans in Northern France, is recognized as the greatest cavalry leader in Europe. He is as unlike the spur and sabre-clanking type of romance as can be imagined. Nobody outside the service had heard of him when he went to South Africa, but the stationmaster who told him it was impossible to get out of Ladysmith was probably the first civilian who got an idea of what "French's way" meant. He began to do things at once, and went on doing them with a most disconcerting swiftness and persistence. With it all he remained what he is still—the shyest, most modest man in the English army service.

KAISER'S COMPLIMENT.

Geneva, Sept. 3.—The following telegram from the kaiser has been placarded in the towns of Southeastern Germany: "The German states of the south can be tranquil; Switzerland has mobilized." This is a great compliment—even if not meant—to the Swiss army of citizen soldiers, who during many years have made great sacrifices, and are at present ready with 300,000 men to protect their neutrality at all costs. The Swiss deplore the plight of their sister small state, Belgium, but are glad and proud that their military sacrifices are yielding fruit.

A NURSE'S HAVERSACK.

London, Sept. 3.—A large number of women have joined the army as nurses. Many have already joined the British soldiers on the firing line. Only fully trained nurses are accepted for this active service. Each must carry a haversack which contains an enameled plate, mug and spoon, brush and comb, one army ration for twenty-four hours. Each nurse must wear a strong pair of boots—not shoes.

WHAT HAPPENED TO CALLAGHAN.

London, Sept. 3.—The admiralty has made the following announcements:

The king has been pleased to appoint Admiral Sir George Callaghan, G. C. V. O., K. C. B., to be first and principal naval aide de camp in succession to Admiral Sir E. Poe, G. C. V. O., K. C. B., to date September 11, 1914. Admiral Sir George Callaghan, G. C. V. O., K. C. B., has been appointed to the admiralty for special service on the war staff.

AWARDED TO MISS GERTRUDE HARRIS, 824 HEUSTIS AVE.

Immortalized in story by one of America's most gifted women writers, the name Maurine is known wherever the English tongue is spoken. Manager Williams chose the name for the beautiful pavilion doll, that has been on exhibition all summer and which was awarded yesterday to Miss Gertrude Harris, of 824 Heustis avenue. Over 27,000 guesses were recorded during the season, but only two individuals guessed the name correctly. The first was fourteen-year-old Gertrude Harris. The name was also written for three-year-old Innis Houshour, of 948 Erie street by her mother. When more than one person guesses the correct name a drawing is held. Little Innis is now visiting in Ohio and could not be at Robison park yesterday, therefore, a drawing was not possible as the rules of the award required the personal presence of the participants. The doll Maurine is one of the most beautiful and costly ever awarded at Robison park. She is "petite and dainty—a creature formed to pet and kiss. You love her for her beauty, loviness and grace." It is a remarkable fact that the name Maurine was guessed by two people only, inasmuch as it is not uncommon. Several babies registered in the 1914 baby show bore the name Maurine.

AMERICAN WOMAN WILL REPORT WAR

Mary Boyle O'Reilly Tells of Trip Aboard Treasure Train in Belgium.

(Staff Correspondence. Copyrighted, 1914, by the Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

Brussels, Belgium, Aug. 17.—"Is there any possibility of your getting into Brussels? Take no risks," cabled the editor. Two hours later I left London for the front. My satchel held compressed food for emergencies, $600 in gold bought at a 10 per cent. premium. War-time travellers must fend for themselves.

"Our home abuts the fortifications at Antwerp," she says, with a brave little laugh.

"Goodness! What is this?"

Crossed muskets bar us from the gangplank. "Your nationality?" demands an English territorial on guard.

An Austrian is denied passage on this, the only boat for the continent. The muskets raised, we climb aboard, only to be carefully corralled. Forty men wait to follow us, each laden with a small, weighty sack. Not powder and ball, but a munition of war more important—gold! For an hour the porters come and go, an endless chain. Three alert tally men keep their tally on clickers. Mere memory may not serve when the Old Lady of Thread Needle street sends millions of francs to her allies. The last sack counted, a Belgian flag breaks out at the masthead and the gold ship heads across channel. A sturdy little gunboat scouts alongside.

Nine p. m., and frivolous Ostend, a lonely, silent, end-of-the-season Ostend; this is mid-August!

At the pier head an armed patrol flourish naked steel.

"Your nationality, madam?"

"I am an American citizen, monsieur."

"Show your papers."

A spread-eagle passport flutters in the chill night breeze.

I pass. Not so the others. A Prussian agent, his face suddenly chalk white, marches off between grim guards. A hundred such "agents" were shot yesterday in Belgium.

A dolorous clock booms in our railroad station. Fifteen fellow-travelers foregather in the vast, echoing glass casino. The nervous talk is of dangers unnamed but imminent. Up comes a perturbed little Flemish priest, Father Jacob Van Meen n, at our service. It is not desirable, he assures us, nay, is even unsafe, that we attempt to reach Brussels tonight. Prussian Uhlans threaten to cut the tracks. Tomorrow, perhaps, but tonight should assuredly be spent in Ostend.

But we entrain. In five minutes the speed is terrific. Quaint villages with spectral windmills and high, fretted gables appear for an instant only to vanish as we flash past. No man knows definitely where invading Uhlans raid under the blood-red moon. Our catapult express is a treasure train carrying gold from England to a besieged capital. Bruges! Ghent! When we return will the wonderful old buildings be standing? Who knows? The Prussians are burning everywhere—the place of learning and the cotter's hut.

"Two minutes more and we are in Brussels," a guard whispers to me.

Screaming brakes silence speech. The great Card du Nord depot at Brussels, brilliantly lighted, is almost empty—almost, not quite.

Stern-faced guards civique, bankers, lawyers, chief citizens of a splendid capital in a happier day, stand guard with naked bayonets. Sere Belgium gentlewomen, wearing the white gown and high coif of the Flemish Red Cross, wait tehir harrowing duties.

One train platform is covered with canvas—litters on each of which lies a Boy Scout—fast asleep. The treasure train has reached the heart of the war zone. It is long after midnight.

As the commanding officer approves our passports a Boy Scout steps to my side. He is apparently 12 years old. He is certainly four feet tall. His attitude is of military precision. Intent on active service, he addresses the captain of the guard.

"Sir, shall I escort madam to her hotel? The taxis are commandeered."

I look about. Every woman is provided with an escort. No one smiles at the small citizen soldiers in training for the threatening tomorrow. My scout and I slip from the station to a porch commanding a vast square.

Beneath the blood-red moon a military aeroplane, buzzing like a monstrous beetle, flies too high for friendship. Facing the railway station, a thousand people stand silent and patient.

"They wait," says the Boy Scout, as his small calloused hand comes to salute, "wait, madam, to welcome the litters that bring home the defenders of Belgium."

NOTABLE FIGURE, THAT VON MOLTKE

German Chief of Staff is Modest, Silent and Plays 'Cello.

By Nixola Greeley-Smith.

Gen. Count Helmuth von Moltke, now 66 years old, namesake and favorite nephew of the the great field marshal who led the Germans to victory in the Franco-Prussian war, has been chief of the German general staff since 1904 and as such is in supreme command of the united forces of Germany—under the kaiser.

The reservation concerning the kaiser is important, because Von Moltke, modest and silent as the famous uncle whom Germans nicknamed "great taciturn," has never believed that he is the man for the place he occupies. In fact, he refused the job twice, and accepted it when the kaiser offered it to him for the third time, only because his imperial master declared with brutal frankness:

"In time of peace any man can do the work. In time of war I shall be my own chief of staff."

As a 22-year-old lieutenant, Von Moltke served through the Franco-Prussian war. For conspicuous gallantry in the fighting before Paris he was decorated with the Order of the Iron Cross. He was among the triumphant victors who marched under the Arch of the Star. His uncle, the great field marshal, was very proud of him and wrote home to Helmuth's father, Adolf von Moltke:

"Yesterday Helmuth marched in with his regiment—the tallest man in it. The king asked me his name. He looked splendid with his Iron Cross."

In the last years of the greater Moltke's life Helmuth and his wife kept house for the old soldier. Of the four sons of Adolf von Moltke, who were known as the "four giants," Helmuth resembled his uncle most and was regarded by him as his son. He stands 6 feet 4 inches, has blue eyes and, like all the Moltkes, is very blonde.

When Helmuth fell in love with the beautiful, fair-haired Eliza, daughter of Count von Moltke-Hvitfeldt, of Denmark—she was a distant cousin—his future father-in-law refused his consent to the match till the great field marshal had given his. Count von Moltke-Hvitfeldt once gave an amusing account of what followed.

"Eliza had received a telegram from Helmuth's uncle, saying to expect him on a certain train. You can imagine that we were excited and that we spent many days in preparation for the visit of the great German. I went to the station to meet the train indicated, and, as no one descended from the first-class carriages, I thought the field marshal had not arrived.

"But suddenly saw an old man in a snuffy brown suit get out of a second-class carriage and come toward me, carrying a small hand bag. It was Field Marshal von Moltke.

"I asked him about his trunks and he explained that he had brought none; that he had everything he required in the little bag. I asked if we should expect his man on a later train and he explained that he had no valet—that he could always look after himself. In his way my son-in-law is just as simple and unpretentious."

The present Helmuth von Moltke is, apart from his military talents, a very accomplished man. He is a good writer, draws admirably and is a very fine performer on the violincello. He is also a composer of music and twelve years ago the kaiser himself led the band which played one of Von Moltke's compositions for the first time. William likes him very much.

The chief of the general staff is sometimes confused in the public mind with his cousin, Kune, who was numbered among the German officers disgraced by the unsavory Rond Table scandal revealed by Maximilien Harden. But Helmuth von Moltke leads an ideal family life. He is a devoted husband and a fond and indulgent father.

WAR VETERANS TO PICNIC AT PARK

G. A. R. Posts and All the Auxiliaries Expected to Attend.

Two posts of the Grand Army of the Republic in Fort Wayne, Sion S. Bass post and the Lawton Wayne post, held a business session and as a result of the joint conference it was decided to have a picnic and chicken dinner next Monday, Labor day, at Robison park.

It is going to be a big affair in Grand Army circles and all comrades, members of the Woman's Relief corps and Ladies of the G. A. R., and their families, are expected to be in attendance with well filled baskets of good things to eat.

The old war veterans, with their families and friends, have been invited to hold the picnic at Robison park by Manager C. H. Williams, and he expects to have a program of many and interesting surprises for the old warriors. Special cars will leave the transfer corner for the park at 9:30 and 10:30 o'clock.

Switchman R. E. McNally, of the Wabash, has completed a vacation and resumed work.

G. A. R. Head Protests Use of "Star Spangled Banner" Flippantly.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 3.—A plea for the perpetuation of "The Star-Spangled Banner" as the American anthem, without alloy, was made fervently by Washington Gardner, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, in his address before the forty-eighth national encampment of that organization here today.

He urged the old soldiers to join in a movement to pay special honor to this song, and to discountenance the practice of playing it in medley with such "flippant and comparatively meaningless ditties as "Yankee Doodle" and "When Johnnie Comes Marching Home." He said there was something inspiring in an audience rising and standing uncovered at the majestic strains of the national anthem, but it was "incongruous, bordering even on the ludicrous," for the band to strike up some other national air in medley with this, and to observe the audience resume sitting in "an irregular, half-ashamed manner." It were better not to rise at all when the national hymn is played in medley, he said.

Permanent G. A. R. Headquarters.

A recommendation that permanent headquarters for the G. A. R. be established in Washington was another point of his address. Chicago and Philadelphia had been proposed, but he preferred the national capital, and thought that if possible the necessary space should be secured in a government building where the officers could keep closely in touch with matters before congress which affected the Grand Army.

A standing committee of seven persons, with the commander-in-chief and adjutant general of the G. A. R. as ex-officio members, he also remembered principally for the purpose of taking charge of all legislation which had the indorsement of the order. He said that such a committee would "concentrate responsibility, reduce expense and give promise of better results."

"As it is now," he continued, "the committees having to do with proposed legislation, number, in the aggregate, nearly ten times seven and are widely separated. It is difficult to have a general meeting save at large expense to the order or to the individuals. Under the present arrangement responsibility is too widely diffused and members too rarely brought together for consultation and concert of action."

Soldiers' Homes.

He urged that no change be made in the method of management of the soldiers' homes which are scattered throughout the United States. Concerning the matter, he said:

"Not a single complaint has come to the knowledge of the commander-in-chief from any member of any home during this administrative year. It is known than an effort is being made to place these homes, now under the care and supervision of our comrades, subject to the approval of the war department, into the custody of men who never saw military service in actual war and whose sympathies are not so likely to be directed toward our comrades in their declining years. This seems to be a case where the old rule, 'let well enough alone,' will apply. This encampment, in my judgment, should say to congress that the Grand Army of the Republic is decidedly against the proposed change."

The present membership in good standing was reported as 171,335. During the year the roll was curtailed by the death of 11,187 old soldiers, but notwithstanding this large figure, it is 151 less than died during the preceding year.

Session Will Last Long.

The meeting of the Grand Army and the Women's Relief corps promises to last until late in the afternoon. Questions of national policy, concerning each order, were to be discussed and probably decided upon before tonight. Matters of interest to the old soldiers included a movement to establish national headquarters in a large city, possibly Washington. It also was considered quite probable that the encampment would officially protest to congress against any proposed plan to change the present method of management of the soldiers' homes, scattered throughout the United States. These institutions have been managed by war veterans. G. A. R. sentiment seems strongly against so-called "outside control."

Receptions and camp fires and a display of fireworks at Belle Isle were the entertainments arranged for tonight. Col. J. L. Smith, of Highland Park, Mich., champion long distance runner of the civil war veterans, was called upon to defend his title this afternoon. At the state fair grounds he was to run ten miles against a picked relay team of ten old soldiers, each of whom was to run a mile. Col. Smith was victor in a similar race at the 1912 and 1913 encampments.

Mrs. Sophia Heuer and daughter, Bertha, and son, Melvin, went to Huntington today to attend the wedding of Mr. Otto Meyers, of this city, to Miss Esther Hanenstein, which takes place this afternoon at the home of the bride in Huntington.

Mrs. Arthur E. Smith, of West Wayne street, invited a dozen of the nearest friends of her sister, Miss Artine Chapin, of Redlands, Cal., to meet her informally yesterday afternoon. Bridge was the particular entertainment.

The members of Wayne Coterie gave an informal dance at New Haven on Wednesday evening and entertained Misses Irma Henderson, Lucile Vail, Loretta Hayes, Gladys Becker, Clara Melching, Loretta Melching, Mildred Saylor, Dorothy Kilgore, Irene Comparet and Marie Travis.

Mrs. M. A. Martindell, of Washington, D. C., is in the city for visits with Mrs. Neil McKay and Mrs. Hal Y. Rohrer. This afternoon Mrs. McKay was at home informally for a number of personal friends to meet Mrs. Martindell, who is at present her guest.

The voice pupils of Mrs. E. H. Kirkland are preparing to give a big recital the latter part of this month. A number of the students who have been taking a special course in Italian under the direction of a native instructor, are to sing grand opera selections in that language.

Miss Clara Dondero, of East Lewis street, is going to give a country party tonight and will entertain her guests at a "chicken roast." The trip to the country will be made in a motor truck. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wyatt, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Banks and Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Scherer will act as chaperons and the young folks will be Misses Agnes Becker, Nina Weaver, Marceline Dondero, Clara Franke, Florence Schockman, Anna and Mary Dondero, Winifred Ringwalt, Olive Archer and Charles Koehler, Maurice E. Knoll, Al Collins, Perry Archer, Harry Dewiere, Jean Doyle, Albert Thye, Ralph Healty. The guests from out of town will be Miss Theresa Martin, of Huntertown, and Miss Agnes Vogt, of Toledo, Ohio.

The Misses Pauline and Aimee Bischoff, of Raleigh, N. C., are visiting relatives in the city and have been honor guests at a number of parties. Miss Olga Myer, of Madison street, entertained a few young ladies on Wednesday afternoon at a thimble party and a supper at which pretty decorations were carried out in yellow and white coloring. On Tuesday evening the same visitors were honor guests at the home of Miss Loraine and Miss Gertrude Gross. The Misses Gross are cousins of the Misses Bischoff and are entertaining them at their home in Washington boulevard west. At this charming affair Miss Henrietta Lomis, of Kendallville, was also a guest of honor. A game of five-hundred was the principal amusement.

Mrs. E. H. Merritt, Mrs. F. Eckart and the Misses Eckart, Mrs. Fred Ranke, Mrs. E. W. Puckett, Mrs. J. M. Landenberger, Mrs. A. R. Trossell, Miss Landenberger, Miss Florence Merritt and Miss Vera Trossell were hostesses for the weekly afternoon bridge at the Country club yesterday. The prize in the game was won by Mrs. Mary Smith Vesey and was a basket of violet color with decoration of worsted roses in Bulgarian hues. The "worsted" roses are examples of an old art in fancy work which many women will remember seeing their mothers and grandmothers work in rugs, pillow covers and tops of footrests. Just now the wool yard flowers are quite the rage in Chicago. Two roses were made for this particular basket and fastened to its cover with green stems and leaves in outline.

Klingman—Hunt.

One of the prettiest of weddings was that of Miss Doris Hunt, niece of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hunt, of 821 Fourth street, and Mr. Loren Klingman, a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Klingman, which took place on Wednesday evening at the Wayne Street M. E. church, Rev. C. Chand Travis was the officiating minister. The guests, numbering about two hundred, were ushered to seats by Messrs. Carl and Ross Kennedy and also assisting as bridesmaid and groomsman were the groom's sister, Miss Ruth Klingman, and Mr. Martin Regedanz. Mrs. Leah C. Makay presided at the organ and preceded the coming of the bridal party by playing several selections, among them being Mendelssohn's Spring Song and the familiar march from "Lohengrin" as the bride and groom entered at 8 o'clock. During the marriage service "O Promise Me" was played and the Mendelssohn wedding march at the close. The bride made a very attractive appearance in a gown of white crepe de meteor trimmed with pearl bands and ornaments. She wore a veil caught to her hair with swansonia blossoms and held a bride's bouquet of Killarney roses. Miss Klingman presented an effective and pretty appearance in a gown of pale yellow crepe de chine with a trimming of pink rosebuds, pink flowers in her hair and a bouquet of pink roses of the Madam Shorey variety. A wedding supper of elaborate preparation and an informal reception to members of the two families and near relatives at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hunt followed the wedding service. The house was decorated with pink and white asters, gladioluses and sweetpeas with ferns. Pink, white and yellow were the prevailing colors to harmonize with the costumes of the bride and bridesmaid. Mrs. M. E. Jones lent assistance to Mrs. Hunt in serving the supper. Congratulations were showered on the bride and groom and later in the evening when they left for their own home rice and old shoes presaged all kinds of good luck for them. The bride and groom are going immediately to housekeeping at 441 St. Martin's street. Mr. Klingman is foreman of the transformer and testing department of the Fort Wayne Electric works. He is a young man of energy and many capabilities as well as of pleasant address which wins many friends. The bride is well fitted to be a helpmate as her pleasant disposition and sweet womanliness are attributes of a lovable character. Music during the evening was furnished by Mrs. F. O. Kuckuck, a cousin of the groom. Guests from away were Miss Pauline Kent, of Kendallville, and L. R. Hunt, of Grand Rapids, Mich.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

"Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" and Lovey Mary at the Majestic Three Days Starting Monday Matinee.

The original "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" is not quite as sunny a soul as she was before Anne Hegan Rice discovered her to the world in her stories and since Anne Crawford Flexner dramatized her. Fame has made uneasy the head that once lay down so easily in the "Cabbage Patch" of the Louisville suburb and insistent visitors, eager for a bit of first-hand philosophy, often receive a first-class scolding. Indeed, the impetuous prototype of Mrs. Wiggs not long since doused an excellent society lady with water and was summoned to police court.

"I won't trouble notoriety if notoriety don't trouble me. They kin put me in books and in stage plays until they're sick of it, but you all have got to steer clear of me in person," remarked the "Mrs. Wiggs" of Louisville to a reporter recently.

Meanwhile the sale of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" and "Lovey Mary" has gone into the hundreds of thousands and in their dramatized form the characters of the book are still more effective and entertaining.

All the cabbage patch folk will be seen here at the Majestic three days starting on Monday when the play will be presented by the United Play Co.

AT THE EMPRESS

There were as many parents, who had come to bring their children, at the Empress theater this afternoon as are seen on circus day. The big theater was filled to the brim with people who were thrilled and delighted by Richard the Great, the most remarkable monkey ever seen in Fort Wayne. Richard is known as the monkey who made a man of himself and certainly the intelligence he displayed at the Empress this afternoon at the opening matinee of the bill which will hold the stage for the latter half of the week was wonderful.

All the other acts on the bill which opened at the Empress this afternoon are of the pleasing variety. The Bounding Gordons, who are known as the world's greatest trampoline acrobats, have a wonderful act that is full of novelties. El Cota extracts music and other things from a xylophone in a way that kept the audience clapping continuously. Del Vaccio and company have a laugh-provoking comedy entitled "Fired from Yale," and Marguerite Hoyer and her partner are pretty girl athletes with a new kind of act. Excellent war pictures fresh from Europe in the Pathe Daily News complete the excellent bill.

The bill for the opening half of next week at the Empress comes from Toronto. The Marcus Loew coast-to-coast shows make the best connections of any vaudeville shows. They lose but two days in travel from Chicago to Los Angeles.

Friday evening the regular weekly musical will be given at the Empress from 7:15 to 7:30 o'clock. Director T. J. Jackson, of the Empress orchestra, is arranging a particularly entertaining program for this week's concert.

AT THE TEMPLE

With the great feature comedy act, "The Ten Dark Knights," headlining the bill, the Temple has a rare offering for the week-end engagement that was sprung for the first time at this afternoon's matinee. Johnny Rooker and his "jasbo" band are one of the crack specialties included in the "Ten Dark Knights." This act was at the Temple once before and scored a great hit at that time. Another familiar face to be seen on the week-end bill is The Great Lester, the marvelous ventriloquist and comedian, who has brought his wooden boys to town again.

Seabury and Price, the cartoonist and the soprano, combine two excellent acts in one, as Seabury's drawing, made-while-you-wait, or Miss Price's full melodious soprano, either one is sufficient to entertain in a highly satisfactory manner. The combination is deftly arranged and makes one of the happiest acts on the Temple's bill. Knight and Moore, "The College Boy Juggler and the Fair Co-ed;" Dewitt Young and Sister in their singing and talking novelty, together with the Keystone photoplay, complete this excellent offering. These Keystone comedies have earned a warm place in the hearts of Temple patrons and justly so, too, as they are among the best pictures projected in Fort Wayne.

Patriotic Women for American Fashions.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 3.—Inspired by patriotism, Chicago society women have volunteered to pose as fashion models in the "Made in America" fashion show to be held in connection with the Home Exposition in September.

Mrs. Milo A. Bennett, well-known social leader, and a committee of 100 debutantes will open the style show with a fashion parade in which fashions of American design and make will be displayed—a living proof that America need not look to war-distressed Paris for its fashion hints.

THREE SISTERS WAR REFUGEES

The Misses Hindman Enjoy Reunion With Fourth Sister in Fort Wayne.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Druckemiller, 2109 Florida drive, is the scene this week of a reunion of four sisters, three of whom are war "refugees" from Europe. The young women are Miss Cecile Hindman, of St. Louis, Mo., whose experiences in reaching home from Berlin after the war commenced have been referred to in The Sentinel, and her sisters, Miss Pauline Hindman, a teacher in the public schools of Kansas City, Kan., and Miss Annis Hindman. All are sisters of Mrs. Druckemiller.

The three Misses Hindman sailed from New York June 20, and reached Naples, Italy, July 4. Before the declaration of war, but while the continent was in a state of agitation over the preliminary events, the sisters toured Italy, Switzerland and Germany, and while at Berlin the first declaration of war was made. It was with difficulty that the young women reached London, by way of Holland, for the reason that the authorities demanded gold currency, refused to accept German money and declined to recognize travelers' express company checks. It was only by boldly boarding their trains for the coast, and then a vessel crossing the North sea and thus making necessary the acceptance of such currency as they had, that the sisters were able to reach England. Many who submitted to the demands of the transportation officials were compelled to remain on the continent. Even in England, thousands of travelers—and the country seemed to be filled with American tourists—suffered great inconvenience and hardship because of the financial disturbance.

"However," said Miss Cecile Hindman, "the receipt of the news that the American government had made provision to furnish money to assist the stranded tourists changed the aspect of conditions immediately, and, after that, there was no difficulty in the cashing of the travelers' checks or the use of other money besides gold."

Miss Cecile Hindman, who is a musician of note, had planned to remain for a considerable period in study in Paris. She sailed for home from Liverpool on August 27 on the American liner St. Louis. Misses Pauline and Annis boarded the Latetin, of the Donaldson line, at Glasgow, August 22. The latter boat, sailing under British colors, made the voyage with lights extinguished, and reached Montreal in safety.

Wednesday evening Mrs. Druckemiller entertained a small company in honor of her sisters, who will return to their homes within a few days.

Deep Girdle New Fashion Wrinkle.

The draped girdle reaching from hip line to base line marks this gown as one of the latest of the autumn models. The long tunic is another advanced note and, it will be noted that the underskirt of black satin is, like all the new skirts, short enough to show the ankle line. The gown itself is made of a smooth black and white check material.

MOTORCYCLE AND BICYCLE COLLIDE

W. H. Felger Thrown to the Pavement and Badly Injured.

W. H. Felger received a bad gash in his forehead, over the eyes, and sustained some painful internal injuries when the bicycle he was riding came in collision with a motorcycle ridden by two young men employed at the Fort Wayne Electric works. The accident occurred at the corner of Fairfield avenue and Jefferson street, as the men concerned were returning home from the shops at 4:30 o'clock Tuesday evening. Mr. Felger was thrown off the wheel and was unconscious for awhile. The young men picked him up and took him to a doctor, who had to take three stitches in closing the wound in the forehead. He was then sent home and has been in bed since. Mr. Felger is a painter and is employed at the Pennsylvania shops. Some of his comrades went to his home to see him last night.

CONDUCTOR SHAW DEAD.

Ran Train in and Out of Garrett Thirty-Four Years.

A. C. Shaw, known by his intimate friends as "Fatty" Shaw, one of the best known conductors on the Baltimore and Ohio road, running in and out of Garrett for thirty-four years, died in the Sacred Heart hospital in Garrett Wednesday. He was confined to the hospital nearly a year with organic heart trouble and but little hope for his recovery was entertained for some months. For many years he weighed 365 pounds, which was the occasion for the nickname of "Fatty." Mr. Shaw was a native of West Virginia and began work on the Baltimore and Ohio in that state, being transferred to Garrett in 1880. Four brothers, G. B., C. F. W., and J. M. Shaw, of Crafton, West Virginia, and Ed, of Clarksburg, West Virginia, are the only surviving relatives. The body will be taken to Grafton, West Virginia for burial.

A. C. Shaw was a member of the Garrett Brotherhood of Railway Conductors, the Garrett chapter of I. O. O. F. and the Fort Wayne lodge of Elks.

RECEIVER HARMON RETURNS.

Judson Harmon, receiver of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton road, passed through the city last night, en route to his home in Cincinnati. He had been at Charlevoix, Mich., where his summer home is located, and during the stop in Fort Wayne took lunch at the Pennsylvania restaurant, served on the window sill. Mr. Harmon was late in getting to the restaurant and every seat at the tables and at the lunch counter was occupied when he ordered luncheon.

ONLY STALLED; NOT DERAILED.

The story brought to the city that the Sells-Floto circus train had struck a washout on the Lake Shore road, near Otsego, been derailed and 100 horses drowned is not confirmed by news from the scene of the accident. The train was caught between two washouts and could move neither backwards or forwards and held there over twenty-four hours. It was in a sparsely settled district and the circus people had trouble in furnishing provisions for its employes. Rations had to be reduced to one-half the usual supply. As a result of the accident the show people had to cancel their engagement at Kalamazoo and Battle Creek.

SPECIAL TRAIN SERVICE.

The Portland fair is on this week and this is the big day. Thousands of people from the country adjacent to Portland are attending the fair and to handle those in the towns on the G. R. & I. road the company ran a special train in charge of Conductor O'Conner, which left this city at 2 o'clock this morning. This evening this train will leave Portland at 5:30 o'clock, running south as far as Lynn. Northbound it will leave Portland at 8:30 o'clock tonight and run to Fort Wayne, stopping at intermediate stations to discharge passengers.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. William Thompson, of Erie street, last night. This is the occasion for Mr. Thompson's absence from the Pennsylvania shops, where he is employed as a machinist.

Glenn Ramsey, the grandson of Alf. Raisnyder, of the Pennsylvania shops, was taken from Hope hospital to the family home last night. As mentioned by The Sentinel yesterday, the lad, who is eight years old, was severely injured by falling down stairs.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Houston are here for a short visit with relatives. Mr. Houston is a native of Fort Wayne and was employed in the local shops and offices for a number of years. He is now assistant master mechanic on the Eastern division.

Adam Houck, the patternmaker who has been unable to work since last January on account of poor health, has returned from the lakes and is now engaged in making some improvements and repairs at his home. He is better and expects to resume work at the Bass pattern shop in a week or two.

Wabash Engineer W. A. Roberts, who was hurt when he jumped from his engine in the Lafayette yards last Saturday night, is reported to be improving, though he will be confined to the hospital three or four weeks. His left leg was fractured above the knee and was also badly bruised and cut.

John P. Shea, a power director at the Pennsylvania trainmaster's office, has resumed work and now Power Director A. J. Marty is out on a vacation. He left this morning for Cincinnati, thence he will go to Grand Rapids and to Columbus for visits with relatives, returning to work two weeks hence.

The cause of delay to Wabash eastbound passenger trains Tuesday night was a freight wreck at Williamsport. Two heavy freight trains came together in a head-on collision, but each had checked its speed so that the engines were simply damaged and not thrown down the embankment. Three or four of the cars of one of the trains were crushed, however. The crews jumped and were not injured.

As previously stated in the Sentinel the tennis tournament under the auspices of the Electro-Technic club will start next Saturday on the various courses in the city. J. H. Freeman,

NEW TREATY WITH PANAMA IS SIGNED

Gives United States Control of Colon and Ancon Harbors.

Panama, Sept. 3.—An important treaty by the terms of which the United States gains control of the waters of the harbors of Colon and Ancon, together with certain other valuable rights, was signed here yesterday by William Jennings Price, the American minister, and Ernesto T. Lefevre, Panama secretary of foreign relations.

The new convention has been under negotiation for the last four years. Early last year the negotiations were broken by Panama because it then seemed impossible to bring the two governments into accord.

The instrument replaces what probably was known as the Davis agreement of June 15, 1904, in which the boundaries of the canal zone were tentatively fixed with the understanding that a future formal treaty would fix the delimitation permanently. It also amplifies the Panama canal treaty of November 18, 1903, under which the canal zone was acquired from Panama.

Panama, by the provisions of the convention will for the first time be placed in direct physical connection with the remainder of the country. Hitherto the capital has been cut off by the canal zone, which those wishing to reach other parts of the republic had to traverse. A large tract of fertile land called "Las Sabanas," or the Savannahs, was ceded to Panama. In this territory are located many of the handsome country estates of wealthy Panamans.

The United States acquires absolute control of the waters of Colon and Ancon harbors and in addition two small islands lying in Ancon harbor, which are to be used for observation and light stations by the coast artillery.

One of the islands will be fortified. The site of battery Hancock on the Colon water front, is given to the United States, as also is the control of all the piers at the north entrance of the canal, costing approximately $2,500,000.

It is specially stipulated in the treaty that no railway shall be built across the Sabanas without the consent of the United States and that the United States may retake and occupy a portion or all of these lands if needed for the protection and defense of the canal or its approaches.

The treaty now will be sent to the Washington and Panama senates for ratification.

NEW YORK'S FREE MARKETS POPULAR

New York, Sept. 3.—The third day of New York's free markets saw them enlarge to twice and three times their original size so great has been their popularity with purchasers of table supplies. An increase of 25 per cent. in the number of buying at the four markets was reported yesterday and still greater increases were expected today.

The success of the Manhattan markets has resulted in a demand for similar trading places in other boroughs of the city and today plans for establishing them in Brooklyn, Staten Island and in the Bronx were well under way.

Observation of the experiment led experts to say that radical improvements in the system must be made speedily if the city as a whole is to feel the benefit of the plan.

The need for having on sale at all the markets every variety of staple foodstuff, so that the housewife may do all her buying in one place, was emphasized.

A convict who escaped from jail at Lydenburg, South Africa, was captured on a farm where he was masquerading as a policeman in search of himself.

Delegates to Editorial Meet Will Be Offered Cash Prizes.

When the members of the Northern Indiana Editorial association meet in Fort Wayne September 17 and 18 for their annual convention, a friendly contest is to be staged in that the Commercial club will offer a handsome cash prize to the best article written by a delegate on the subject, "The City of Fort Wayne." It is believed that a majority of the delegates will surely have something interesting to write concerning the Summit city.

This association is the oldest and most noted press association in Indiana and present indications are that the convention will be well attended. From the moment of their arrival until their departure, the editors and writers, with their wives and sweethearts, will be in the hands of the Commercial club.

As special guests at the banquet table will be seated United States Senator Benjamin F. Shively, Hon. Albert J. Beveridge, Hon. Hugh T. Miller, and it is also probable, according to Secretary McCormick, of North Judson, that United States Senator John W. Kern, Vice President Thomas R. Marshall and Governor Ralston will also attend. Congressman Cyrus Cline has also promised to be present.

The address of welcome will be made by Mayor William J. Hosey and Hon. Dell Crumpton, of Delphi, will respond. Harry B. Darling, of Laporte, president of the association, will preside as toastmaster.

During the morning of the first day a reception is to be tendered the visiting editors and their wives at the Commercial club and following they will be assigned to the leading hotels. In the afternoon, as guests of the Commercial club, the delegates will be taken about the city in automobiles and shown the principal places of interest. They will also be taken to Robison park. The Friday morning session will be held in the assembly room of the Commercial club and will be featured by an address by Hon. Addison C. Harris, of Indianapolis, who will speak on the subject, "Shall the Constitution Stand?" Mr. Harris is one of the greatest constitutional lawyers in the country and his address will unquestionably be of the deepest interest. Following addresses by delegates, concerning the press in general, the annual election of officers will be held.

During the two days of the convention it is likely that Fort Wayne will be the mecca for most of the state's leading politicians. Practically all of the state candidates for the coming election will be present and as a whole, the convention is expected to be one of the most important gatherings of the season.

PROGRAM OF THE SENATE LEADERS

(By Gilson Gardner.)

Washington, Sept. 3.—Senate leaders having outlined the legislative program as follows: 1. War revenue bill; 2, River and harbor bill; 3. Omnibus claims bill. The secretary of the Treasury has told leader Underwood that the interruption of customs revenues will probably result in a shortage of a hundred million dollars. In view of such a shortage, it has appeared to some members of Congress illogical to pass the river and harbor bill aggregating some eigthy-two million dollars, much of it being open to question on account of the fact that the money goes chiefly to private interests and impractical enterprises. Senator Simmons and others who have been pushing the river and harbor bill are now keen for the passage of a war revenue measure to supply money for this and other purposes. The claims bill asks about thirty-two million dollars for the descendants of the civil war sufferers.

Senators Burton, Kenyon, Norris and Borah have been fighting the pork barrel bill. Up to this time they have done so on the merits or demerits of the bill itself. They thought the fight won, but the bill has recently come to life, and now its opponents will add to their arguments against it the fact that war has brought about the need for great economy.

Whether it would be necessary to levy a war tax measure, if the pork barrel was not passed, it opened to some question. If the pork barrel goes through, there is no question that everybody will have to contribute. The present talk is for a tax on beer, whisky and tobacco with possibly a tax on coffee. The latter suggestion is bound to be unpopular and it is not very loudly discussed. It is hoped that it will not be necessary to levy a tax on telegrams, checks and drugs. Amendments will be offered in the House to any bill which does not increase the rate of the income tax as a means to raise increased revenue. It will be pointed out that the government has a full list of income tax payers and nothing would be more simple than to call on each for a larger share in this emergency.

It is one of the ill effects of the war that Congress will take advantage of the present business situation to abandon the railroad securities measure. It was intended by this bill to lodge power in some government body like the interstate Commerce Commission to supervise the issue of railway securities. The need for such supervision will be just as urgent when the present financial stress is passed as it ever was in the years that have gone. But big business has informed the powers that nothing ought to be done at the present time to disturb stock values. So this legislation has for the present been laid aside.

By unanimous consent and practically without debate the so-called seamen's bill passed the house Thursday night and was sent to a conference committee to adjust the differences between the House and Senate bills. The opposition to this measure came from the huge transportation companies like the Hamburg-American lines doing business at American ports. When the war put an end to these lines and their business, it also put an end to the lobby and its influence on Congress opposed to the lation which has for eighteen years been unable to pass goes through by unanimous consent.

Some teeth were drawn from the trust bill when the senate dropped the provision for jail sentences for violations of prohibitions against holding companies and against the purchase of supplies by railroads from corporations having common directors or officers. Senator Clapp declared that "when the trust barons view this measure, they will think it has been handled by a Sunday school conference instead of a legislative body."

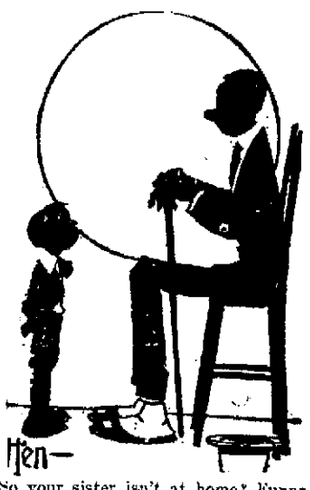
NOTED AMERICAN WAR CORRESPONDENT TO GO WITH BRITISH ARMY

FREDERICK PALMER

Mr. Frederick Palmer, well known as a war correspondent, has been designated to represent the Associated Press with the British forces on the continent of Europe. He is the only American correspondent permitted by the British War Office to take the field.

Mr. Palmer has seen more of the stern reality of war than probably any other man alive to-day. He has been under fire times without number and has studied the complex tactics of the military authorities of nearly every nation.

GOOD FORTUNE.



"So your sister isn't at home? Funny that she should be out every time I call.

"Yep. She told ma she'd been mighty lucky so far."

Pessimistic figures showing that Michigan pays more for insane hospitals than for the state university, brings from Wisconsin only a weary envy of Michigan for having so cheap a university.

GOLF GOES BACK MANY CENTURIES

Is Twenty Years Old in the United States and is Popular.

Twenty years ago today the first American championship golf match was played. The game was then considered a society fad and was played in a regal setting at Newport, R. I. Of the twenty contestants W. G. Lawrence, of Newport, was declared the winner and the first American amateur champion. Golf in the United States is said to date from the establishment of the St. Andrews golf club at Yonkers, N. Y., in 1888. South Carolinians, however, claim that it was played in their state a century before, and point to the files of the Charleston City Gazette, where an item under date of Sept. 18, 1788, states * * * There is lately erected that pleasing and genteel amusement, the golf baan.

Golf was played in Scotland, said be many to be its place of birth, generations before Columbus made known thar there was an America. One prominent American educator has said that he read an account of a golf game written by the ancient Aristotle, and had found reference to the sport in the Bible. It is also claimed that Holland was its place of origin. In the earlier records of Scottish history, literature and even legislation, golf occupies a prominent place. Over four centuries ago the sport had so overwhelmed archery, the soldier's training, that the Scottish legislature decreed that "the fit ball and golf be utterly cryit down and nocht usit."

Forbidden to the masses, it remained a royal pastime. King James II played a game with an Edinburg shoemaker. Queen Mary was found playing on the links two days after the death of her royal consort Darnley. The news of the great Irish rebellion came to King Charles I while he was lifting the ball over the links at Leith.

Today golf, beginning as a society fad in the United States, has become a pastime at which a vast fortune, estimated as high as $50,000,000, is spent every year in the United States. There are said to be more than 200,000 active players who are driving the gutta percha balls over links whose combined acreage in the United States is nearly twice as large as the District of Columbia. Some of the American club houses are veritable mansions; one in the middle west has cost to date over $750,000 for the golfing course, the club house and the equipment.

The exact amount of money reaped annually by the American caddies is not definitely known, but it probably equals the amount paid in Great Britain, which is estimated at $12,500,000. Other items that go to make up the annual tribute to golf are clubs and balls. The value of the clubs in use is estimated at nearly $1,000,000, while the balls are valued at over $6,000,000. Golf has spread throughout the world. In Europe there is scarcely a country without its golf links and players. Japan has one of the finest courses in the world.

Mexico is rapidly becoming known for its links. While all classes have taken to the sport with enthusiasm, kings and queens, not to mention the lesser lights of royalty and the nobility, are ardent devotees. King Alfonso has his private links in Spain and has taught his English-born queen to play the game. The German emperor, prohibited by a physical ailment from participating in the sport, nevertheless is an enthusiast and frequently follows his son, the crown prince, about the links at Potsdam. President Wilson and his predecessor, Mr. Taft, are devoted to the game.

PITCHERS STAGE HURLING STUNTS

Abreviated Game Enlivened by Mound Work That Stood Out.

Cramer, Utrecht and Paynter staged some fancy hurling in an abreviated conflict that marked the close of the season so far as Grand Rapids is concerned at the Varnell ball yard Wednesday afternoon and sounded taps with Fort Wayne lugging the heavy end of a 3 to 2 total.

Paynter opened badly. He passed Smith and McLafferty right off the reel, and although the said Smith was outed at third on Streeter's bounder in front of the plate, Holderman beat out a grounder and filled the bases. Freddie Brateh cut in with a drive that topped big Marshall as left and cleaned up the paths and gave Utrecht a margin of three runs to work on.

He did nicely in the opening inning but had two men on and one down in the next round but managed to pull through with a blank for the opposition. In the third he came through safely with one gone and O'Day on third, and in the fourth he again had a couple of men on and got out of the trouble with only a run tabbed against him.

In the fifth, however, he passed the first man and the second batter hit a double and then Harry Martin got his grapplers in action and shoved Bill Cramer into the running.

Bill did not allow a hit in the inning and skimmed to the third out with one marker for the champs. This crossed the plate while a runner was being retired at first.

In the final round he went in up to his waist line and it looked like the Essick troupe would shove the home talent to the bottom of the heap. Bill Minardo negotiated a nice rap to center for a starter and Castle followed with a slash in the same direction. Then Mr. Cramer indicated the value of knowing how. He started with the pitch when he thought Paynter would bunt, and copped the ball on the third base line in time to nail his man at third.

Mike O'Day nearly broke up the league fooling balls over the stands, and eventually walked, filling the sacks again. Frankie Nespo came nobly to the rescue in this round by retiring Castle at the plate on Paynter's roller but the bases were still choked and a hit meant that the enemy would go to the front.

This didn't bother Bill so very much and he kept working at his job until Marshall hit a nasty grounder that required some swift fielding to get the ball over in time to out the runner.

Paynter blazed his way through the second, third and fourth innings without being called upon to get out of a pinch but in that round he displayed his marked hurling talent. With one gone, Cramer kicked in with a swat to right, took second on Paynter's wild throw but was landed at the plate after advancing on an out.

In disposing of Cramer the bases were filled, with Holderman up, and he went to two and three before the Grand Rapids hurler finally persuaded him to strike at a ball a foot on the outside.

Freddie Brant has been playing stellar baseball all through the series and some of his fielding in the last three days has been marvelously fast. He is showing better form than he has displayed all year, and is showing why the Chattanooga club took the trouble to exercise an option on his services.

HEILBRONER IS A SCIENTIFIC BASEBALL SCOUT AND THE BASEBALL MAGNATES REALIZE IT

Baseball's clearing house, located at Fort Wayne, Ind., is perhaps the oddest, and at the same time the most interesting example of the commercial development of the national game.

Up in a suite of offices a little man, whose hair has grown gray doping ball players, sits amidst a maze of figures that would drive the hardiest dope fiend in the country insane and amidst a maelstrom of sixes and eights and sevens and twos, and all combinations of figures possible, calmly sorts out the records of about 8,000 baseball players, follows their doings, day by day, reports what they have done to owners of baseball clubs in many parts of the country and supplies the information that sends scouts scurrying all over American in search of second Ty Cobbs and Walter Johnsons.

The keeper of this maze of figures is Louis Heilbroner, president of the Central league, former scout of the Cincinnati team, and a man, who since a mere boy, has been associated with baseball.

In his offices from five to eight skilled youths, clever at figures, work constantly compiling statistics. The daily records of from 1,700 to 1,800 men are carried forward, so that at the end of each day the player's record and average is complete.

Thirty-seven leagues in organized baseball and the Federal league are entered, posted and carried forward each day.

Practically every ball player in America is in the record filing case. There are between 7,000 and 8,000 "live" ones, meaning men actually engaged in playing. Besides that Heilbroner has the records of thousands more who have been in, and who may come back, more thousands of "dead" ones who have dropped out and hundreds who may be the Cobbs and Johnsons of the next five or six years.

It was hard and expensive work to get the complete record, but once complete "Louie" compiled it in the baseball like book, a wonderful work of condensation, and after that players rushed to send in their records. Every manager, owner and most of the sporting editors must have the blue book and sometimes "Louie" almost breaks even on it.

The practical part of it all is its use to the club owners. Major league club owners receive hundreds of "tips" on players every year. One National league club owner told me that his friends and acquaintances recommended more than 100 players a month to him—urging him to try them. The clubs employ scouts but no scout could look over all the future Cobbs, so many of the clubs arranged with Heilbroner to attend to this department and to help them look up new players.

"Louie's" system has saved the scouts weeks of time and hundreds of dollars of travel money.

Louis Heilbronner.

RAIN PREVENTS RACING.

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 3.—Rain interrupted the racing at the Grand circuit meeting held in connection with the New York state fair Wednesday afternoon. Five heats were contested but no one of the four numbers on the program was completed.

Did you ever stray away from the "Old Reliable" Furniture and Carpet house and buy a bill of goods elsewhere and not sooner or later have cause to regret it? If not, bear in mind that if you are fooled once it's the other fellow's fault, but if you are fooled twice it's your fault. You never lose when you trade at Foster's, you generally do when you don't.

PHYSICIANS ARE AIDING IN SHOW

Good Corps Secured and More to Be Heard from Later.

That examinations at the better baby contests to open on Tuesday, Sept. 8, at the Fort Wayne baseball park and to continue until and including the following Saturday will be intelligently and satisfactorily made is assured by the corps of physicians already secured with others to be heard from.

Dr. Albert H. Macbeth, Dr. Miles F. Porter, sr., Dr. Herman A. Duemling, Dr. Eric Crull, Dr. B. P. Weaver, Dr. Miles F. Porter, jr., Dr. H. O. Bruggeman, Dr. Kent K. Wheelock and Dr. S. H. Havice are among those who have consented to give part of their valuable time to the advancement of child welfare.

This list does not include all who will be on hand. Members of the committee in charge of the contest have not had opportunity to consult other physicians who are to be asked to aid the cause, and the staff will be of sufficient size to insure that the babies will be cared for promptly every day.

Every physician who has been asked has readily consented to give his time and has also given his encouragement to the undertaking in the belief that it will do much toward teaching parents the things that are necessary to know in order to insure the health of their children.

Latent defects, not discernible to the lally, often exist among children, and very simple methods can be used to correct them and these will be revealed in the contest.

Members of the mothers' club are very anxious to have it understood that there will be no expense attached to the examinations. The club is vitally interested in the greatest of all problems—betterment of the men and women of the years to come, which can be brought about by the attention and care necessary to better babies, and the child of the poor, the middle classes and the rich will be given just exactly the same kind of treatment.

The committee in charge of the contest has been appointed, and is as follows: Mrs. Bertha Chaska, Miss Louise Pixley, Mrs. Ed Lindman, Mrs. Nathan Erber, Miss Trauerman, Mrs. George B. Savier, Mrs. Ed Schele, Miss Lillian Lowe, Mrs. C. S. Stringer and Mrs. Eric Crull.

TRAPPED IN WAR-STRICKEN EUROPE

Escapes From Steerage to Stateroom Crossing the Atlantic.

By LOUISE TOWNSEND NICHOLL.

CHAPTER VI.

Escape From the Steerage.

"There are two extra berths in my room. Why not come and take them?" an American girl told us.

"Why not, indeed," thought we.

Without further bother, we went below and got our bags and took them over to the half-empty room and made ourselves comfortable. It was the first sleep we had had, and even an uneasy conscience, which it did not occur to me to have, could not have kept me awake.

The next morning I went to the purser to pay, if I could. It cost $30, and I had just that much, in American money, for I had spent my last English penny at Queenstown, sending it back with the tender for a cable dispatch, which, after all, was never sent.

"What room is it?" asked the steward, suspiciously. "I didn't know there were any more empty places."

I told him, and he said he would send over for my bags.

"Oh, never mind," I said. "I brought them over myself yesterday afternoon. You see, I slept there last night," I concluded, quite innocently.

And then the storm broke. The man looked at me in horror and amazement.

"Do you mean to say you just picked up your things and walked out of third into second?" he asked.

It seemed there is a sort of feeling about third and second which I had not known about.

"Why, young woman," he went on, but rather weakly, "if you were a man I would put you in irons."

He looked at me again and then he began to laugh. He laughed on and on and on. Several times he tried to speak, but couldn't. Finally he gasped: "Well, you American girls have got me beat."

And so I was out of steerage. But I often used to go back and look down into the pit where the emigrants were, so stoical, so seasick, so silent, excepting when they burst out into their weird songs in the evening or gathered together for some great test of prowess.

For that was their best amusement, to find out who was the strongest man. There was a prize fighter among them, and he fixed up all sorts of matches between all kinds of youths, and they boxed until the lip of every contestant ran blood.

But there were always some so apathetic that no fight nor song could move them. They lay all day on the canvas-covered platforms, sleeping or gazing straight ahead of them, except when the meal bell rang. All day long the ship echoed with meal bells, for there were three sittings at both the third and second-class tables, and two at the first.

It was a strange trip. The weather was rough and cold until the last few days, when the long northern route we took veered toward New York. Then the sun came out for a day or two, and things looked normal again—almost.

Rumors were our daily fare. The war news came in by wireless every morning, and Walter's mother avoided the hatless, white-haired man for several hours after the ship's paper was out. For days it was customary to fear being turned around and headed again for England. But when we were half way across, and this fear could no longer be cherished, we turned our dread towards Halifax, where the hatless man and his coterie had premonitions of landing, penniless and at midnight.

When Halifax was passed we were bound straight for Boston. Feverish fingers traced the course on the map in the gangway all day long, and far into the night, and showed that it would be a manifest absurdity to say that we could reach New York by our present route.

But the greatest horror that hung over us was that we might suddenly be encountered by a German warboat which should drown us all and bear away our luggage to that continent from which we had carried it with so much hard labor.

There was an amazing note of reality underneath all the absurd alarm. We kept well to the north. We used our wireless for nothing but war news, and at night every porthole was shut and every deck light covered, lest any other ship should see us creeping slowly along the horizon. We passed one other boat, an Atlantic transport liner, creeping towards England by the same cold, eirie northern route, with all lights dimmed, and never a friendly wireless word for us.

The climax of our thrills came one night at 10 o'clock with the sighting of another boat far off our stern. She had a yellow light at bow and stern, and a red light half way between them. It seemed to me that she kept a steady course for England, but so many of the others who were watching declared that she turned around and followed us that I began to be uncertain. I still do not know whether we had a narrow escape or whether we only were clinging to the fond hope that we did.

One tiny incident which had no bearing on the trip or the war or on anything but the code of courtesy which has been built up at sea, stays in my mind. It was the happiest, most suggestive little incident of the whole trip. Our great boat suddenly began to turn around in a great circle and go more slowly.

We stood at the rail and watched the great smooth path which she made in turning, a huge semi-circle, from which the little white waves rippled away. The white-haired man had it that we were at last heading for England. It was all over with us.

"Well, it's all over now," he said, with a morbid relish. "But it's no surprise to me. And it's a good thing we're prepared for it."

But no one paid much attention to him, for it was a beautiful thing to see that big boat gently swoop around and, not head again for England, but stop at a tiny brown rowboat far down below its bow. Just for a second we stood still there by the little tiny brown thing, which had strayed so far away, until the watch on the bridge was sure that it was empty except for the sea weed which surged in and out of it.

Then we moved on our way and the passengers again took up the hunt for warships, which some way seemed so unimportant and so much less connected with mystery and the sorrow of the sea than was the little boat left rocking there alone.

The days went on, one after another, and the steerage passengers climbed up into second class and the game of graft was played with large stakes, and gradually the rumors and the alarms died down, for we were at Quarantine.

And the emigrants had never been alarmed at all, but had lain on their platforms and fought their good-natured fights and had their tug-of-war, and made love to each other, out in the stern in the evenings, and eaten their bologna, and slept, most of them, not in cabins such as the American steerage had at all, but in great wards where one bunk topped another in towering tiers toward the ceiling.

It was 8 o'clock on Saturday morning by the clock on the Jersey Central station when we came up the harbor. We had seen the Statue of Liberty, and we could see a black spot up ahead which grew into a crowd of many people, waiting for us at the White Star line pier. And, just as if nothing in the world had happened, we opened up our bags for the customs man to see.

ITCHING IRRITATION.

Worst Form of Skin Trouble Quickly Relieved by Inexpensive Treatment.

When you suffer with any skin trouble, even though the itching seems unbearable, do not think that it is necessary to use some disgusting, greasy ointment. Try Hokara, a pure and simple cream, that is guaranteed to contain no grease or acids and which is so cleanly that it does not soil the linen.

Its power to instantly relieve any irritation of the skin and make it soft, white and beautiful is almost miraculous.

Not only do minor skin troubles like pimples, blackheads, acne, barber's itch, etc., quickly disappear, but the worst sores or cases of salt rheum or eczema are cleaned and healed by this wonderful skin food.

In order that any one may try Hokara at small expense, Meyer Bros. Co.'s drug store are selling a liberal-sized jar at 25c, and in addition guarantee to refund the money if the treatment does not do all that is claimed for it.—Adv.

Sage Tea Dandy to Darken Hair

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old, famous Sage Tea Recipe are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray, becoming faded, dry, scraggly and thin have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful—all dandruff goes, scalp itching and falling hair stops.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days. Adv.

The Austrian force, a whole army corps, lost about half of its strength.

"These actions occupied the Russian left, her right still being in Russian territory. It is evident that all the actions were part of a concerted movement with the surrounding of Lemberg as its objective, thus dealing a death blow to the Austrian defense."

Washington, Sept. 3.—Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, said while at the state department today he would make no protest against the purchase by Great Britain of munitions of war from American firms. The practice of nations in the observance of neutrality is not to restrict the traffic in contraband, the privilege to prevent such commerce on the high seas resting with belligerents in their right of search and capture.

The ambassador said the principal purpose of his visit to the state department was to introduce a new attache of the embassy. Later he had an engagement with President Wilson.

A charming prenuptial affair was a pink tea given this afternoon in honor of Miss Verne Bowser by Mrs. Harry M. Bowser at her home in Thomas street with Mrs. Jules Simon as assisting hostess. The party was to announce the date of Miss Bowser's wedding to Daniel Garwood Milligan on October 27 and the medium through which the time was stated was in tiny rolls of white paper with gilded letters that were tucked inside dainty favors of pink or green parasols. Miss Bowser found a flower covered parasol at her place at the supper table where the young women who are to take part in her bridal party were seated. Other guests were seated at small tables. Pink roses at each plate were other favors for the guests and white candles with pink tulle bows and pink asters for decoration made everything as beautiful as was the company of young girls and matrons in their summer gowns. The party was also a "shower" for the bride-elect and each guest had the privilege of bestowing any gift she chose. After the repast Mrs. Bowser's four-year-old son, Van, entered the room with one end of a pink ribbon in his hand and a gilded spool. In a pink and white satin colonial suit with wig of white the child made a picture no one will forget. Master Van handed the pink ribbon to Miss Bowser and told her to wind the spool and follow the ribbon which ended in her basket of gifts. It was a pretty sight and everyone present was delighted. Music during the time was a further provision made for the pleasure of the company. Covers at the tea were laid for twenty-four. Mrs. Louis Porter, of St. Louis, was a guest.

HIGHEST SINCE WAR BEGAN.

Wheat Prices Climb to New Top Notch in Chicago Market.

Chicago, Sept. 3. Wheat prices today advanced to the highest point since the beginning of the European war. May wheat touched $1.25¼, surpassing by ¼ cent the topmost level reached on the wild upturn a week or more ago.

Increasing belief that Turkey and Italy would be drawn into the conflict was largely responsible for today's rise in the market. Trading was more active than has recently been the case and there was said to have been a notable enlargement of export demand.

The advance today compared with last night was 3¾c to 5¾c a bushel, with the market finishing strong.

Ft. Wayne Business Houses Have Unclean Cellars, It is Said.

With a mass meeting in the assembly room of the court house this evening, the annual convention of the Indiana Fire Prevention association will come to a close.

Delegates attending the convention spent Thursday inspecting the business houses of the city's central district and some of the factories, and in discussing their findings at noon at the Anthony hotel, it was decided that Fort Wayne business men, as a rule, do not take much pride in keeping the basements and cellars of their establishments in tidy order.

Dozens of cellars were found to contain a very large amount of rubbish and refuse, fire hazards of the first order. Owners were told of the danger and advised to clean their cellars and reduce the risk of fire.

Reports of the sub-committee will be submitted at the meeting to be held this evening, and among other things on the program will be an address by Joseph Hubble, of Chicago, one of the country's best known and most efficient fire prevention experts. Representatives of the state fire marshal's office will also speak.

Public is Invited.

Everybody interested in fires and fire prevention is cordially invited to attend and everybody will find something of an interesting nature in the address to be given. Deputy State Fire Marshall Ralph Richmond will give an address on fire prevention that will be educational in every respect, and the entire program will be of interest to all property owners.

MEN NOW WEAR "LOW NECKS."

Chamonix, Switzerland, Sept. 2.—Men in "decollete" attracted more attention than women in flimsy fashionable dress in the principal Swiss towns and mountaineering resorts up to the outbreak of war.

The fashion consists of a white flannel or silk shirt, worn open at the neck, down to the second button, with a wide soft sailor collar flowing over the coat. It is called the "Schiller collar," and was "made in Germany," or at least the fashion is stated to have started there and has now spread to the Swiss and Austrians. English and American visitors have not adopted it, however, and they seem surprised to see men walking about in "low neck" both by day and night. That men are becoming women is the opinion of the sturdy Chamonix guides.

waiting for hours in the square in the expectation of a nannouncement as to the outcome of the deliberations of the sacred college, understood that a selection had been reached. The people applauded vigorously.

Announced the Election.

At twenty-five minutes before 12 Cardinal Della Volpe appeared on the balcony with Monsignor Capostosti bearing the pope's cross on his right, and pronounced the ritual announcing the election of Cardinal Della Chiesa. To this he added that the new pope had chosen the name of Benedict XV.
Again the crowd of several thousand persons cheered, and at once began to make their way into the basilica to hear the benediction of the new pontiff.

New Pope Appears.

At fifteen minutes before 12 the new pope appeared on an inner balcony of St. Peter's, clad in his pontifical robes. The balcony was hung with red velours and a heavy golden fringe decorated the railing.
The pontiff pronounced the apostolic benediction to the kneeling crowd below and immediately afterwards withdrew and entered his apartments.
It is asserted on good authority in Rome today that the new pope will appoint Cardinal Dominico Ferrata his secretary.

Sketch of the New Pope.

Cardinal Giacono Della Chiesa, who was today elected pope by the sacred college, in succession to Pius X, who died Aug. 20, was created a cardinal May 25, 1914. He is the archbishop of Bologna, Italy.
He was born at Pegli in the diocese of Genes November 21, 1854, and was ordained a priest December 21, 1878. He served as secretary of the Conciature in Spain from 1883 to 1887, in which year he was appointed secretary to the late Cardinal Rampolla.
He was appointed substitute secretary of state in 1901, and in 1907 he was elected to the post of adviser to the holy office.
In 1907 he was appointed papal nuncio of Madrid in succession to Mgr. Rinaldini, but this appointment was cancelled three days later. This incident had occurred just before he was made archbishop of Bologna. When Monsignor Della Chiesa was given this post it was declared in Rome it was mainly with the object of combatting modern religious ideas. Bologna being the headquarters of the national democratic league, whose members advocated what is known as "modernism" in religion. In January, 1914, while still at Bologna the present pope issued a pastoral letter strongly condemning the tango.

First of Title in 174 Years.

It has been 174 years since the time of the last pope Benedicte. In his election to the papacy in 1740, Cardinal Prospero Lambertini assumed that title. It is an interesting fact that the new pope was archbishop of Bologna while Pope Benedicte XIV was born in Bologna.
According to a dispatch from Rome, dated at 2:50 yesterday afternoon and received in New York early today, the White Star line steamer Canopic, bearing Cardinal Gibbons and O'Connell to Rome, was not due at Naples until tomorrow. Therefore it is probable that neither of these two American cardinals participated in the election of the new pope.

An Italian Chosen.

The choice falls on a cardinal of Italian birth, as was expected from tradition and also from the disturbed condition in Europe, which mitigated against the selection of a pope outside of the Italian hierarchy.
It was at the age of 24 that the new pope was ordained in the priesthood. He soon attracted the attention of Cardinal Rampolla, later secretary of state for Pope Leo XIII. When Cardinal Rampolla was made nuncio to Madrid he took Mgr. Della Chiesa with him as secretary of nunciature. On Cardinal Rampolla's return to Rome to become secretary of state for the vatican, Mgr. Della Chiesa entered the secretariat of state as one of the "minutanti" of minor officials until 1901, when he was appointed substitute of the secretariat and also secretary of the cypher.

Came Into Prominence.

As secretary to the secretary of state, Cardinal Della Chiesa was brought into notable prominence throughout the Catholic hierarchy, but his position was not at that time of cardinalist rank. On the accession of Pope Pius X, Mgr. Della Chiesa continued in the secretariat until December 16, 1907, when Piux X gave him a noted promotion to the position of archbishop of the important see of Bologna.
For seven years he administered the see of Bologna with notable success, until in May last Pope Pius named him among thirteen members of the hierarchy to receive the red hat.
The full title of the new pope, in addition to Benedicte XV, will be pope, bishop of Rome and successor of St. Peter, supreme pontiff of the universal church, patriarch of the west, primate of Italy, archbishop and metropolitan of the Roman province, sovereign of the temporal dominion of the holy Roman church.

NOT OFFICIALLY ADVISED.

Washington, Sept. 3.—The apostolic delegation has not yet been officially advised of the selection of the new pope. Word of the choice reached the delegation through press sources and great interest was manifested. It is pointed out that Cardinal Della Chiesa has had wide experience, both as administrator of the important see of Bologna and also on the diplomatic side as secretary of the nuncio at Madrid. He is described as a man of great spiritual character and one of the most highly esteemed in the hierarchy. He is about average height of stock build and rather quiet and reserved manners.

Investigation of sickness among men engaged in manufacturing shuttles in London from wood imported from Africa showed that the fine dust which they inhaled was a slow poison affecting the heart.

KID HIGHWAYMAN FACES A PRISON

Charles Jones, Montana Lad, Insists He is Guilty; So Does Companion.

"Guilty, guilty," said Frank Jones, a 19-year-old, undersized youth who says his home is in Butte, Mont., when arraigned in the city court on a charge of robbery. It was explained to him that the charge was serious. He still insisted on the standing of his plea.

Prosecutor Callahan again sought to impress the lad with the gravity of his situation and Judge Kerr advised him of his rights in the court to have a continuance and procure legal counsel.

"I am guilty, I say," repeated Jones and Judge Kerr put him under $1,000 bond for his appearance in the circuit court. He was taken to jail.

Kyle Pressler, aged 15, who was the companion of Jones in the snatching of a purse from Miss Emily Jacobs, 808 West Superior street, as she was going home Wednesday night, also pleaded guilty and was certified to the juvenile court and put in custody of the probation officer. Pressler's home is in Huntington. Jones appeared in that city a few days ago and Wednesday induced young Pressler to run away and come to Fort Wayne. They met Miss Jacobs on a dark part of Superior street, held her up, took her purse and fled. Officers Coulter and Ellyson were put on the case and soon afterward found Jones hiding under the Trier barn along the St. Mary's river. Later Officer Crawley joined them and the three made a further search, finding young Pressler hiding in the tall weeds. Both boys admitted their guilt and were locked up. The purse was recovered.

Abe Ochstein Again in Trouble.

"This is awful! Ain't it awful?" asserted and queried Abe Ochstein, a junker, charged with petit larceny and locked up in default of $100 bond for his presence Friday morning in the city court. However, trouble with the law is not a virgin experience for Abe and it did not perfectly ruin his appetite, for he performed handily with a bag of lunch his wife gave to him in his cell a few minutes later. He is charged with stealing brass from the Pennsylvania railroad.

Saloonist Is Fined.

John I. McKee, proprietor of the saloon at the corner of Columbia and Clinton streets, was fined $10 and costs for violation of the screen law. Testimony was taken in a protracted hearing Wednesday and a mass of very contradictory testimony was adduced. Judge Kerr could make little of it and took the case under advisement until Thursday morning. Wednesday night he made a personal inspection of the premises, "from outside, not inside the saloon," as he carefully explained, and gained the conviction that the law had been violated.

Other City Court Cases.

Frank Ryan, a cripple loiterer, begged "for God's sake" to be turned loose. "The Lord's sake doesn't appear greatly in issue here," but for the city's sake I'll let you go, if you'll go on and on and on, clear out and away forever," said the court. Ryan promised and hiked.

H. G. Waterhouse, charged with violating the traffic law in driving his automobile discharging passengers at Calhoun and Berry streets, Wednesday afternoon, was let go. It appeared that the violation was not wholly his fault.

"You look just as good to me as the next one or anybody—I'll just take a trifle from you," panhandled John Brady, a drunken cadger who was operating at the Wabash depot. Officer Walter Kavanaugh was the gentleman addressed and he paid prompt respect to the true deserts of Mr. Brady by throwing him in. Judge Kerr gave him $10 and costs on a drunk charge and he went to jail for twenty days.

John Mourning, a colored gentleman who had imbibed too much and got pinched, was turned loose, as was Dan Murphy, held for two or three days to get sober.

FINED FOR CARRYING GUN.

Truman Farrar, 23, Logansport, Ind., was fined $25 and costs in the court of Justice Nierman on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. Farrar is the young fellow who threatened to kill Miss Eva Eberling at the home of Mrs. Tilberry, in St. Joe township, because the young woman refused to meet him and caused alarm by loitering about the place, where he had been employed.

Cured His RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 92 A Marcellus avenue, Manasquan, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

A Lame Back-Kidney Trouble Causes It.

It don't take long for kidney and bladder trouble to give you a lame back, and even worse if not checked. Mrs. H. T. Stryange, Gainesville, Ga., was fairly down on her back with kidney trouble and inflamed bladder. She says: "I took Foley's Kidney Pills and now my back is stronger than in years, and my kidney trouble and painful bladder sensation have entirely gone." Good druggists are glad to sell Foley Kidney Pills because they always help. They contain no habit forming drugs. Dreier Drug Co.—Adv.

BORDEAUX TO BE FRENCH CAPITAL

Pressed by Germans, Government Departments Are Ordered Moved.

Paris, Sept. 3.—(12:02 a. m.)—A proclamation has just been issued by the government announcing that the government departments will be transferred temporarily to Bordeaux.

The proclamation was issued by the minister of the interior, who said the decision had been taken solely upon the demand of the military authorities because the fortified places of Paris, while not necessarily likely to be attacked, would become the pivot of the field operations of the two armies.

Text of the Proclamation.

The proclamation follows:

"Frenchmen: For several weeks our heroic troops have been engaged in fierce combats with the enemy. The courage of our soldiers has won for them a number of marked advantages. But in the north the pressure of the German forces has constrained us to retire. This situation imposes on the president of the republic and the government a painful decision.

"To watch over the national safety the public authorities are obliged to leave for the moment the city of Paris. Under the command of its eminent chief, the French army, full of courage and spirit, will defend the capital and its patriotic population against the invader. But the war must be pursued at the same time in the rest of the French territory.

"The struggle for the honor of the nation and the reparation of violated rights will continue without peace or truce and without a stop or a failure. None of our armies has been broken.

"If some of them have suffered only too evident losses the gaps in the ranks have been filled up from the waiting reserve forces, while the calling out of a new class of reserves brings us tomorrow to new resources in men and energy.

"Endure and fight. Such should be the motto of the allied army, English, Russian, Belgians and French.

"Endure and fight. While on the sea our allies aid us to cut the enemy's communications with the world.

"Endure and fight. While the Russians continue to carry a decisive blow to the heart of the German empire.

"It is for the government of this republic to direct this resistance to the very end and to give to this formidable struggle all its vigor and efficiency. It is indispensable that the government retain the mastery of its own actions. On the demand of the military authorities the government therefore transfers its seat momentarily to a point of the territory whence it may remain in constant relations with the rest of the country. It invites the members of parliament not to remain distant from the government in order to form, in the face of the enemy, with the government and their colleagues a group of national unity.

"The government does not leave Paris without having assured a defense of the city and its entrenched camp by all means in its power. It knows it has not the need to recommend to the admirable Parisian population a calm resolution and sangfroid for it shows every day it is equal to its greatest duties.

"Frenchmen, let us all be worthy of these tragic circumstances. We shall gain a final victory and we shall gain it by untiring will, endurance and tenacity. A nation that will not perish and which to live retreats before neither suffering nor sacrifice is sure to vanquish."

Cost Kept Down—Quality Kept Up.

No better medicine could be made for coughs, colds, croup, hoarseness, tickling throat, bronchitis, etc., than Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. That's why they can't improve the quality, and war or no war, the price remains the same. E. J. Sargent, Dallas, Texas, says: "I believe Foley's Honey and Tar has no equal for it completely relieved me of all symptoms of tuberculosis and my cough has entirely disappeared." Don't accept any substitute, for Foley's Honey and Tar is the best. Dreier Drug Co.—Adv.
